INSANITY PLEA SAVES WRIGHT

Fear New Nazi Coup in Czechoslovakia

FRANCE, BRITAIN ASK BERLIN TO EXPLAIN AIMS

Report Plan to Oust Austrian Regime.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—Reports reaching Paris late tonight via the diplomatic route indicated Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is preparing to deliver another ultimatum to Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, Austrian chancellor, at an early date. This time Schuschnigg would be compelled to resign with his cabinet, the reports said.

Yvon Delbos.

[Dispatches from Berlin said Nazi leaders there expected Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austria's new Nazi minister of interior would be the next Austrian chancellor.]

Alarmed over Hitler's coup in Austria and its possibilities, France, in accord with Great Britain, had their respective ambassadors at Berlin call on Joachim von Ribbentrop, new German foreign minister, and ask for an explanation of developments involving Austria. This decision was reached after Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister, had received Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps of Britain and Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, had received Ambassador Charles Corbin of France. Von Ribbentrop's replies to the ambassadors, if any, are not known.

Situation Called Grave.

There was no question so far of any diplomatic protest, although there was every evidence that the Austrian situation was considered as "very grave." It was indicated both nations are determined to follow the course of events closely.

French and British leaders believe their governments must act soon, if at all, to prevent complete subjugation of Austria, and what inevitably is considered the next step—an attack on Czechoslovakia.

It was envisaged in Paris that the Austrian Nazis would take a spearhead part in this attack, "coming to the aid of the oppressed Nazi brethren among the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia" and calling upon Hitler and his German legions for aid.

Hitler's Remarks Recalled.

That Hitler is planning an early move against the Czechs was indicated by his remark to Schuschnigg in their meeting Saturday at Berchtesgaden, Bavaria, that he wanted to establish a people of 80,000,000 Germans and that number would not be reached by the annexation of Austria.

[The German population is about 66,000,000 and that of Austria is about 7,000,000—a total of about 73,000,000.]

Dispatches from Prague, the Czech capital, indicated that the country lies in great danger. The Prague government, it was realized in Paris, will, in the very near future, have to take a decision on whether to come to terms with Hitler or continue to buck him.

In the first case President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia would launch his country in a policy which can end only in Czechoslovakia becoming a vassal of Germany, with Nazi control of both foreign and internal affairs as the price of nominal independence. In the second case Benes would assume responsibility for a policy which might result in Czechoslovakia being wiped from the map.

Aim to Strengthen Cabinet.

News from Prague was that Benes and Prime Minister Dr. Milan Hodza are considering a reorganization of the cabinet in order to strengthen it. This is being used by some political elements as a pretext for renewing the campaign to get members of the German Sudeten (German National Socialist) party into it.

Paris considered it virtually cer

State's attorney's police raided William J. Donovan's room in the St. Clair hotel at 162 East Ohio street last night in their investigation of the ball bat murder of Lloyd Rourke and the other violence of the Del Prado hotel strike. Donovan was not found, but his books and records were seized and Lieut. Thomas Kelly posted two men in the hotel to arrest him if he returns.

Capt. Dan Gilbert.

Donovan, founder and secretary and treasurer of the Inside Laundry Workers' union, is a power in the Trade and Crafts council, whose efforts to organize the Del Prado employés brought the strike. His arrest was ordered after Rourke's skull was crushed by terrorists. A second order for Donovan's arrest was issued after Rourke died. Police said they were also looking for Donovan's chauffeur, known as The Sherif.

McLane Refuses to Talk.

F. E. Langford, manager of the Del Prado, said Donovan frequently called on him while the Trades and Crafts council was demanding permission to come into the hotel to organize workers during working hours. Donovan formerly operated the Bon Air Country club.

George McLane, ex-bartender president of the Trades and Crafts council, surrendered voluntarily at the state's attorney's office earlier yesterday. He said he understood officials wished to talk to him, but refused to give any information on advice of his attorney, Harold Levy.

Summoned to Grand Jury.

A subpena for his appearance this morning before the grand jury was promptly served. The grand jury will attempt to question him, according to the state's attorney's assistants in charge, Mal Coghlan, Alexander Napoli, and William Crawford.

Police uncovered information they said strengthened charges by Capt. Dan Gilbert of the state's attorney's staf that McLane's organization has gangsters and racketeers in many of its salaried offices. They were told that Danny Stanton, prohibition era gangster previously mentioned in the investigation, is the real head of the Waiters' alliance, one of the council units.

Business Men Criticize Police.

Questioning of Samuel Deahl was taken over from the Hyde Park police by the state's attorney's men. Deahl is business agent for Donovan's union. The police said they were also interested in the activities of another business agent, Louis Romano of McLane's bartenders' union.

Some of the business men who appealed to State's Attorney Courtney to protect the hotel against the terrorism that continued after the murder criticized the police last night for not preventing the murder. Some members of the business group also declared that the inactivity of the police was discussed at the Courtney conference, attended by representatives of the Association of Commerce, the employers' association, the Greater Chicago Hotel association, and Langford.

Fraternizing Is Told.

These critics said the violence of the strike should have been quelled before Rourke unguarded although he had been threatened—was fatally clubbed in the seventh day of the disorders.

They said one of those at the conference asked why police who knew the terrorists were not assigned to the hotel. To this Mr. Langford replied pointedly that the police not only knew them but were chatting

Soviet Envoy Deserts Reds; Flees to Italy

ROME, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Fascists tonight toasted Jodor Budenko, a fugitive soviet chargé d'affairs from Bucharest, as a hero whose desertion of bolshevism gave them a trump card in their crusade against communism.

The stocky, black haired diplomat was shuttled by italian detectives from one Fascist official to another while he unburdened his story of flight from the Rumanian capital.

Budenko accused the Russian secret police of attempting either to kill or abduct him before he fled to the Fascist sanctuary.

Describes Soviet Plot.

"The soviet minister Ostrowski [M. S. Ostrowski, recalled to Moscow] left Bucharest Feb. 4," Budenko said. "The day before, a man arrived from Vienna and took up lodging in the legation. I suspected him. On Feb. 5 this individual, evidently a soviet agent, together with two other GPU agents, called three times and insisted that we go together to Sinaia.

"I said that I was ill, but the agents insisted. I wanted my chauffeur to go along, but they said the man from Vienna could drive. I then understood a plot was afoot to kill or kidnap me."

[After his disappearance Feb. 6 from Bucharest, soviet Russia protested to Rumania, asserting that Budenko was the victim of a Fascist political crime. Soviet officials in Moscow yesterday insisted he had been kidnaped or killed and declared that statements attributed to him in Rome either were forged or extorted.]

Decides on Final Break.

Budenko told Italian Fascists, including Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano: "Feeling myself an intellectual who could not tolerate treachery and who lived up to his ideals, I decided to break once and for all with bolshevism."

He declined to disclose publicly where he hid during the four days after he disappeared in Bucharest, or what he did in the interval of five days between his departure from Rumania and his arrival in Rome.

Budenko said he left the Bucharest legation Feb. 6, but remained hidden in the city until Feb. 10, when he headed for the border into Italy.

He said his wife and daughter, 6 years old, were in Leningrad "and now certainly are under arrest."

A GUEST OF MR. ROSEN RISES TO THE OCCASION AND FILES THE CHARGE

When he sat down in a chair in the office of Leo Rosen, manager of an electric sign company at 3122 Lawrence avenue, Harry Starr said yesterday, Mr. Rosen laughed heartily.

Mr. Starr said he didn't. The chair, he said, had been rigged with electricity as a practical joke. The wires, he added, burned him painfully.

Judge Samuel Heller of the Municipal court, who heard Starr's tale, issued a warant for Rosen's arrest, charging assault with a deadly weapon. Rosen insisted the whole incident was an accident. Starr lives at 3049 Gunnison street.

25 FRED SMITHS GO DINING WITH 25 MRS. SMITHS

Twenty-five couples had a party last night in the Congress hotel's Casino. They were a little shy at first because every person there was either Mr. or Mrs. Fred Smith.

They soon noticed, however, that the Fred Smiths on hand were alike only in name, ranging from young men to distinguished elders, one with a Van Dyke beard. Before the evening ended one Fred Smith was confiding in another his most embarrassing moment of mistaken identity, and the Mrs. Fred Smiths were adding stories of their own.

It was the first meeting of Fred Smiths in Chicago, patterned after ar organization, the Fred Smiths of America, formed in New York last year. There are 100 Fred Smiths listed in Chicago and suburban telephone directories.

Blast Skeeter Swamp; Up to Minnows Now

Motorists in the vicinity of 95th street and Mannheim road were astonished yesterday afternoon when a tremendous blast in the swampy forest preserve to the west tossed earth, rocks, and vegetation 300 feet in the air.

One, bolder than the rest, investigated. He found a crowd of about 100, including WPA and forest preserve officials, photographers, workmen, and plain visitors, looking with interest at a ragged hole 200 feet long, 60 feet wide, and of varying depth.

They Start with a Bang.

"What do they want a pond for?" asked the motorist.

"It's all on account of the mosquitoes," was the reply. "You see, if there's a pond the water from the swamp will drain into it. Then they'll put some minnows in the pond and they'll eat up the mosquito wigglers, so the mosquitoes won't eat up the people."

Further questioning brought out the information that conditions in the swamp while pondless were such that the mosquitoes were favored, while there was no place for the minnows, a voracious tropical variety known as the Gambusia affinis.

Wheel It Away, Boys!

All that remains to be done is to have WPA crews finish the pond by carrying away the material tossed up by the dynamite. The plan is to have the pond six feet deep. It is figured this will give the minnows enough room to keep out of the way of other fish and still do their mosquito eradication work.

The big blast was set off by L. E. Yettaw, foreman for the Willow Springs mosquito abatement district. H. M. McCullen, district director of the WPA, and three forest preserve officials, Robert Mann, superintendent of maintenance; J. Lyell Clark, engineer, and Joseph Reichert, superintendent of District No. 5, were present.

Slayer of Two Avoids Prison; May Go Free

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Paul A. Wright, convicted of manslaughter for the slaying of his wife and friend, tonight escaped a prison sentence when the same jury returned a verdict that he was insane at the time of the slayings. Wright still faces the ordeal of an examination by psychiatrists to determine his present sanity. Should he be found sane now, he will be released, possibly tomorrow. If found insane, he will be committed to a state institution.

Today's verdict came after three days of intermittent deliberation.

The jury Saturday had required only three hours to find Wright guilty of manslaughter when he killed his wife, Evelyn, and John B. Kimmel. Wright shot the two to death last Nov. 9 after finding them in an alleged embrace in his home.

Wright Weeps at Verdict.

As the jury filed slowly into Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull's courtroom, where for four weeks the sensational trial had been conducted, Wright trembled visibly. Chief Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler dropped his head on his arms on the counsel table. Dr. J. J. Wright, white haired father of the slayer, placed his arms around his son. As the verdict was read Wright burst into tears. Giesler and Dr. Wright embraced him in strong emotion. All were weeping.

"It appears to the court that the defendant has regained his sanity," Judge Bull announced. "I therefore remand the defendant to the custody of the sherif until his sanity has been decided in the manner prescribed by law."

Foreman Outlines Deliberations.

Foreman Joseph M. Stokes, who spoke to newspaper men when Judge Bull refused them permission to talk to the jury as a whole, declared the jury stood ten to two last night, but he did not say which way.

"There was no ballot in which the preponderance was for first degree murder," Stokes said. "Likewise there was no ballot in which the preponderance was for life. Nor was there a ballot in which the preponderance was for second degree murder. The problem was manslaughter or acquittal."

Stokes said the main differences among the jurors was in the understanding of evidence.

Sunbury, Pa., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Even chickens have cold feet these winter nights and appreciate a foot warmer. Five young men from Northumberland county discovered this weakness and ended up in jail. The method, they told the court, was to select a cold night and hold a warm stick parallel to the roost. The sleepy hens would step over to it and could be lifted quietly out of the coop.

PERKINS MARINE STAND ASSAILED BY J. P. KENNEDY

Chairman Urges Bill to Curb Violence.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—With the apparent approval of President Roosevelt, Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the federal maritime commission and ambassador designate to the court of St. James's, went from the White House to Capitol hill today and read a statement excoriating Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Joseph P. Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy, a red-headed Irishman who never runs from a fight, appeared before the senate commerce and labor committees and defended his bill to curb labor violence in the merchant marine. Boiling with indignation, he denounced the opposition of Miss Perkins and the C. I. O. maritime unions to the proposed legislation.

Premature, Secretary Says.

Secretary Perkins had called the legislation "premature," and said the time was not "ripe" for the establishment of mediation and arbitration procedure for maritime labor relations.

"This legislation is not regarded and will not be regarded as 'premature' by the American people simply because it is called 'premature' by those who will always so regard it as long as there is a chance of preventing its passage," said Mr. Kennedy.

"I submit that if the maritime industry is not 'ripe' for conciliation and mediation of its labor disputes, then it is overripe for ruin."

Members of the two senate committees, before whom Mr. Kennedy appeared in executive session, said he made it plain that he spoke with what he regarded as the approval of President Roosevelt. The senators took it for granted that Mr. Kennedy showed his statement to the President, although he did not tell them so. But by no means did the senators regard the bitterest family row in the experience of the Roosevelt administration as a settled affair.

Arrange White House Conference.

At Mr. Kennedy's suggestion a White House conference was arranged for tomorrow afternoon, to be attended by himself, Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.], chairman of the commerce committee, and Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the labor committee. Presumably Mr. Kennedy wants the President to tell the committee chairmen tomorrow afternoon what he was told this morning. An effort will be made, as one senator put it, "to pin the President down."

Secretary Perkins is out of town and members of the senate committees are afraid Mr. Roosevelt will agree with her, just as cordially as he agreed with Mr. Kennedy, if she returns and sees him before they get him "pinned down." At his press conference yesterday the President said he did not want to commit himself on the labor provisions of the pending bill because he had not discussed it with Secretary Perkins.

Members of the senate committees said Mr. Kennedy intimated that President Roosevelt had expostulated with Miss Perkins, urging her to withdraw her opposition to the merchant marine bill. Miss Perkins, however, not only refused to budge an inch but threatened to resign unless the President sided with her, the senators were told.

Doubt Either Will Resign.

Previously the senators had been informed that Mr. Kennedy threatened to resign his post as ambassador to Great Britain unless the President sided with him. But the opinion of those closest to the controversy is that there will be no resignation. One senator put it thus:

About the only thing certain in the present controversy, as the senators see it, is that Mr. Roosevelt is on one of the hottest spots in his career. Mr. Kennedy, his No. 1 trouble shooter, was induced to take the maritime commission chairmanship for the sole purpose of formulating a program to develop an American merchant marine, and his job has been universally acclaimed.

On the other hand, the legislation proposed by Mr. Kennedy is bitterly opposed by Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of labor and by the C. I. O., while the A. F. of L. is mildly against it. Without the support of the President the bill has no chance of passage, in the opinion of its sponsors in congress.

Strikes at Secretary.

By indirection, Mr. Kennedy slapped at Secretary Perkins for announcing her opposition to the pending bill in a letter to Ralph Emerson, lobbyist in congress for the C. I. O. maritime unions. She expressed the view in that letter that maritime labor was not sufficiently organized for mediation and arbitration procedure.

Referring to statements made by Emerson upon receiving Secretary Perkins' letter, Mr. Kennedy said:

"I submit that employés who have been able in the past few months to paralyze our water borne commerce by 'quickies' and sitdown strikes; employés, one of whose leaders feels so confident of discipline in union ranks that he challenges the power of congress to enforce this legislation, stating that the employés will not 'accept' it—are sufficiently organized for legislation which seeks to substitute mediation and conciliation for the strike and lockout.

Strikes Involve 40,000.

"The bare figures which show the waste in lost hours of work, lost wages, and lost freight revenues which have resulted from strikes and lockouts in maritime enterprises, are shocking. During the first ten months of 1937 such strikes and lockouts involved over forty thousand seamen. There were 451 maritime labor tie-ups affecting the trafic of every United States port. Seamen employed on vessels affected lost a total of 999,733 man hours of work. This figure does not include work lost by longshoremen.

"While it is not possible to estimate the losses arising from delay in freight movement caused by disturbances in the maritime labor situation, a few recent examples emphasize the complete dependence of producers and consumers in every section of the country upon stable and satisfactory labor conditions in our shipping industry.

Tells of Strike Losses.

"As a result of a stevedores' strike in Philadelphia in December, 1937, forty-five carloads of oranges and grapefruit remained in the holds of vessels which had brought them from Florida. Strikes on the Atlantic coast last October resulted in the diversion of thousands of tons of Florida citrus fruits to railroads and trucks with resulting losses to the citrus growers who were thus compelled to pay high transportation charges.

"Approximately 93 thousand bales of cotton, 90 per cent of it destined for export, were held at Charleston during last October because of a shipping strike; some of it remained in the streets subject to deterioration by the elements because of lack of sufficient storage facilities. Perishable foodstuffs could not be unloaded.

"The recent longshoremen's strike in Seattle took place at a time for large shipments of apples and caused the fruit growers of the northwest to suffer serious loss.

Porto Rico Food Shortage.

"Within the last few days the newspapers have carried accounts of a serious food shortage in Porto Rico as a result of shipping strike on the island. In San Juan butter is reported to have sold for $1.50 a pound. Prices of all commodities have sky rocketed and there is an impending serious shortage of food.

"Thus, it is clear that labor disturbances on the water front vitally affect the economic welfare of the country as a whole. A strike which ties up the port of New Orleans may depress the price of corn grown and sold for export by an Illinois farmer. Thereby, the Illinois farmers' ability to buy machinery in Chicago or meet payments on his mortgage to a Philadelphia insurance company is diminished and may even be destroyed."

Cites Railway Legislation.

Mr. Kennedy reviewed the history of legislation establishing conciliation and mediation machinery for railway labor relations and cited the remarkable success of the national mediation board under the railway labor act of 1926, amended in 1934. The pending bill would extend the scope of the mediation board to the maritime industry. It would not prohibit strikes, but would postpone them. If mediation efforts failed a special commission could be created to investigate the dispute and there could be no strike or lockout after the creation of the board and until thirty days after the submission of its report.

Mr. Kennedy recalled that even the secretary of labor acknowledged the successful experience of railway mediation and conciliation procedure, having stated before the senate committees that the present law offers "the fullest and most complete development of mediation, conciliation, voluntary agreement, and voluntary arbitration that is to be found in any law governing labor relations."

No Objections Voiced.

"It is surely significant," Mr. Kennedy said, "that not one witness has voiced a single sound objection to the details of the pending bill or has advocated any substitute. Every argument of opposition is summed up in the statement that to make the principles of the provisions of the railway labor act applicable to the shipping industry at this time would be 'premature' for the reason that the employés are not fully organized.' [Again he was quoting Secretary Perkins.]

"This is a strange argument. It is said to be 'premature' to put into operation machinery designed to prevent strikes and lockouts in an industry which in ten months of 1937 lost approximately one million man hours of work by strikes and lockouts.

"It is said to be 'premature' to act to bring order to a business wherein disorder during the last year adversely affected the business of every port in the United States.

"Grave reasons should be assigned to support a charge of 'prematurity' with respect to the enactment of this type of legislation."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The administration's latest plan to achieve agricultural prosperity by controling crops through subsidies became a law of the land this afternoon.

President Roosevelt affixed his signature to the bill as Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who becomes a dictator over agriculture, looked on. Wallace grinned broadly.

The President, too, flashed a broad grin. The bill was the first item on the legislative program for which he called a special session of congress last November to come to his desk in final form.

The bill is the third attempt of the administration to fit its farm aims into the framework of the constitution. The first, the AAA, was held invalid by the Supreme court. The second, the soil conservation program, was discarded by the administration because it was found that it did not give administration officials the power they believed necessary.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], proscribed by the Democratic organization for his opposition to President Roosevelt's attempt to pack the Supreme court, issued an appeal for an independent committee of 100,000 Hoosiers to work for his reëlection.

Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.] issued 4,000 invitations to a reception here on Feb. 23 for Paul Vories McNutt, United States high commissioner in the Philippines, the former governor of Indiana who wants to be the Democratic candidate for President in 1940. McNutt landed in Alameda, Cal., today on a clipper plane from the far east.

Plans to Run as Independent.

Inasmuch as the Democratic organization in Indiana built up by McNutt has turned thumbs down upon Van Nuys' candidacy for renomination, the senator entertains no illusions of victory in the Democratic state convention. But he is prepared in any event to seek reëlection as an independent candidate.

Ever since McNutt started home from the Philippines to launch his boom for President, there have been rumors, however, that peace might be patched up after all between Van Nuys and the organization whereby the convention would be turned into a love feast and the senator renominated by acclamation.

These rumors appear to be founded on the reasoning that McNutt would find it no easy undertaking to capture delegations to the Democratic national convention in 1940 from those states whose Democratic senators, like Van Nuys, fought the court packing bill and suffered Presidential proscription.

Question Awaits Attention.

Inasmuch as what McNutt needs to achieve his ambition is harmony and plenty of it, there is reason to believe that one of the first questions to claim the attention of the high commissioner and his political advisers when he reaches Indianapolis Saturday will be the Van Nuys candidacy.

If the friends and supporters of the senator rally to his cause in anywhere near the number aimed at, there will be a formidable Van Nuys organization. From the names of 500,000 Indianans who have written to him since he was elected to the senate, Van Nuys picked 100,000 to whom to send his appeal. Each letter contains a pledge card for the person addressed and another which each recipient is asked to get a friend to sign. Each signer will pledge himself to work for the senator's reëlection. If the results are encouraging, an additional 200,000 to 300,000 cards will be sent out.

Van Nuys Explains Appeal.

The Van Nuys appeal says in part:

"Less than ten months from now the people of Indiana will be called upon to decide their choice for senator. For thirty-seven years I have fought hard and consistently for the cause of true democracy. I have held the senatorship by vote of the people of the state for the last five years. During that time I have tried to represent you here to the best of my ability, voting for those measures that would bring to you the greatest measure of security, happiness, and prosperity.

"Certain persons in politics in Indiana have issued decrees calling for my elimination as a candidate for senator. I received my office and I will retire only if the people deny me the privilege of reëlection. No official, no clique, no politician or set of politicians can dictate my retirement from Indiana public life without first submitting it to the people themselves.

"To say the least, I need help. I need your help. I need the help of every thoughtful citizen, interested in unbossed representative government. And today, I address this letter to you with that thought in mind.

"I want to recruit an active, energetic group of 100,000 or more leaders in Indiana life to aid me by their support. I want each in his own sphere to give me earnest and wholesome backing."

With the return of McNutt, something like a triumphal progress appears to have been arranged for the high commissioner by Frank McHale, Democratic national committeeman for Indiana, who aspires to be to McNutt what Jim Farley is to Mr. Roosevelt. So McNutt will pause in his homeward flight to make speeches at several strategic points in the west and will reach Indianapolis just in time for prandial festivities in his honor Saturday night.

Then on to Washington to arrive on Washington's birthday and to appear at the reception being organized by Senator Minton the following day. If the high commissioner is to report to the President on Washington's birthday, however, it will be necessary for him to go to Hyde Park, for Mr. Roosevelt is leaving Friday and will not return until after the McNutt reception.

McNutt has been at great pains to invest his homecoming with the aspect of the higher statesmanship. According to the version wafted from Manila, the high commissioner had been summoned by the President to give him the inside and the real low down of what is going on in the far east and to advise him on the weighty problems of statecraft.

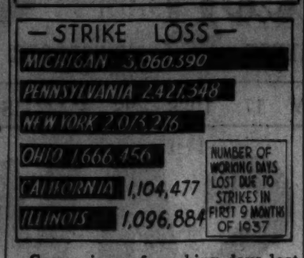
President Upsets Version.

In support of this conception, the high commissioner flew from Manila to Shanghai and conferred at length with Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commanding American naval forces in the far east, flew back to Manila and then flew home bursting with diplomatic and military secrets. Unfortunately for this version, the President, asked whether he had summoned McNutt, said he had not and that the high commissioner had sought and obtained permission to come home on a vacation.

Both the content and the manner of the presidential reply raised the question whether Mr. Roosevelt is entirely pleased by McNutt's boom for President. Mr. Roosevelt himself is looming pretty large as a contender for the nomination for a third term, and in any event has given evidence of partiality for Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson, whom Mr. Roosevelt has appointed solicitor general and is grooming for candidate for governor of New York in the election next fall.

It was the prominence that Jackson, Gov. George Earle of Pennsylvania, and others were attaining as presidential timber that is supposed to have caused McNutt to hop home to look after his own interests. After his sojourn at home McNutt will return to Manila to stay until August, when he is to resign to give undivided attention to his candidacy.

Illinois Record Best



Comparison of working days lost by labor because of strikes in six leading industrial states.

Illinois maintained its record as the lowest among six leading industrial states in the number of working days lost due to strikes in the first nine months of 1937, according to a statement of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. The state ranks third in the number of gainful workers.

Illinois workers lost 1,096,884 days due to labor strikes in the nine months. Michigan workers lost nearly three times as much. The Illinois record also was better than those of Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, or California.

The association estimated that the loss of wages to Illinois workers was $4,914,000.

QUARTER BILLION MORE RELIEF IS VOTED BY HOUSE

Aliens Barred from Aid by Amendment.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—After a move to take politics out of the spending of relief had been crushed, the house tonight passed, by a vote of 351 to 23, and sent to the senate a bill appropriating 250 million dollars as a special relief fund to supplement a billion and a half dollars already voted for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The small minority of twenty-three who dared vote against a relief appropriation in an election year was composed of 9 Democrats and 14 Republicans.

The only amendment adopted in the bill was one barring aliens from relief benefits. This was agreed to by a vote of 137 to 92. In the future applicants for relief and work relief must prove they have taken out their first papers or be deprived of federal assistance.

Requested by Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt requested the supplemental fund last Thursday. He said the need for the additional quarter of a billion dollars was caused by the business slump which has resulted in 3 million persons losing their jobs in the last few months.

All attempts by a group of radical Democrats to increase the appropriation were defeated. The main test came on an amendment by Representative Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.] to make the appropriation 400 millions instead of 250 millions. This lost, 189 to 71.

Representative Robert L. Bacon [R., N. Y.] proposed the amendment which would have made it unlawful to use relief funds for political purposes. Persons found guilty of such a use of relief money would be subject to a fine of $500, a year in prison, or both, the amendment provided.

"It is a well known fact," Bacon told the house, "that relief funds have been thrown into districts prior to primaries or elections for the purpose of influencing voters."

Kentucky Reports Cited.

He referred to widely published reports that the vast WPA machine would work for Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley in his coming battle for the Democratic nomination for senator of Kentucky against Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler.

"Let's do away with the possibility that the federal dollar can be used to buy votes," Bacon pleaded with the house.

Representative Paul W. Shafer, [R., Mich.] declared there was "an overwhelming mass of evidence that relief has been prostituted to political campaign purposes in the past and undoubtedly will be in the forthcoming elections."

Majority Leader Sam Rayburn refused to discuss Bacon's charges other than to term his amendment "political in purpose." He made a point of order against the amendment that it was "legislation on an appropriation bill," and the point of order was sustained by the chair.

The amendment prohibiting the extending of relief to aliens was proposed by Representative Fritz Lanham [D., Tex.]. It was approved by the close teller's vote of 87 to 84 after it had apparently been defeated on a standing vote by 87 to 79.

Lanham pointed out that the present relief act provides that the WPA shall not knowingly employ aliens but does not specify that any investigation should be made to determine if an applicant is an alien or citizen. The amendment puts the burden of proof on the applicant in claiming citizenship.

Veterans Are Exempted.

Exempted from the provision would be aliens who have applied for their first papers and veterans of the world war.

Representative Joe Starnes [D., Ala.] argued in behalf of the amendment, asserting that hundreds of thousands of aliens have been receiving relief for five years or more without making a gesture towards obtaining citizenship.

GAG RULE REJECTED AGAIN BY SENATE IN LYNCH BILL DEBATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—For the second time this session, the senate today refused to adopt the cloture rule to pass the Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill, against which southern senators have filibustered intermittently since Jan. 6.

With 88 senators voting, a majority of two-thirds, or 58 votes, would have been required to adopt cloture and shut off debate, while the advocates of cloture failed again to get a simple majority. The vote was 46 against cloture and 42 for it, as compared with a vote of 51 to 37, respectively, on Jan. 21.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, a supporter of the bill, conceded that the failure of cloture for the second time meant that there would be no anti-lynching legislation at this session of congress. He said the bill would be laid aside, probably Monday, and supplanted by the $250,000,000 deficiency relief appropriation bill.

STRIKE TRUCE IN METAL INDUSTRY WON BY FRANCE

PARIS, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Premier Camille Chautemps' government tonight sought means of preventing another great strike wave as it won an eight day "truce" from 70,000 northern metal workers.

Eight unions in Valenciennes demanded an immediate strike in a drive for wage increases but bowed to the decision of twenty-five other unions in the north to allow Louis Oscar Frossard, minister of state, to try again for a compromise.

Frossard and Paul Ramadier, minister of labor, put ministry of labor experts to work to solve the difficulty. Before the "truce" 30,000 steel workers had given the government until tomorrow to try to persuade employers to grant demands for more pay.

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Suits for $30,000 damage were filed in Circuit court here today by Alsie B. Edlin and his wife Lora of Indianapolis, against the Keeshin Motor Express company, as a result of an accident here last Nov. 5 when a truck backed into the Edlin automobile. Mrs. Edlin seeks $20,000 for injuries, including a fractured spine. Her husband asks $10,000.

BOARD TO APPEAL COURT'S OUSTER OF 40 PRINCIPALS

School Order Annuls List of 155 Eligibles.

Judge Grover C. Niemeyer will be asked this morning by attorneys for the board of education to stay the injunction he issued yesterday annulling the 1937 eligible list of principals until the case can be appealed. His order also reduced to the rank of teacher forty men and women appointed from this list as grade school principals, and stopped the extra salary accompanying their executive positions.

Frank S. Righeimer, attorney for the school board, and Joseph Fleming, special counsel, who opposed the injunction, last night served notice of their plans to fight the case in higher courts. If denied a writ of supersedeas by Judge Niemeyer, the lawyers said they would ask its issuance by the Illinois Appellate court to give them time to file their briefs.

Plans Temporary Appointments.

Meanwhile the forty grade schools, in effect, are without nominal supervisors. Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent, notified the principals last night that their positions are vacant. He instructed them to meet with him this morning, when he will announce plans to place them in other teaching positions, and appoint temporary replacements.

Judge Niemeyer acted on the suit of Dr. Hiram B. Loomis, retired principal of the Hyde Park High school, and Russell B. Wise, a teacher at the Kelly elementary school. Wise took the examination for principalships in 1936 and his name did not appear on the subsequently posted eligible list. Charging the examination was invalid for several reasons, they asserted that grades were arbitrarily given by the examiners as the result of an attempt to Tammanyize the school system through political favoritism and regimentation.

The bill said that one of the three examiners was Harry S. Crane, who was appointed in 1926 for a two year term and never reappointed. Dr. Loomis and Wise also complained that 25 per cent of the test was given over to oral examination. This proportion, they said, was too high.

Denies Motion to Dismiss.

No evidence was heard yesterday by Judge Niemeyer because the school board elected to stand on its motion to dismiss the bill. Board attorneys held it was insufficient and that the plaintifs could not prove they were injured. This motion was denied when the court issued the injunction.

Previously James B. McCahey, board president, and Dr. Johnson termed the charges ridiculous and defended the examination and the examiners. They said the tests were difficult, but fair.

In November of 1936 a committee of sixty-seven college professors began grading papers written by 800 candidates. After this was completed the candidates were given character ratings and oral examinations by the board of examiners. On April 29, 1937, the names of 155, who were successful, were posted.

Following are the principals demoted by court order and the schools to which they were assigned:

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the south and Mexico, they will live at the hotel. GIRL ATHLETE ON TRIAL AS SLAYER TESTIFIES TODAY

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—How the threat of the electric chair was used to force a murder confession from Mary K. O'Connor, college girl athlete, will be told by her tomorrow unless she wins a directed verdict of acquittal in the slaying of Nancy Glenn, 5 years old, last September.

Her counsel indicated this in cross-examination of detectives accused of third degree tactics just before the state rested late today. Besides Miss O'Connor, the only other defense witness probably will be her friend, Mrs. Marie Phillips, former Olympic athlete, to whom Mary originally confided her part in the death of Nancy.

Detective Captain John T. Murphy testified today that Miss O'Connor told him she struck Nancy with her fist because the child annoyed her. Then, he said she related, when she found Nancy had stopped breathing she placed a sheet of tin over her and fled. The case is expected to reach the jury by tomorrow night.

Washington, Ind., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—J. C. Hight, about 55 years old, a salesman, was killed today when his car collided head on with a large transport truck on a bridge over the old bed of White river four miles west of Washington on U. S. Road 50.

COUNCIL CAN BAN DOUBLE MOVIES, HODES DECIDES

Rules on Health Aspect; Ordinance Promised.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes ruled yesterday that it is within the power of the city council to outlaw double feature motion pictures, to which political leaders, civic groups, and various women's clubs have objected.

When he learned about Hodes' opinion, Ald. John J. Grealis [44th] announced that he would introduce at the council's next meeting on March 2 an ordinance prohibiting double feature programs.

Requested by Alderman.

Hodes' opinion was requested by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the council subcommittee on health. Last month Dr. Herman N. Bundeson, president of the board of health, told him double features are harmful, causing eye-strain, overstimulation, and loss of sleep.

If it can be established that the length of the programs has any connection with the health of the community, Hodes said, the city has the power to regulate programs by legislative action.

"One of the most important powers of the city is that of caring for the health of the community," he asserted. "When the city council considers something dangerous to the health of the community, and in the exercise of its discretion passes an ordinance to prevent such a danger, it is the policy of the law to favor such legislation."

Seeks Opinion on Limits.

Motion picture shows may be injurious to the public welfare, he said, and if they are improperly managed or not fully regulated they are subject to the exercise of police power.

Ald. Grealis said he will ask Dr. Bundesen for his opinion on a reasonable time limit for programs.

"I have always criticized double features," he said. "They are tiresome, unhealthy, and a detriment to the community. Mr. Hodes' opinion is what we have been waiting for."

"We will do all we can to have the ordinance passed," commented Mrs. Louis L. Perlman of the Congress of Parents and Teachers. "We believe it will benefit our children."

Wedding Delayed; Chicago Girl Demands $150,000

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Gottfried W. Krueger of Miami and Newark, N. J., today was named defendant in a $150,000 breach of promise suit filed in Circuit court by Miss Marie Young of Chicago. Her attorney, James M. Carson, said Miss Young informed him that Krueger is a member of the wealthy brewing family. Miss Young in her suit charges that Krueger's refusal to marry her caused her loss of character, shame, and sorrow.

Forgets Marriage

Peggy Lawton Rich, actress, greeting Mark Shull.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Peggy Lawton Rich, blonde actress, told a Supreme court referee today that she could not recall having married her fourth husband, and she asked for an annulment. She wants to marry Mark Shull, formerly an orchestra leader under the name of Michael Tree and now a civil engineer, of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Mrs. Rich told Referee Thomas C. T. Crain that when her roommate informed her, in September, 1936, that she had become the bride of Theodore Royce, British theaterical impresario, she was, to put it mildly, greatly surprised.

She had only known Royce a short time, she said, and he had invited her to a cocktail party which ended, she later learned, before a justice of the peace in Westchester.

CAPPER OPPOSES SECOND FEDERAL JUDGE IN KANSAS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Senator Capper [R., Kas.] denounced as court packing today a proposal to provide an additional federal district judge for Kansas.

Capper appeared before a senate judiciary subcommittee considering a proposal to carry out recommendations of the judicial conference and the attorney general for appointment of twenty-seven new federal judges.

"There is absolutely no need for an additional federal judge for Kansas," Capper said. "There is no more necessity for packing this Kansas court than there was for packing the Supreme court. I opposed the Supreme court packing and I'm opposed to this Kansas court packing."

The single judge now presiding in Kansas, Capper said, had been able to handle twice as much litigation as he now had before him.

CURLEY GUILTY OF TAKING 'GIFT' IN DAMAGE SUIT

Former Mayor of Boston Ordered to Repay City.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Former Gov. James M. Curley "corruptly accepted" $30,000 in the settlement of a damage suit against the city while he was mayor of Boston in 1933, Judge Frederick W. Fosdick ruled today.

The court held that Curley should repay $37,575 in principal and interest, together with costs of the action brought by the city to recover from him and Dr. Joseph Santosuosso $50,000 out of an $85,000 payment made to the General Equipment corporation, in settlement of a damage suit. Dr. Santosuosso, who acted as attorney for the corporation, was ordered to repay $25,050.

The court indicated that the statements of both defendants at the trial of the city's case last November laid them open to possible grave charges. "I find consciousness of guilt on the part of both defendants," Judge Fosdick said, "in that each testified falsely before me in material matters."

Over the telephone from Miami, Fla., where he is at the bedside of his brother John, critically ill, Curley declined tonight to make a statement, referring questioners to his counsel.

The basis of the city's case in the suit instituted against Curley and Dr. Santosuosso was that the former mayor and the attorney, acting as intermediary, entered into an agreement by which both were enabled to pocket "gifts" or "fees" in the amounts mentioned, as rewards for settlement of the damage action brought by the corporation in an amount satisfactory to all concerned.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ethel Sohl, 20 years old, and Genevieve Owens, 17 years old, were sentenced today to spend the rest of their lives at hard labor in prison. The sentence actually means they must spend from fifteen to twenty years in the state reformatory for women at tasks that may not be labor nor very hard.

Oyer and Terminer court officers said there were not enough jobs to go around at the reformatory in Clinton. Prisoners usually get vocational training in sewing, cooking, stenography, and other classes. There are so many prisoners the chores on gardens and on the farm are made easy.

A verdict of first degree murder, with a recommendation for mercy, was returned last night against the two girls. Mrs. Sohl testified at the trial that she held up William Barhorst, a bus driver, in Belleville last Dec. 21 and, pointing a rifle at him, demanded his money. She said he pulled a rifle and it was discharged accidentally, killing him. Miss Owens waited for her chum in an automobile parked near by.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

TRACE RECORDS OF 7 MEN WHO FIX U. S. COAL PRICES

Reveal Methods Used in Selecting Them.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The National Bituminous Coal commission is composed of seven members. Each receives an annual salary of $10,000.

The duties of the commissioners are stupendous. The act requires them to establish minimum prices for all grades and sizes of coal sold in commerce. This involves the establishment of between 30,000 and 50,000 separate and distinct prices.

With these facts in mind, it becomes proper to inquire not only into the methods used by the commission to establish these prices [which are under fire throughout the United States] but the technical knowledge, training and experience of the men who exercise such vast and complicated powers.

Selected By President.

Of public interest also is the method used by President Roosevelt in selecting men for these seven posts.

The manner in which Commissioner Walter H. Maloney, of Kansas City, Mo., was selected is an indication of how important governmental boards are formed under the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Maloney was an attorney. He was senior partner in the firm of Maloney, Schwimer & Bredehoft of Kansas City. Mr. Maloney had important political connections. He was a close friend of Tom Prendergast, boss of the notorious Prendergast machine.

Mr. Maloney aspired to be a member of the federal board of tax appeals. He believed that his legal training would make him useful in such a position. With Prendergast backing, his name was sent to Washington as a candidate for the tax appeals post. It carried a sheaf of recommendations from important political powers.

Post Given to Another.

It so happened that another candidate, with just as influential political backing, already had been picked for the board of tax appeals job. But the Maloney petition was too weighty to be disregarded. The bituminous coal act just had been passed. Seven new $10,000 jobs were available. Mr. Maloney became a coal commissioner.

The lawyer returned to Kansas City from a hunting trip in the north to be informed that he was a member of the bituminous coal commission.

"Hell," remarked Mr. Maloney in surprise. "I wanted to be a member of the board of tax appeals. I don't want a coal job."

However, ten thousand dollar a year appointments are not to be spurned and Mr. Maloney accepted the appointment. He is one of the seven who have fixed thousands of minimum coal prices which are being attacked as unjust and discriminatory.

Mr. Maloney's Own Story.

The above story is not based upon hearsay. It came from the lips of Mr. Maloney himself when the direct question was put to him concerning how he became a comissioner.

Another commissioner is Pleas E. Greenlee of Shelbyville, Ind. Mr. Greenlee is a justly popular man. He is most affable and courteous to every one. He is a former newspaper man, having served as city editor of the Shelbyville Democrat.

Mr. Greenlee also has important political connections. He was secretary to Paul V. McNutt when the latter was governor of Indiana. While holding this position, Mr. Greenlee was the Jim Farley of the Democratic party in Indiana, having control over the distribution of patronage. He was fired by McNutt when the secretary entertained gubernatorial ambitions of his own and ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination. He became campaign manager of Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana and to Minton he owes his appointment as commissioner.

Mr. Greenlee is most frank in confessing his own lack of knowledge concerning the coal industry. He once remarked to a circle of intimates, it is told, that he knew nothing about coal.

"I'm here to get jobs for deserving Democrats," said Mr. Greenlee with his engaging smile. [There are more than 1,200 of those jobs on the coal commission staf. How those jobs will be filled is another story.]

The coal act of 1937 specifies that two members of the commission shall have been experienced bituminous mine workers. Both were handpicked by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chief and president of the United Mine Workers. Lewis also wielded considerable influence, through Senator Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania, author of the act, in selecting other members of the commission.

For the first representative of the miners on the commission, Lewis chose a fellow Welshman with the same name, John C. Lewis of Des Moines, Ia. Mr. Lewis came to this country from Wales in 1881 when he was five years old. He was in the mines of Boone county, Iowa, at the age of 11.

Rises to Lead Iowa Labor.

In 1913 he became a member of the executive board of his district in the United Mine Workers. Later he was president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor. In 1936 he was appointed representative to the international labor conference in Geneva.

As his second man on the commission, the C. I. O. chief picked Capt. Percy Tetlow of Columbus, O., who was president of the United Mine Workers, district No. 6, of Ohio, at the time of his appointment. Capt. Tetlow had a splendid war record in a machine gun battalion, is happily married, has three children, and undoubtedly takes orders from Lewis in regard to all matters affecting the coal industry.

The chairman of the commission, Charles F. Hosford Jr. of Pittsburgh, is Senator Guffey's man. He was born in Bloomington, Ill., but his family moved early to Butler, Pa. He received his bachelor degree at Princeton university and his law degree at Harvard. His biography in the coal commission records terms him "lawyer and coal executive." His friends confess he is more the former than the latter. He lost his shirt in the coal business and thereupon conceived a high regard for government regulation of the industry.

Sponsored by Barkley.

Thomas S. Haymond of Fleming, Ky., was appointed to the commission under the august sponsorship of Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and Representative Fred M. Vinson of the same state, recently honored by President Roosevelt with a federal court appointment.

Mr. Haymond was general manager of the Elkhorn Coal corporation at the time of his appointment. This company is controled by former Senator Clarence W. Watson, West Virginia Democrat.

The seventh commissioner is Clarence E. Smith of Fairmont, W. Va., newspaper publisher. He is a relative of former Senator Watson, who is a power in West Virginia politics, a d his appointment is reported due to Watson's influence, although Senator Matthew M. Neely [D., W. Va.], is his official sponsor.

These are the seven men who rule the soft coal industry under power of an act which imposes a tax of 19½ per cent on the sale price of coal disposed of against their regulations.

The seven commissioners who establish minimum prices for all grades and sizes of coal under federal act, and their counsel. Because of the criticism which has been leveled at them in the exercise of their wide powers, the methods used in selecting the commissioners and their training and fitness are matters of widespread interest.

GYPSIES BRING 2 WOMEN LUCK, ALL OF IT BAD

"We've come to bring you luck," said one of two Gypsy women who called yesterday at the home of Mrs. Pauline Travelstead, 2135 Warren boulevard.

Mrs. Travelstead said she could use some and the Gypsies explained that all she had to do was give them some money and they'd take it to a church and have it blessed. She handed over $28. The Gypsies went then to Mrs. Maxine Yack, 2148 Adams street, who was so enthusiastic about the proposal that she risked $21 and two dresses.

The luck didn't turn for Mrs. Travelstead and Mrs. Yack. The Gypsies, the money, the dresses, and their faith in human nature were all missing last night.

NORWOOD PARK SCHOOL BUILDING TO START TODAY

Ground will be broken this afternoon for construction of the new $1,385,000 Norwood Park High school at Hurlbut and Natoma avenues. The school will accommodate 1,827 pupils and will relieve congestion at Carl Schurz High school, according to James B. McCahey, president of the board of education. The school board will use material contracted for the proposed Galileo school at Central and Fullerton avenues, on which construction was stopped in 1931 when the board adopted economy measures. Ald. William J. Cowhey [41st], John C. Christensen, school board architect, and Nels Olson, board member, will talk at the exercises today.

1934 CITY LEVY OF $1,300,000 IS RULED INVALID

A ruling yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court invalidated $1,300,000 of Chicago's 1934 tax levy, but the city will suffer the loss of only about one-fourth this amount because a majority of taxpayers paid the disputed levy without protest.

The ruling held that the $1,300,000 portion of the levy was illegal due to an improper method of providing for interest on tax anticipation warrants. The interest, the decision held, is payable only out of the taxes against which the warrants are issued.

The Springfield decision upset a ruling by the Cook County court on a suit by Earl K. Schiek, a taxpayer, which attacked the levy.

ENGINEERS TELL FAULTS IN PLAN FOR CONGRESS ST.

High Cost and Low Safety Rating Pointed Out.

BY HAL FOUST.

Fundamental faults in the Congress street superhighway plan were described in a report received yesterday by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. A detailed analysis, prepared by his staf technicians, reached the following conclusions:

1. The waste of public funds would be greater than has been surmised.

2. The proposed construction would abet and not abate Chicago's motor massacre.

3. Mayor Kelly's committee which recommended the construction might be suspected of bad faith in proposing extensions and improvements to be constructed after the highway has been built.

Opposes Use of Gas Tax.

'We cannot permit this expenditure of millions of dollars of gasoline tax money for a real estate promotion," said Hayes. "The money is sorely needed for a west side elevated highway to save lives and limbs of pedestrians and motorists."

George W. Barton, chief engineer for the club, found that the cost of land and buildings for the 209 foot right of way probably would exceed by far previous estimates of $17,000,000. The mayor's committee adopted a state estimate of $15,684,000 for a 200 foot right of way. The Chicago Plan commission estimated $15,713,000 for a 120 foot right of way, and the firm of Bennett, Parsons, & Frost and I. F. Stern estimated $17,610,000 for a right of way of 126 and 146 feet width.

Calls Cost Diversion of Fund.

"This cost of right of way, which they propose should be paid by motorists, is a direct diversion of road funds to realty development," said Hayes. "A west side elevated highway can be built at other locations without any substantial right of way costs. Therefore the proposal before the council is winding the mainspring in the trafic death clock."

Barton found that the scheme for a trestle to carry express pavements over twenty north and south streets would place fast travel on grades ranging from 3 to 5 per cent for half of the distance between Halsted street and Central avenue. It would be a roller coaster with thirty-one north and south streets closed for the dips in Congress.

'The city hall engineers themselves rate the Congress design as only 69 per cent as safe as a perfected elevated pavement and only 80 per cent as safe as an elevated highway plan presented to them by the Chicago Plan commission," said Mr. Barton.

"After recognizing the superiority of an elevated design, the mayor's engineers recommend first building a pavement in accordance with the wishes of those who have depressed realty to sell to the public. Later they would convert the road into an elevated. There would be little salvage in such a conversion. About $3,000,000 worth of slab would have to be torn up. Other expenses, including a rearrangement of utilities, would waste another $1,000,000.

Prohibitive Cost in Loop.

"The city hall engineers concede that for satisfactory service Congress street would have to be opened through the downtown business district to Michigan avenue. Their present plan calls for construction as far east as Wells street. Then they recommend opening to Michigan at some future date without mentioning the prohibitive cost of tearing through large buildings where no street now exists.

"These recommendations for future elevation of Congress street and for future opening to Michigan avenue have the earmarks of bad faith."

SUPREME COURT BLOCKS TOUHY'S FREEDOM PLEA

Roger Touhy's move to get out of Stateville penitentiary was blocked yesterday when the Illinois Supreme court denied him permission to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Touhy, Gus Schaefer, and Albert Kator were sentenced in 1932 to 99 years in prison for the ransom kidnaping of John Factor, market speculator. Touhy accused Factor of staging a fake abduction to prevent his return to England, where he faced trial for an alleged stock swindle.

DRIVER FATALLY HURT AS AUTO HITS GUARD RAIL AT UNDERPASS

Injured early yesterday when his car crashed against a guard rail of the pedestrian underpass at Cicero and Ogden avenues, Arch W. Livingston, 28 years old, of 542 Pine avenue, died last night in the Berwyn hospital. A companion, Fabian C. Francis, 39 years old, of 5644 Lake street, is still in the hospital in a critical condition.

Moy Yung, a Chinese 33 years old, who lived at 8148 Dobson avenue, died yesterday of injuries incurred Tuesday night when he was struck by an automobile in front of 8133 Cottage Grove avenue, near which address he maintained a laundry business. The driver was Michael Leen, 29, of 539 West 42d place.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 138 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since the first of the year. Of these, 116 were killed in Chicago, where 2,219 were injured in the same period.

TURN NEW LIGHT ON INSANE-SANE TERRORIST CASE

Crime Commission Tells Leniency in 1933.

Officials of the Chicago crime commission said yesterday that their investigators had made reports five years ago sharply critical of the leniency shown by the courts to John Harbut, a criminal accused of more than forty robberies.

Evidence was presented against Harbut in only eight cases. The grand jury indicted him on four charges. One indictment came to trial, but the jury found the defendant insane and committed him to the state asylum at Chester. Three and a half years later, in November, 1936, he was released, and the psychiatrist who had held him insane while he was on trial declared him sane again.

Back to Robbery Again.

Harbut came to the attention of the authorities again on Tuesday night, when he leaped into an automobile on the northwest side, terrorized and robbed a young couple and seemed much pleased when they believed his story that he was Paul Harrison, escaped madman and hammer slayer. He was arrested soon afterward.

The officials of the crime commission said it would be useless now to reinstate the other three indictments against the criminal, since the crimes were committed at a time when he was legally held insane. They pointed to the report of an investigator who listened in 1933 when the evidence of the eight crimes were presented to Judge John Gutknecht. It read, in part:

"Courts take the path of least resistance, while the prosecutor looks on with indifference. Harbut cannot be known as the terrorist who committed forty violent crimes when his number of crimes has been reduced to one-fifth that number. If he is indicted in but one, in the event he is convicted, he is looked upon as a first offender. And the trial judge does not know the truth. With one case on his call he is likely to reduce the charge to a misdemeanor."

Alienist Explains His Findings.

Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, head of the criminal court behavior clinic who examined Harbut at the time of his trial in 1933, said yesterday that he had found him suffering from traumatic psychosis—insanity caused by injury—then. His insanity took the form of cruelty to his wife and a lack of memory. The psychiatrist concluded that he was committable to an institution and the jury followed his recommendation.

On Nov. 2, 1936, Dr. Hoffman again examined Harbut, just returned from Chester, and found he had undergone a definite personality change and was quiet and sane. The robbery charge on which he was originally tried was then dismissed and the other three indictments stricken with leave to reinstate.

Dr. Hoffman stood behind his two scientific findings yesterday. The crime commission records show also that Dr. Harry A. Paskind of the behavior clinic examined Harbut in the fall of 1936 and found that he had no mental disease and should not be held in any state institution for the insane.

RESCUE PLANES REACH RUSSIANS ADRIFT ON FLOE

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Rescuers reached the four Russian polar campers today when two airplanes from soviet ice breakers landed near their drifting ice floe off Greenland.

They did not immediately make an effort, however, to take the scientists from the floe, their home during more than eight months of drifting southward from the North Pole.

Commander Ivan Papanin of the Polar camp sent word he would advise leaders of the rescue expedition later when and how his men should be taken off the floe.

HO, HUM! SLEEPY WALKATHON CAST GET BEDS IN JAIL

'What Day Is It?' Reply to Theft Charge.

The squads that arrested the fourteen sleepy walkathon performers were yawning themselves when they herded the young men and women into the detective bureau yesterday. With the critical eye of Lieut. Richard Berry upon them, the policemen explained hurriedly:

"We ain't sleepy. They all kept yawning and got us doing it."

Lieut. Berry then began questioning the dull eyed crew about charges telegraphed here from Springfield that some of them had been involved in a $1,000 jewelry theft and had stolen coats from a clothing store.

Snore Their Denials.

All listlessly denied the charges, explaining that their walkathon had closed at 5 a. m. Tuesday after they had walked three weeks. None of the advertised prizes was paid. The fourteen drove to Chicago after only a few hours' sleep.

When their spokesman mentioned sleep the others promptly began to snore. Lieut. Berry stifled a yawn, prodded them awake, and continued the questioning. Finally he ordered three women and five men held and exited, yawning openly. The eight were locked in cells and went to sleep. They awakened later and asked where they were and why.

Mr. Hughes Is Confused.

"What time is it? Three o'clock? In the morning? O, has another day gone by? Is it really afternoon?" asked Johnnie Hughes, 25 years old, of New York, who with his partner, Peggy Jackson, 22, of Peoria, was declared winner, but failed to receive the advertised $1,000 in prize money at Springfield.

He gets a lot of money thrown at him on the floor when he sings and does dramatic reciting, Hughes said—sometimes $8 a week. With him in cells were George ["Inky"] Ingram, 27, of Buckeye Lake, O., 11 years in marathons, an oldtimer who started when marathons lasted only from 500-800 hours; Edwin Dietz, 34 years old, of Des Moines, Ia., a magician as well as marathoner, and Tony Marsh, 21, of Omaha. Marsh's entertainment on the marathon floor consists of imitating Amos and Andy, Walter Winchell, and Ben Bernie, which he does expertly, he said.

With them also was Paul Edwards, automobile salesman of Springfield, who paid the winning team $10 a week as sponsor. He and his girl, Elmenia Flynn, 21, of Springfield, drove them here. Elmenia was locked up with Peggy and Bobbie Davis, 20, of Peoria. Bobbie nodded between questions and answers.

18 IN BROKERAGE HOUSE SEIZED ON BLUE SKY CHARGE

Eight More Accused of Unregistered Sales.

Seven partners and former partners and eleven salesmen of Marks, Laser & Co., brokerage house with offices at 231 South La Salle street, were arrested yesterday and charged with violating the state blue sky laws. Four other partners and former partners and four other salesmen have been named in warants. The arrests followed investigations by the state's attorney's office, the secretary of state, and the Securities and Exchange commission.

The men are charged with selling securities that had not been registered with the securities division of the secretary of state's office. Eugene O'Connor, chief investigator for the securities division of the state's attorney's office, said the concern disposed of 30,000 shares of stock of the General Carpet corporation at $3.75 a share.

C.I.O. UNION WINS ELECTION AMONG STOCK HANDLERS

By a margin of one vote the United Packing House Workers' Industrial union, a C. I. O. affiliate, won an election yesterday among employés of the Chicago Stockyards and Transit company. The election thus gives sole bargaining power for all the employés to the C. I. O. union, according to representatives of the national labor relations board, which conducted the balloting. Of 560 ballots, 281 were marked for the C. I. O. union, 263 were cast for the Live Stock Handlers' Benevolent association, an independent union, 12 were against any union, and 4 were unmarked.

HEARINGS START TODAY ON CITY'S HOUSING NEEDS

A city council housing committee will begin a series of public hearings today to consider Chicago's housing problem. Experts on various aspects of city planning have been invited to aid the aldermen in analyzing housing needs.

"Chicago is losing many families who are moving to the suburbs and adjacent towns because it lacks adequate housing facilities," said Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the committee.

Arthur Kruggel, president of the Chicago real estate board, and Hugh E. Young, chief engineer of the Chicago plan commission, will attend the opening session. Plans will be made for an inventory of housing and a survey of land uses.

DOWNSTATE BANK ROBBER CAUGHT IN SHORT CHASE

Mount Erie, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A posse of citizens pursued a bandit who held up the bank in this village today and captured him without firing a shot. The chase led over fifteen miles of gravel roads.

The gunman, who identified himself as Orville Brown, 32 years old, of Louisville, Ill., entered the Mount Erie State bank on the pretext of cashing a check. Then he drew a revolver and threatened Miss Erma Daubs, assistant cashier, who was the only employé in the bank. The robber took $326 from the cash drawer.

Immediately after he left Miss Daubs gave an alarm and a posse started pursuit. Brown was caught after a chase of 15 miles.

U. S. WILL TREAT CAPONE'S ILLS AT ALCATRAZ PRISON

Find Specialized Care Is Unnecessary.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The department of justice today announced that Alphonse Capone, the most notorious gangster of the prohibition era, is not insane but is suffering from an intermittent mental disorder at the island prison of Alcatraz in the bay of San Francisco.

The former Chicago gang leader, according to prison doctors, has long periods when he is lucid and as sound as any of his fellow inmates. The doctors say that only occasionally is his mind somewhat disordered.

On the basis of the findings of the prison physicians and consulting psychiatrists, the department announced that Capone will not be transferred from "The Rock" as the prisoners call the escapeproof federal penitentiary.

Paresis Is Indicated.

If Capone had been found insane, it was said, he would have been ordered removed to the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., where the government maintains a hospital fully equipped to deal with all ailments.

Although the department of justice statement did not name the disease from which Capone is suffering, it was indicated that he is a victim of paresis. The statement made it clear that Capone's ailment is in no way due to his incarceration, and implied that his disorder owed its origin to loose living in the days when he was building an empire of crime.

The physicians' report gave the department of justice a case of the jitters. It was feared the public might believe Capone's condition due to alleged terrors of the prison, which has been called "America's Devil's Island."

Fight Coddling Rumors.

The latest report was suppressed over night in the prisons bureau.

Late in the afternoon a short official statement was distributed to newspaper men as reports became widespread that the physicians had found Capone suffering from a mental ailment, although not insane.

The department also fretted over the anticipation of reports that the gang leader was being mollycoddled in the prison. For this reason the statement carried the line that he is being given the same care that would be given any other prisoner under the same circumstances. Officials hoped this would spike any rumor that money gathered in gangster activities is softening Capone's lot.

Capone became ill Feb. 5. He was taken immediately to the prison hospital. San Francisco psychiatrists were called into consultation when his ailment was diagnosed as paresis.

GERMANS HAPPY; SEE UNION WITH AUSTRIANS NEAR

War Alliance with Italy Expected Next.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Germany felt triumphant today. The nation foresaw an Austro-German union in the near future as Nazi ministers took key posts in the Austrian cabinet.

German Nazis saw in the victory of Reichsfuhrer Hitler a first step toward the fulfillment of his original plan sketched in his book, "My Struggle." This plan called for an alliance among Germany, Italy, and England. Germans are of the opinion the latter two countries helped convince Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, Austrian chancellor, of the necessity of surrendering to Hitler's demands.

Nazis Protect Themselves.

The Nazis believe the British encouraged Schuschnigg to yield to the Fuehrer in the hope than an Austrian anschluss [union] with Germany would disgruntle Italy and bend the Rome-Berlin axis. The Nazis, however, protected themselves against this danger by coming to terms with Italy about a possible anschluss when Premier Mussolini visited Berlin last autumn. As payment Il Duce obtained German weapons and possibly the promise of a military alliance.

After Arthur Seyss-Inquart, new Austrian minister of the interior, and other pro-Nazi ministers entered the Vienna government, Nazis said they were confident the day is near when the government of the last democracy in central Europe—Czechoslovakia—will be compelled by Germany to surrender power to Konrad Henlein, leader of the Nazis in Czechoslovakia.

The Nazis do not believe Schuschnigg will be able to remain as chancellor of the Austrian government for long. They pointed to Seyss-Inquart as the future chancellor.

Military Pact Planned.

The Austro-German agreement is to be strengthened by military and economic agreements, it was announced in Berlin. The Austrians have a clearing credit of $10,000,000 in Germany.

When Schuschnigg demanded that the Germans pay this debt he was told Austria would have to purchase military equipment from Germany to cover this sum. German military experts contend this will speed up the unification of the Austrian and German armies.

To ease the economic tension in Germany, Austria and Italy, the Germans suggested the formation of a "customs union" among those countries "to make it easier for them to pool their resources."

FEAR NAZIS PLOT ANOTHER COUP IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

tain that Benes will reject these suggestions as firmly as he always has done in the past. It was pointed out that ministers from the party of Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia, could not repudiate their Nazi ideology, which is incompatible with the Czech democratic constitution.

Collapse Blow to Czechs.

Prague dispatches, however, made no secret of the fact that the collapse of Austria is a serious blow to the Czechs in their struggle to maintain independence. There are two reasons:

1—It makes Czechoslovakia much more vulnerable to military attack.

2—It kills hope for a Danubian customs union—a kind of resurrection of the Austro-Hungarian empire on which Czech statesmen were counting to pull them out of the depression which is at the root of much of the political unrest in the republic.

Always vulnerable to disruptive propaganda, Czechoslovakia now is more exposed than ever, dispatches indicated. She has the German army at her frontier and more than 2,000,000 Nazified Germans, to say nothing of more than 500,000 unreconciled Hungarians.

To make matters worse one of the strongest Czech political parties, the Agrarian party, to which Prime Minister Hodza belongs, has a numerous pro-Nazi faction. This faction has made several efforts to put the party on record as favoring entrance of the Henlein men into the cabinet. Responsible leaders, like Hodza, always have frustrated these attempts. It was feared they will have more difficulty in doing so in the future.

In the face of these dangers the French would like for the British to join them in assuring Benes that they will not stand for Hitler's cowing Czechoslovakia into submission as he cowed Austria.

The French have serious reasons to fear Great Britain will refuse to commit herself. In that case, many diplomats wonder whether France will be able to honor her pledge to come to Czechoslovakia's aid in case of foreign attack.

Political Prisoners Freed.

VIENNA, Feb. 16.—Austria's new cabinet went to work today executing German demands with the freeing of thousands of political prisoners.

Three lists were telegraphed to Adolf Hitler before he finally accepted the reorganization which gave Austria a cabinet including a personal friend of Hitler as minister of interior, two men called sympathetic to Germany, and two Nationalists.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, the new minister of interior and Hitler's personal representative, was reported to have departed for Berlin tonight to confer with his Nazi mentor.

One of the first fruits of governmental change was an amnesty order for political prisoners which Nazis said affected some 3,200 persons, of whom fifty-four were involved in the putsch in which Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was murdered in 1934.

Hardly was the new ministry installed before a warning was sounded that Austria faced anti-Semitic measures.

"It is to be expected that the state defend itself against certain encroachments against unwanted immigrants," said an official.

Dr. Edmund Glaise-Horstenau, minister without portfolio, was put in charge of constitutional reform in which some predicted there would be a Nationalist tinge although officially it was promised Austria's 1934 constitution would be respected.

Eyes Czechoslovakia

French Air Line Gets New Plane for Far East Service

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The Air France, French aviation company, announced today that it has accepted the new type of plane which is known as the Clemence-Isaure. The plane is to be put in service on the line from France to the far east. Whether others will be built for possible North Atlantic service is not decided. Several days ago it was announced that the French line would start a weekly passenger air service between Paris and Buenos Aires this summer, using fifteen ton seaplanes carrying eight passengers.

Britain Speeds Up Program to Spread World Propaganda

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Sir Robert Vansittart's new "boost Britain" propaganda committee held its first meeting today to plan its work, and the house of commons adopted a resolution advocating a speed-up of "anti-propaganda" measures. The measures would endeavor to offset Italian and German propaganda abroad.

Sir Robert Vansittart.

The steps understood to be most likely are:

FIRST—A cut rate cable service for British news agencies so they can compete with subsidized foreign services, such as German, Italian, and Russian.

SECOND—Free or cheap distribution of films showing the glories of Great Britain.

THIRD—Broadcasts and articles for foreign consumption signed by prominent Britons.

Calls for Broad Campaign.

John Lees-Jones opened the discussion today with a call for the use of all new methods provided by press, radio, and film to reach foreign countries.

Adam Maitland, backing up Jones, suggested that foreign newspapers be supplied with articles on current affairs signed by eminent British writers and public men and women and that the widest possible publication of British official views on international issues be obtained.

Naturally the British already seek the widest possible publication of the official viewpoint. But they do not use high pressure methods of the Italians or Germans—and British officials are none too helpful about giving information to the foreign press.

Press Officials Cautious.

Press officials are exceedingly cautious and ministers, such as Capt. Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, are entirely inaccessible. Such a thing as the regular press conferences of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull in the United States are unknown.

F. C. Watkins in the house of commons cited Italian propaganda in Palestine as exceeding well organized and said he understood it was carried on largely by women disguised as nuns.

"Even in the United States," he added, "a section of the press publishes violently anti-British news and views."

Tribune Story Cited.

In the course of the debate Lieut. Commander Reginald Fletcher, a Laborite from Warwickshire, said Germany was following British broadcasts to the United States with her own broadcasts in Oxford accents on almost the same wave length. He cited an article in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE stating that it was hard to tell just which broadcasts were of German and which of English origin.

As part of the program to offset Italian and German propaganda, the British Broadcasting corporation on March 15 will begin its broadcasts to South and Central America. The broadcasts will be in Spanish and Portuguese.

Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated—due to lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft, bulky mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps your bowels move.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-tonic, vitamin B_1. Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

TRACE AMERICAN AID TO LOYALISTS BY WAY OF SOVIET

Spanish Rebels Identify Types of Planes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SALAMANCA, Spain, Feb. 16.—How America is lending aid to the loyalist cause through the soviet government has become apparent from reports of Spanish civil war flying activities during January and the identification of a number of American or American type planes now flying for the Barcelona government.

A report issued by Gen. Francisco Franco's headquarters here said that fifty-five loyalist planes had been shot down in aerial battles on the Teruel front during January and named among them "twenty-four Curtisses and four Martin bombers," both the names of American planes.

A fifth "Martin bomber" was shot down by rebel pursuit planes near Salamanca.

It was presumed here that the Curtisses and Martins were American planes with American engines. This was met by a report from the Martin plant at Baltimore that the "airplanes of the Martin bomber type were copies made in Russia."

"Dozens" of Duplicates Made.

J. T. Hartson, executive vice president of the Martin plant, according to a dispatch from Baltimore, said that "dozens" of duplicates had been made by Russians from a model purchased at the Martin plant.

The Martin plant recently constructed for the soviet a giant Clipper plane with four 1,000 horsepower motors and capable of cruising 140 to 170 miles an hour for more than 4,500 miles.

Harold E. Dahl, American aviator who flew for the loyalists before being captured by Franco's forces and now in Salamanca jail, said:

"The loyalists may have received aircraft directly or indirectly from the United States, but I never saw any of it. The Russians manufacture and supply the loyalists with machines similar to Martin bombers and the craft made by Curtiss-Wright, Boeing, and Lockheed. These may or may not be built in Russia under license from American companies."

All Similar to Foreign Types.

Similarities to foreign patterns have been observed in all loyalist planes which have fallen into the hands of the Nationalists. The single-seated fighters were closely modelled on the Boeing and the bombers on the Martin 139 type.

A French aviation writer estimated that the Spanish loyalist aviation included 430 Russian machines, 78 American machines, 40 British [but no war planes] and 240 French machines. It was asserted that the Russian machines without exception were built after American models.

The engines in the main were either Wright Cyclones or replicas of the Cyclones. The writer alluded to the military necessity that spare parts be available, and said these presumably could be obtained from Russia.

Aids Russia's Success in Air.

It seems pretty certain here that American engines and planes are being built in Russia under license or similar arrangement. One American writer declared that "it is definite foreign aid that is responsible for the comparative success of Russian aviation today."

Salamanca took particular note of a dispatch from the United States which said that "a $750,000 contract for the construction of special tools for the soviet government has been awarded [Sept. 9, 1937] to the Consolidated Aircraft corporation of San Diego. The tools will be used for manufacture of airplanes similar to the PBY-1 flying boats now being built for the United States navy. It was stressed that the planes to be built by the U. S. S. R. are strictly for commercial use."

Salamanca noted also dispatches which told of the increasing concern of high military and commercial aviation officials at Washington, D. C., over the steady and increasing numbers of Russian aeronautical engineers and mechanics being sent to America by the soviet government and gaining entrance to the key plants of the American aviation industry.

Demand Entry to Factories.

It was cited that Russian purchases of American aeronautical equipment had leaped tremendously, but that a condition of purchase was that soviet engineers be permitted inside the plants to take part in the manufacture, to learn American methods of standardization and secrets of design.

Manufacturers in several cases, Washington disclosed, had difficulty with the war and navy department over the practice. Two important makers of planes were forced to build separate plants for their export business because of secret work on government contracts. Foreign business had become so lucrative, it was said, that one manufacturer had stopped bidding on American government contracts.

The Russians were said to have offered to build a separate plant for one manufacturer who was tied up with government contracts. In addition, the Russians employed American experts to go to Russia to get soviet plants started.

REBELS RUSH AID TO COMBAT NEW LOYALIST DRIVE

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], Feb. 16.—(AP)—Spanish rebels rushed reinforcements into the Montalban sector thirty-two miles north of Teruel tonight to stop a new government offensive involving 15,000 men.

Salamanca dispatches said a small rebel force at Vivel del Rio, five miles northwest of Montalban, was holding off the government attackers. The government offensive was started late yesterday, surprising the rebels. Motorized rebel troops, artillery, and planes were dispatched to Vivel del Rio from Saragossa. Planes and artillery shelled and bombed rear elements of the government offensive force.

The government offensive was designed to retake the coal mining region at Utrillas, a few miles southwest of Montalban, which formerly supplied large quantities of coal to Catalonia.

LOYALIST SHIPS ARE BOTTLED UP BY REBEL NAVY

Expect Belligerent Status to Aid Franco.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Feb. 16.—If belligerent rights are granted both sides in Spain, as the London nonintervention committee proposes as soon as a scheme for withdrawing volunteers can be agreed upon, maritime operations, which have been stalemated in the Spanish civil war, will be stressed again.

Belligerent rights will enable each side to stop and search or sink ships carrying supplies to respective enemy ports. Belligerent status is likely to benefit Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander, who already has the upper hand at sea and is able to prevent the loyalist fleet from venturing out to sea because of his better strategic bases and positions in the Balearic Isles.

Fleet Commands Sea.

Thus ships now carrying supplies are able to get into rebel ports on the Atlantic side, while those bound for the loyalist ports sail at considerable risk because of Franco's command of the sea with his fleet and his airplanes based on the Balearic islands of Mallorca and Iviza.

In actual size and in numbers the loyalist fleet and the rebel fleet are about the same. The rebels have three cruisers, the Cervera, Canarias, and Baleares. The loyalists also have three, the Libertad and Miguel de Cervantes, of the same type as the Cervera, and the Mendez Nunez, which is somewhat older. The Libertad and Miguel de Cervantes have shorter cruising radii than the rebel cruisers, but are faster and better armed.

In the fight that occurred off the coast of Algiers several months ago between the Baleares and the Libertad, the latter demonstrated its superiority in fire.

Rebel Officers Better.

The loyalist fleet also has about fifteen destroyers, while the rebels have but three or four. The rebels have several submarines, obtained ostensibly from the Germans or Italians, however, against only one submarine of the loyalists.

The rebels have one further important advantage in the possession of better naval officers and crews. Most of the naval officers went over to Gen. Franco at the beginning of his movement, leaving the naval situation in Spain the same as it was with Russia at the beginning of the revolution there. The loyalists also have more difficulty in getting their damaged ships repaired.

Loyalists Outmaneuvered.

The loyalist fleet, however, is especially outmaneuvered because the rebels have the Mallorca and Iviza bases, which have defied repeated attempts of the Catalans to take them.

Gen. Franco also is able to back up his fleet with his air arm, while the loyalists, possessing fewer planes and practically no hydroplanes, are unable to spare any of them from land operations.

Naval experts, accordingly, estimate that Franco will be able to keep the republican fleet bottled up and that belligerent rights will enable him to prosecute the war with renewed vigor.

IL DUCE SETS NEW RULES TO LIMIT JEWS' ACTIVITIES

Don't Buck Fascism, First Bit of Advice.

ROME, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's first official recognition of an Italian Jewish problem appeared today in a warning to Jews, but coupled with an assurance that Italy did not plan to follow the drastic examples of Germany and Rumania.

An official statement outlined limits set on Jewish activity, but carried a promise not to take repressive measures against Jews who do not oppose Fascism.

Well informed sources said the anti-Semitic campaign which has been rising in certain Italian newspapers would be slackened.

Policy Places Three Limits.

The official statement of policy placed three special limitations on Jewish independence in Italy:

1. Jews will not be permitted to play a more important part in the national life than their individual abilities merit.

2. Their activities must not be out of proportion to their numerical representation in the community.

3. If newly arrived in Italy, their conduct will be observed carefully.

The statement said Italy had no intention of taking political, economic, or moral action against Jews in the country. But Fascists, noting exceptions, said Italy would restrain Jews from attaining the commercial and financial ascendancy they have elsewhere.

Advocate New Jewish State.

Informazione Diplomatica, organ of the foreign office, came out with a statement expressing the opinion of "responsible Roman circles" that the "universal Jewish problem can be solved in only one way—by creation of a Jewish state in some part of the world—not Palestine."

"The state must be such that, in the whole of the world, it would be capable of representing and caring for, through normal diplomatic and consular channels, all Jewish masses scattered in various countries of the world," the publication said.

"The Fascist government never thought, nor is it thinking, of adopting political, economic or moral measures against Jews as such, except, of course, in the case of elements hostile to the régime," Informazione Diplomatica said.

The publication said there are between 50,000 and 60,000 Jews living in Italy.

HE THINKS his hair roots* are dead, because no one has explained to him that hair roots merely become inactive—and die only in very rare cases. Hair roots become dormant when (1) they have been deprived of normal nourishment or (2) when some local scalp disorder makes it impossible for these sources of growth to function normally.

Thomas' effective scalp treatment (1) stimulates these dormant sources of nourishment and (2) overcomes the local causes of baldness. You yourself can easily recognize the presence of a scalp disorder by the aggravating symptoms—itching, falling hair, extreme dryness or oiliness, dandruff, etc. But to determine the exact cause of your particular scalp trouble, you should consult a Thomas' scalp specialist. He knows specifically how to overcome the various types of dandruff, stop falling hair, and promote hair growth on the thin and bald spots. YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

COMPETITION

By CALEB

SEVERAL years ago we were about to make an initial investment in a new type of expensive equipment for our store. We went to the great company which, through patents, had long controlled such equipment. When we looked at the "last word" in what they had produced we said, "This is not good enough — either in appearance or performance." "You will take it or nothing," was the answer in practical effect.

The patents were about to expire. We went to another great manufacturer who had never made such equipment. We told him our story. He agreed that the equipment we had seen was neither modern nor practical. He set about designing vastly superior equipment—and got our order.

When the original company saw what we bought they completely redesigned and modernized their equipment, and we have since bought additional installations from them.

Competition made for progress and development!

Many years ago a man came to Marshall Field and said, "Your competitors down the street are very much in need of a State street location. They want your vacant property. You can easily keep them off State Street or make them pay dearly for the location."

Marshall Field said, "I will do neither. They are good competition. I welcome good competition. It is good for us." And, in accord with his nature, he made no effort to exact a premium price from a competitor.

Many evils in our economic structure, as a result of the interplay of businesses, are due to a curtailing or abridgement of competition.

Competition is healthful and socially economic.

A great many important American businesses have largely financed themselves out of earnings. Thus have many small businesses grown large. Their method of capital increase is conservative. Any heavy tax upon earnings retained in a business is bound to hinder seriously the growth of many small and medium sized companies.

Frequently, punitive measures intended to hinder and restrain specific social groups, injure the supposed beneficiaries instead. Economic action and reaction are difficult to abridge and control by legislation.

U. S. MISSIONARY HIT BY SHRAPNEL IN JAPANESE RAID

Woman Injured in Attack Near Kaifeng.

KAIFENG, China, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Several American women missionaries of the Independent Gospel Boat mission were endangered today and one was injured when Japanese airplanes bombed the mission's boats.

The boats were engaged in relief work among destitute Chinese along the Yellow river at the town of Tsaokang when the low flying planes dropped their bombs.

Miss Helen Bailey of North Carolina, formerly connected with the Southern Presbyterian mission, suffered painful shrapnel injuries.

After dropping the projectiles the planes turned machine guns on Miss Bailey's Chinese helpers as they fled to nearby trenches. None was hurt.

Kaifeng itself has had twenty-two air raid warnings this week, but thus far no bombs have been dropped here, probably because of the presence of American, Canadian, and other foreign missionaries. Chengchow, forty-five miles farther west, has been heavily bombed.

Foreign Flyers Aid Chinese.

CHENGCHOW, China, Feb. 16.—(AP)—China's "foreign legion" flyers—including a number of Russians and Americans—were reported today to have inflicted severe losses on the Japanese army and air force.

Chinese authorities said these airmen wrecked more than thirty Japanese tanks and a dozen airplanes, in addition to killing and wounding many troops on the march near Sinsiang, which is on the Peking-Hankow railway about forty-five miles north of Chengchow.

The foreign flyers also were said to have demolished a Japanese military depot at Chihsien, important city farther north on the Peking-Hankow line.

One of the Japanese field armies engaged in the campaign to seize control of the railroad network of North Central China is advancing southward along the Peking-Hankow railway, aiming to cut the east-west Lunghai line at the Chengchow junction.

The raids in this sector were regarded by the Chinese as a reprisal for indiscriminate Japanese air attacks on Chengchow, in which more than 1,000 Chinese non-combantants were reported killed or wounded.

American Charges Japs Beat Him.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16.—(AP)—James Edward Walsh of Ripon, Wis., tonight filed a statement with the United States consulate general charging that he had been beaten and subjected to indignities by sailors of the Japanese naval force in Shanghai.

Walsh, a Shanghai resident since 1930, said the alleged attacks occurred while he was in a Japanese occupied district of Shanghai attempting to remove damaged machinery from a war blasted print shop of which he was proprietor. He alleged he was taken to field headquarters of the Japanese naval patrols and detained for questioning for nearly three hours.

United States marines turned back for the fourth time today an armed Japanese patrol of thirteen men attempting to enter the American defense sector of Shanghai's international settlement. Japanese said their patrols were sent to the sector to supervise Japanese who entered it "informally."

U. S. Marine Shoots Self in Barracks at Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Private John A. Young, of the Fourth Regiment, United States Marines, today was found dead of a gunshot wound in his quarters here. Officers said he had killed himself with his service rifle. He enlisted in the marine corps three years ago from California.

Try Labor Leaders

John E. McGee. D. A. Campbell.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The state's charges that two Cleveland union officials used their positions to blackmail a restaurant proprietor here and extort $1,200 from him before his restaurant could be completed was detailed to a jury of six men and six women by County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan today.

The jury, selected after two and one-half days of deliberation, will determine whether John E. McGee, head of the laborers' district council, and Donald A. Campbell, president of the painters' district council, are guilty of extortion in connection with wide spread labor racketeering in Cleveland.

Campbell and McGee are the first of four union officials to go on trial following an eight month investigation. The investigation was conducted by Safety Director Elliot Ness after his purge of the police department. Eigh police officials were indicted on graft charges and five have been convicted.

IF HE CAN'T SAVE TEETH, DENTIST SAVES YOUR FACE

If the fear of appearing ridiculous has kept you from having all your upper teeth extracted, as your dentist has advised you, don't hesitate any longer. No one will ever know they're out. You have the word of Dr. Alfred W. Simonson of Minneapolis for this.

Dr. Simonson, who will speak before the midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society at the Stevens hotel this morning, has been helping his patients to fool their friends for years.

"The dentist who makes it possible for people to bridge the gap from natural to artificial teeth without the change being known," he says, "is giving a service of incalculable value. The artificial teeth are put in the mouth directly following extraction. Speech and muscle tone are retained."

And if you're skeptical, consider the instance of the Wisconsin woman who wrote her husband's dentist inquiring about the state of his upper teeth, not realizing that they had been removed two years before.

Accuse Lawyer of Forging Name on Money Order

Edward Herdlicka, 35 years old, 2114 Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, an attorney, was held yesterday in bonds of $2,500 by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker pending a hearing March 2 on a charge of forging the name of Clerk Adam F. Bloch of the Illinois Supreme court on a $12 postal money order. Assistant United States District Attorney John J. Moreschi said Herdlicka explained that he had induced a client to make out a money order to Block on his representation it was for a court fee, then indorsed and cashed the order.

ATTORNEY LOSES APPEAL IN WILL FORGERY PLOT

The conviction of Attorney Julius P. Waitches, sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary for conspiracy to forge and probate the will of James Thomas Kelly, flophouse miser, who left $140,000, was affirmed yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court.

Waitches is now in the county jail completing a one year sentence for contempt imposed by Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court. He was convicted with two other men.

ADVERTISMENT

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

STRIKE CHIEF'S ROOM RAIDED IN TERROR INQUIRY

Vigilance of the police was questioned, too, on the basis of the policemen's own story: that they saw the killers drive past the Del Prado at 5307 Hyde Park boulevard after the clubbing in a licenseless car and wave to the other terrorists on strike duty there; yet they did not halt the car.

Moreover, the critics said, the killers are still at large although they were plainly seen by police.

Tells Effort to Get Protection.

The Del Prado manager has complained that he tried in vain on three occasions before Rourke was clubbed to gain an audience with Police Commissioner Allman, to ask more protection than Hyde Park police were giving. The manager's final appeal, a telegram, went unanswered.

Allman's reply was that he was evidently out each time, and saw no reason for answering the telegram since he had ordered adequate protection.

Courtney is said by some of those at the conference to have been irked because Allman did not attend, as requested. Capt. Richard Gill explained, in answer to Courtney, that Allman had sent him as substitute.

Lists Police Activity.

Capt. Ray Crane of the Hyde Park police insisted last night he had given routine police protection and listed the activities of his 143 men, of whom 35 work from midnight to 8 a. m., 56 from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., and 52 from 4 p. m. to midnight.

When the strike began Feb. 3, he said, he established a 24 hour a day detail of three patrolmen at the hotel. Two policemen were sent to walk post, one on 53d street and one on Hyde Park boulevard, to protect employés between the hotel and street car line. A roving squad of three was sent to patrol the neighborhood from 5 to 8 a. m., when many of the employés were reporting for duty. All these details, Crane said, have been maintained throughout.

Daily Duties for Police.

Feb. 5, on complaint that cab drivers were refusing to pick up passengers at the hotel, he arranged resumption of service.

Feb. 6, he sent three squads of three men each to protect coal deliveries.

Feb. 7, his men drove away terrorists who had a dispute with Langford and his father, Robert L. Langford.

Feb. 8, a squad protected the delivery of a load of ice and a load of meat, and the officers arrested a bartenders' union business agent.

Feb. 9, the employers' association sent five trucks to deliver coal to the hotel and a squad convoyed the deliveries. Garbage and ashes removal was protected.

Feb. 10, six union officials were arrested a the hotel after Rourke was slugged.

Since then, the murder has been under investigation, with three detective working under Crane's direction.

80 ON TRAIL OF ESCAPED MANIAC AT CHESTER, ILL.

Chester, Ill., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Eighty southern Illinois penitentiary guards and deputy sheriffs searched Chester tonight for two criminally insane fugitives who escaped Saturday from the Illinois Security hospital. Hospital officers said the trail is getting hot.

A woman was reported to have identified the picture of Peter Florek as the man who asked her for sandwiches for himself and companion at her home last night.

The man's companion was believed to be Paul Harrison, hammer slayer of four Chicagoans, who escaped with Florek. Harrison was reported seen in the Chester business district Monday morning.

End Strike of Electrical Workers at Sewage Plant

Electrical workers who have been on strike for two months returned to work yesterday on installation of incinerator equipment at the southwest sewage treatment plant of the Chicago sanitary district in Stickney. Their return followed settlement of a dispute between the General Electric company, holder of the contract, and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local No. 134.

Union Sues Red Paper for $470,000, Charging Libel

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A Minneapolis American Federation of Labor union today brought a $470,000 libel suit against the chief organ of Stalinist communism in this country, the Daily Worker. Albert Goldman of Chicago, who acted as counsel to Leon Trotzky in the Mexican hearings of the John Dewey commission, filed the action which charged that on sixteen occasions the Daily Worker falsely and maliciously designated plaintifs as "Trotskyite racketeers, gangsters, gunmen, and associates of the employers of the underworld," and that the publication insinuated that the plaintifs were responsible for the killing last November of Patrick J. Corcoran, a Minneapolis labor leader.

CONDUCTOR'S SLAYER UNKNOWN.

Police testified yesterday at an inquest that they had been unable to trace the robber who killed Truman H. Hammer, 55 years old, 5920 South Artesian avenue, a street car conductor. Hamner was shot to death Jan. 23.

CHICAGO KILLING RECALLS STRIKE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Deputy Beaten Fatally by Truck Strikers.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The ball bat murder of Lloyd Rourke, laundry driver, in an outbreak of labor union terrorism in Chicago, today recalled to Twin City residents a similar brutal murder here.

The slaying took place during a strike of truck drivers in May, 1934, which brought some of the bloodiest battles ever fought in this unruly city. Some 5,000 persons participated in the riot in which C. Arthur Lyman, business and civic leader, was beaten to death on May 22.

Tried to Keep Peace.

"Mr. Lyman really took his civic responsibilities seriously," his widow explained. "He thought he should help keep the peace. He didn't have any particular theories about it except to aid personally in whatever way he could."

Minneapolis virtually was overrun with lawlessness at the time. The city's truck drivers had called a strike when their employers regarded as exorbitant their demands for wage increases and shorter hours. The strikers immediately resorted to violence, and the viciousness of their acts grew day by day.

Nonunion drivers were set upon and beaten. Gardeners from the suburbs who tried to haul produce were kidnaped and held prisoner until they joined the union. Police were powerless to cope with roving bands of pickets who defied law and order to the extent of searching pleasure cars in their zeal to halt truckage.

100 Volunteers Deputized.

Police Chief Michael J. Johannes, his force insufficient to maintain peace, deputized 100 volunteers when he learned that pickets planned to tie up the market district. Lyman was one of those volunteers.

He was called out on patrol duty May 22 and was sent to the market area where pickets, armed with clubs, ball bats, gas pipes, and rocks were massed. A barrage of rocks was hurled at a truck that arrived at a commission house. Police were trying to disperse the mob as Lyman's patrol came upon the scene.

The strikers cornered the deputies and fell upon them mercilessly. One of the forty-five men injured in the fighting was clubbed when he lay, already hurt, on a stretcher. Lyman was struck down from behind as he fought alone against a group of rioters. He died a few hours later, leaving fatherless four children.

The confessed slayer was acquitted.

AUTO GAS KILLS NORTH CHICAGO EX-POSTMASTER

Joseph L. Przyborski, 55 years old, a North Chicago political figure for a number of years, was found dead of carbon monoxide gas yesterday in the garage at the home of his brother Max, an attorney, and for many years the chairman of the Lake county Republican central committee. Death was believed accidental.

Joseph Przyborski was postmaster for twelve years until 1924, was a former city clerk, a former secretary of the board of local improvements, a former secretary and member of the board of school district No. 63. For the last few years he had been a building manager.

He was living in Max's residence at 1421 Lincoln street during his brother's absence on vacation. His nephew found the body. Przyborski had been working on his car and the engine had been running. He is survived by his father, his widow and one daughter. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in Holy Rosary church, North Chicago.

Such are the facts, and on them you can well decide, "Better buy Buick!"

But they do not end the tale. There are two points dealing with figures still needed to complete the full picture of Buick value:

—Buick is not only the lowest-priced straight-eight of its size on the market

—But Buick actually lists at lower figures than do some sizes!

UNCLE SAM GOLD MONOPOLIST.

The deplorable world political situation is largely of economic origin. Depression made it possible for the Fascistic revolutionary movements in Germany and Italy to attract sufficient followings to be effective. Radicalism of the leftist variety in France and Spain was due to similar causes. Popular government has a strong natural appeal. It is when men are hungry that other systems of government have more in it for them than democracy.

And why does poverty exist? Hard times have not come to Germany, Italy, and France because their soils have suddenly failed to produce as much as in better times. It has been due to shortages of capital, the lack of facilities for exchanging products which were in oversupply for products which were short.

In the United States, whenever business turns down, the cry goes up for inflation, as if that would bring about betterment. Italians, Germans, and French know about inflation. They had it. They look upon it as something to be avoided above all else. That is why, in the unsettled period since 1930, governments have placed restrictions upon the purchases of foreign goods. They have done so to protect their slender stocks of gold, which seemed to be all that stood between them and a catastrophic depreciation of their currencies, such as they had experienced in the early 1920s.

And so import quotas and controled exchange came about. When one nation has had barriers raised against its products, it has in turn faced the necessity of raising some barriers of its own. Thus a nation with an excess production of commodity A and a shortage of commodity B suffers from unemployment on the one hand and low living standards on the other, although another country is equally depressed because it has an excess of B and a lamentable deficiency of A. These complementary countries are afraid to take down their barriers lest in accepting more foreign goods they might lose some of the small quantity of gold which sustains the value of their currency.

Responsibility in some part for this condition rests upon the government of the United States, which hogs the world supply of the basic monetary metal. There is plenty of gold for every nation. But there isn't enough, and never will be, if one country insists upon bidding for supplies it doesn't need, and fails to use what it acquires.

That is exactly what the United States government is doing. A chart in last Sunday's TRIBUNE shows what has been happening to the world's gold supplies. The world production of gold in 1936 amounted to 36.5 million ounces. The United States government bought all that and 3.4 million ounces besides. In 1936, thirty-five million ounces were brought to market and our government bought 31 million ounces of it. And in 1935, we bought all of the gold that was produced and nearly 20 million ounces of the previously existing supplies. In the four years from 1934 to 1937, the world output of gold was 128 million ounces. The United States government bought all of that and 17 million ounces besides.

The United States has been monopolizing all of the world supplies of gold at a time when there is critical need for it elsewhere. There is no mystery about how we are doing that. In the auction sale of world commodities which is constantly in progress, goods are knocked down to the highest bidder. It is no different with gold than with coconuts, sugar, wheat, or copper. We are offering $35 an ounce for gold, which is widely regarded as an excessively high price which cannot be forever maintained, and as a result we are absorbing all the new gold miners anywhere can find, and some of the old gold.

Have we any use for all that gold? We have not. We put it away in a hole in Kentucky, where it is guarded by soldiers. When the gold comes in, and is sold, the sellers get credit for deposits at the banks. But to be certain that this extra amount of deposits isn't used to boost prices, the government requires that the banks keep idle and on deposit with the federal reserve banks twice as much money as they used to be required to keep idle. The government even put some of the gold aside, and treats it as if it does not exist. The government has so much gold as a result of outbidding all the other nations that it is afraid of what might happen if it used it.

It is perfectly clear that our handling of gold is very bad, both for ourselves and for the world. In Europe and England the present recession in American business is attributed to the steps which the American government took to keep the excessive gold stocks from inflating prices. If they are right, too much gold has brought us a depression. Too little gold elsewhere has produced economic and political chaos. A reduction in the buying price below the present would reduce the amount coming to this country. Over a period of time, such action would conceivably bring about a redistribution of the supplies of a commodity which are badly wanted elsewhere, and a great burden where they are.

SMALL POLITICS.

The device to make it more difficult for independents to win a place on the fall ticket adopted by local Democratic managers is a mean trick which ought to be resented by citizens regardless of party. The scheme is to circulate petitions and procure signatures after the necessary petitions and signatures are obtained and on file. This removes from the number of voters who will be free to sign for independent candidates later the voters who unnecessarily sign in the primary. The task of the independent is heavy enough as it is and there are many instances in which it is in the interest of good government that after primary nominations have been won, as they are usually won, by the processes of political machinery, citizens should be able to appeal from the primary decision.

HITLER TAKES AUSTRIA.

Herr Hitler, the Austrian who avenged Sadowa by conquering Germany, has ended the long but hopeless struggle of Austria itself to escape from the hateful Nazism by the reduction of his own homeland to the status of a Nazi province, presumably soon to be brought completely within the domain of what is euphemistically called the Third Reich. The overthrow of Austrian independence came with the suddenness and dramatic effect characteristic of the Hitler coup d'état, such as the denunciation of treaty disabilities and the invasion of the Rhine.

Chancellor Schuschnigg met his expatriated copatriot, the Fuehrer, at the latter's retreat in Berchtesgaden, to hear the stormy ultimatum and knew that outside the door the new chiefs of the German army were waiting his decision, and that German troops were being mobilized on his borders. He surrendered and agreed to accept a cabinet with Nazis in key positions, one to be minister of the interior and another minister of justice.

Chancellor Dollfuss, assassinated by Nazis four years ago, died in vain. When the ill fated German republic was torn by enemies within and oppressed by enemies without, Austria, as an abandoned waif of the war, sought permission to save itself in union with its big German neighbor. France would not tolerate it and Great Britain backed its ally. The allies killed the German republic. They killed democracy. They prevented the settlement of affairs in central Europe in terms which would have been a guaranty of their own security. They killed liberalism, culture, intelligence, good will, and liberty. In the place of a friendly society they raised up dictatorship, brutality, ignorance, serfdom, and military power.

The consequences have been flowing back. The blustering Fascist menace has been growing. A democratic Germany would have held both Italy and Japan in check. Fascism has seized most of Spain and may soon have the remainder. It has taken Austria. Democratic Czechoslovakia is not sleeping well. It may be next to go. In Austria, what the allies would not allow the republic to do, they are compelled to see Hitler accomplish. The best of the good natured Austrians must hate beyond expression the rule of prejudice, stupid force, and brutal zealotry they see descending on them, but they will only add to its power and prestige.

There are, however, some Austrians who have been the victims of Fascism for fifteen years and who might be willing to change over at least to their own blood and language. They are the Germans of the Tyrol who were given to Italy. They have had the sufferings and indignities of a conquered people, their loyalties distorted, and their language degraded. Italy got them by betraying its pledged word to Germany and running out of the triple alliance to join France and Great Britain in a war for spoils. Hitler's ally, Mussolini, has them and he has the Brenner Pass. When Hitler has full control of Austria the problem of the betrayed Germans will be his.

WHAT'S WRONG AT CHESTER?

The escape of two dangerous madmen from the Illinois State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Chester seems to be taken by the management with considerable resignation. Of course, active pursuit was organized, but the lunatics are still at large. What the public would like to know meanwhile is why an institution maintained for the restraint of such men can be so easily escaped from. The key story may or may not prove to be true, but it is a very unsatisfactory explanation. Criminals of the Harrison type should be better guarded. There is an obvious slackness here that ought to be remedied without delay. It smells of incompetence or worse.

The escape of prisoners is so common an event as to make plain that it is one of the methods of implementing the alliance of crime and politics.

THIS CRIME MUST BE PUNISHED.

The brutal killing of Lloyd Rourke was one of the most dastardly crimes in the records of this community. It was premeditated, deliberate, the work of a conspiracy of violence. That it was an incident in an alleged labor controversy adds to its gravity both from the viewpoint of decent organized labor and from that of the law-abiding public.

No effort should be spared by the authorities to discover the murderer and the men who commissioned him to kill. We are confident this can be done. They should be sent to the chair without fail.

Editorial of the Day

DR. TOWNSEND'S COMEBACK.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, whom veteran readers may remember, is back in the headlines and is alert as ever to take advantage of his good fortune. His appeal from a thirty day jail sentence and $100 fine, imposed on a charge of contempt of the house, has been denied by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The indomitable pension scheme advocate announces he will serve the sentence and will take his typewriter along. He would doubtless enjoy the jail term even more if he could also take his microphone.

The revolving pension plan and Dr. Townsend himself have had stormy weather of late. Followers and dues have been dwindling since the movement failed to get anywhere and its economic fallacies were exposed. The doctor himself, after disagreements with his fellow promoters, was placed on the retired list. Now, however, he comes out of eclipse and into the full glory of the spotlight.

The court was following law and precedent in upholding the right of the house to discipline recalcitrant witnesses. And Dr. Townsend was a recalcitrant witness simply because members of the investigating committee, by their badgering, gave him an excuse for walking out. His naive testimony had been enough to kill off the pension plan until his grand gesture made him a martyr. And now he gets another chance to revive the hopes of the gullible.

Cafe Mystery.

When the champagne was brought in the two older men, both of whom wore monocles, rose, raised their glasses to a younger, thin, dark man whom they called "Your Royal Highness," kissed his hand, made certain cabalistic gestures, drank, and broke their glasses on the harth of the fireplace in The Yar. They stayed late, and sent requests for favorite music to Bolognini, the cellist—always for music of the masters. All three wore dinner coats, and with them was a blonde woman, seated beside "His Royal Highness." Louis, most perfect of all head waiters, brought them bottle after bottle of champagne. Their tips were lavish. They were back again the next afternoon, spent an hour or two before dinner, and left to return at 8 o'clock in dinner clothes. They came half a dozen times or more, always exciting great curiosity, but no one was able to learn their identity. The assumption was that "His Royal Highness" was a potentate from some far-off land.

PART OF ME.

They are a part of me—the verse I read,
The song I heard at dusk—the evening sky—
Star-sprinkled with a silver moon o'erhead.
The lovely things that touch my ear and eye,
I make a part of me, as they pass by.

And had I seen an ugly thing, or heard
A harsh, discordant thing, then I would find
That ugly sight a part of me—that word
A moving force to mold and shape my mind.
So does our every contact loose or bind

Force that can steal our own true self away.

Errata.

An exchange (Orleans Enterprise) admits making a mistake in his paper and goes on to say, "The same day there was a package in our postoffice box that belonged to the drug store. We called for No. 6 on the telephone and got No. 60. We asked for a spool of No. 50 thread and when we got home we found it was 60. The train was reported 20 minutes late; we arrived at the station 20 minutes after train time, and the train had gone. There was an error of 10 cents in our grocery bill. We didn't feel right and the doctor told us we were eating too much sweet stuff, we hadn't tasted pie, cake or candy in 2 months. Yeah, we made a mistake in last week's paper.

Yeah, we stated in last week's paper that Mr. George Cather, whose funeral was last week, was the father of Miss Willa Cather, the authoress, when he is but her uncle. Pardon us, please.—The Campbell (Neb.) Citizen.

All of which leads up to our own mistake: Beulah Emmet, the girl who is here from New York studying sculpture with John Storrs, is not a great-granddaughter of Robert Emmet, but a descendant of his elder brother, Thomas Addis Emmet. Robert Emmet was never married.

MODERN CHILD'S VALENTINE WISH.

A delayed Valentine poem, in scrawled child's writing, comes from a little girl who says she is thirteen. Titled "To My Mother," it reads:

Dear little mother of mine,
Won't you be my Valentine . . .
Some day happy we shall be,
As my fortune comes to me,
For we shall go to Hollywood,
Just as I told you that we would.

CUFFNOTES—Mary Pickford, back in town for a few days with her husband, Buddy Rogers, is being urged to write an autobiography. Ought to be interesting because of the story of the development of the movie industry it could reveal, the personal reminiscences, and the account of the expanding social life of Hollywood in the days when Pickfair was the royal castle of moviedom. Miss Pickford may call it "On the Ladder" . . . referring to life as a ladder from one existence to another. . . . Ed Anthony was in Chicago yesterday. He's the man who wrote Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive." . . . New York playgoers are now being divided into two classes—those who weep at Thornton Wilder's new play, "Our Town," and those who can't understand what there is to cry about. . . . Much as the Abbey Players are beloved, why don't they bring us some new plays? . . . Example of modernity—When Joan Bennett came to Chicago in "Stage Door" her former husband, Gene Markey, wrote his bachelor friends in Chicago asking them to be nice to her. Not that any asking is needed in Miss Bennett's case.

RAYNAUD'S DISEASE AND ARSENIC POISONING.

DO we use adequate precautions against arsenic, inasmuch as we are exposed occasionally to the metal without our knowledge? We all recognize its poisonous character, but effects subsequent to its absorption may be mild and exceedingly obscure. A heavy dose, however, will be succeeded by intense burning in the pit of the stomach, violent abdominal cramps, blood in the stools, and collapse.

Nevertheless there are many uses for arsenic about the home and in industry. If one is subjected to contact with some salt of the metal the symptoms experienced may not conform to the classic description and thus go unrecognized. Many a case of poisoning has been mistaken for a digestive or food upset, or a bacterial infection within the intestine. Physicians are familiar with the signs that may accompany a peculiar sensitivity to arsenic compounds used in the treatment of syphilis, including the eruption on the skin and the appearance of deep jaundice.

But there are other sources of contact which must not be forgotten, as the following histories will demonstrate:

The case is reported of a woman, aged 38, who complained of a waxlike pallor which occurred periodically in the fingers and toes. On warming the extremities the parts became painful and deeply congested. After a time, however, the phenomenon abated and the color returned to normal. The patient observed, also, that when she perspired she could detect a garlic-like odor. Furthermore, a severe eczema affected both wrists.

The physicians whom she visited characterized the blanching as Raynaud's disease—a perfectly natural diagnosis. No cause could be discovered other than the fact that some years prior to the onset of symptoms she had worked in a greenhouse where she had been accustomed to spray the plants each day. As a test for possible arsenic poisoning, sodium thiosulfate was injected into a vein. The urine was then collected and examined, with the result that a substantial quantity of the mineral was found.

Treatment consisted in semi-weekly doses of the thiosulfate preparation, and presently the whitening of the fingers vanished completely. In fact, she could be out in the coldest weather without gloves and suffer no ill consequences. It is interesting to note that, coincident with the elimination of the poison, the skin eruption healed and the garlic-like odor stopped. She has been perfectly well ever since.

Another patient, a woman of 33, was told by her friends that at times her ears turned dead white. She had noticed that her fingers now and then were pale and numb, but had given the matter little thought. When she rubbed the parts to restore sensation, severe itching ensued. Cold seemed to increase the attacks, which occurred two or three times daily.

Here again a careful study was made of the woman's habits, and it was found that she had done a considerable amount of painting about the home. In addition, she was an ardent and enthusiastic member of a garden club and in caring for her plants used a lead arsenate spray. No other cause could be located, and again the urine was tested after the intravenous injection of the thiosulfate solution. A sizable amount of the toxic element was shown. Under treatment by the same plan, the blanching incidents ceased entirely, and for the last year she has been free from all signs of abnormality. Tests of the urine now reveal that the poison has been wholly eliminated.

Medical literature contains a substantial number of examples of similar purport. Most of the victims were users of arsenic spray or had been associated with the metal in some industrial process. All presented symptoms of beginning Raynaud's disease, with typical pallor of the skin, then redness, tingling, and itching.

Evidently in these persons the drug was retained within the body, exhibiting its reactions in quite an unusual way, namely upon the nerves of the blood vessels instead of in the digestive tract. As most of us have learned, Raynaud's disease if unchecked may ultimately lead to gangrene of the parts [generally fingers and toes]. Certainly, with the appearance of early indications of this condition, the urine should be examined.

Arsenic is valuable as a drug and essential in many manufacturing operations, but it can exert serious toxic effects whenever individuals are exposed to dilute solutions or vapors over long periods of time.

ABOUT APPENDICITIS.

Miss K. writes: What are the symptoms of acute and chronic appendicitis? I have pains on the right side, but they are not accompanied by stomach trouble.

REPLY.

Early signs of acute appendicitis include mild to severe abdominal pain, frequently felt first in the upper abdomen, then localizing low on the right side. The pain varies from a steady ache to intermittent cramps. Nausea and vomiting are frequent. Temperature may rise, but is rarely high. There is rigidity of the muscles over the appendix and local tenderness.

Chronic appendicitis may be the outcome of one or more mild attacks of the disease in acute form. The symptoms may be vague and baffling for a long time. The abdominal pain tends to be colicline without nausea. Diagnosis depends on the past record, tenderness over the appendix, and X-ray picture of diseased part. In many instances symptoms termed chronic appendicitis—on careful study—are found to be associated with the gall bladder, the bile ducts, or the pancreas.

MORNING BETTER.

Mrs. C. A. writes: Isn't it better to exercise in the morning, after a good night's rest, than to do calisthenics at the end of a day spent in a busy office, when tired out?

REPLY.

Much better. A short while in the evening may be good also.

HERNIA AND PREGNANCY.

Mrs. S. writes: Should a hernia be repaired before pregnancy and, if so, how long should a woman wait before becoming pregnant?

REPLY.

It is best to repair a hernia before pregnancy, although there is little danger of complications if a proper support is worn. Of course, much depends on the position and the size of the defect. If it is well repaired, not much time is needed for strengthening before pregnancy may be considered.

CONCERNING PARSLEY TEA.

C. K. writes: Will eating parsley or drinking parsley tea decrease the amount of blood if one has high blood pressure?

REPLY.

No.

CONTROL WITH INSULIN.

D. G. writes: I am 19 and have been suffering from diabetes for four years. My right foot swells up every time I go to places where there is steam heat. What is the cause of that?

REPLY.

Blood vessel disturbances in the extremities are symptoms of diabetes. Keep the disease under control by insulin.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN.—The official organ of the Nazi "bureau for wholesale, import, and export trade" has issued stringent orders restricting most drastically the use of steel and iron for domestic purposes and production. These valuable raw materials are needed for the manufacture of export products and Nazi construction projects, and in order to save the available supply Germany is cutting down domestic use of iron and steel wherever possible.

A list of prohibited objects published by the supervisory board for iron and steel includes pillars and posts for road signs, trafic signs and stop signs for buses and trolley cars, garages, waiting cabins, railroad flagmen's cottages, telephone kiosks, public toilets, kiosks, gas station cottages, gas station roofs, wall supports—with the exception of gates used in heavy truck trafic—posts for fencing, and fences around lawns, flowerbeds and graves.

Also among the "verboten" products are monuments, gravestones, memorial crosses, memorial plaques, signs of all kinds—with the exception of small signs made of light tin—silos for fodder and grain, mangers, and covers for toilet flushing tanks.

Rubber is also among the products which are being restricted in their use in Germany. The Nazi trade board publishes long lists of directions covering the purchasing, treatment, storage, selling and use of this material, which is among those seriously lacking.

Particularly stringent are the regulations governing the use of rubber. "Users of rubber waste, old rubber, hard rubber dust, soft rubber scrapings or regenerate must have the definite permission of the supervisory board," says the organ of the retail, import, and export trade board. "Such establishments which store or use more than 1,100 pounds of rubber [rubber waste, hard rubber dust, soft rubber scrapings, old rubber or regenerate] per month must announce this without delay to the supervisory board." The amounts stored or treated are carefully checked by the authorities to prevent loss. Destruction of any form of rubber is strictly forbidden.

These orders are enforced most strictly and violations of them are punishable by fines or imprisonment.

ESTATE DISTRIBUTION.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A will was probated six weeks before Jan. 1, 1938. If any, all claims should have been filed by Jan. 1, 1938. However, we know that the estate owes only funeral expenses, and money has been released for them.

1. Does this estate have to keep this administrator when the estate can be settled at once? The heirs are all of age, and are ready to settle the estate at once.

2. The administrator informed us that he could not be released for a year.

W. T.

1. Despite their certainty that there will be no claims, the administrator is under no legal obligation to distribute until the period for filing claims has elapsed, if that is what you mean to ask. On the other hand, he is at liberty to distribute sooner, if he is willing to take the risk.

2. This is the ordinary procedure.

A LAWYER NEEDED.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widower with a grown son and daughter.

1. If I make out a deed for my real estate property in favor of my children, the property to be held in joint tenancy by both, and have the deed held by another party until after my death in escrow, would this be a safeguard?

2. If I make out a bill of sale for my business in favor of my children and put it in my vault for them to get after my passing away would this transaction be legal and binding? C. M. H.

1. Since it is common for laymen to make mistakes in homemade arrangements for handling of their estates, and since rectification of these mistakes after the death is difficult and expensive, we uniformly advise the employment of an attorney even where the method is by the well-worn path of a will. If, as in your case, the drawing of a new trail is under consideration, we consider it even more important to employ an attorney. We have in the same mail with your letter a case in which the unrecorded deed from the deceased person cannot be found.

2. We advise against this arrangement.

ESTATE DIVISION.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My mother died last April without leaving a will. All the property was in her name. So far nothing has been done about this state of affairs. Now my father is planning to remarry and we [the children, six in all] would like to know [2] if his future wife and her children can share in any part of the estate. All children on both sides are of age, some married, others not. This woman does not know that everything was in mother's name and thinks she is marrying a well-to-do man.

3. Please tell us what we should do, if anything, to protect father and ourselves from this scheming woman, who insists on marriage. Also [4] does the marriage law requiring a doctor's examination before the license is issued apply to people over 50 and 60 years of age?

S. A.

2. Only in his share.

3. We see no reason why you should not correct her mistaken assumption mentioned in your preceding sentence.

4. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROGRESS, INC.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—In the '70s Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton made a railroad journey through Ohio on their way to Illinois. There being no sleeping accommodations on their particular train, the two pioneer suffragists sat through the night gazing into the darkness. Mrs. Stanton had noted the number of homes in which lights were shining. "Can it be," said she to Miss Anthony, "that there is sickness in all of those isolated homes?"

Miss Anthony determined to know the reason for the burning of the midnight oil. The conductor on the train was well acquainted with the folk along the line of his route. He said: "It is early fall and the women are preparing for the winter. They have no leisure or opportunity to sew in the daytime. After the babies are tucked in bed they start to work, patiently stitching every garment by hand."

Miss Anthony resolved that information about sewing machines was just as valuable as suffragist propaganda; so she induced manufacturers to print handbills with suffrage publicity on one side and sewing machine advertisments on the other. With Mrs. Stanton, Miss Anthony persuaded the fathers of the Western Reserve to part with some of their cash to lessen woman's burden. Thus the sewing machine began the liberation of women from ceaseless toil.

The new sewing machines, 1938 models, are electrically driven; no pedaling. The sewing machine is just one domestic device that has made existence not only tolerable but agreeable. In fact some folk like it.

We no longer have to feed wood into a hungry stove, rub clothes on a crinkled washboard in a tub and smooth them with a sadiron, which even as a kid, getting at the meaning of words, I thought well named.

We no longer fill a lamp with smelly oil and trim the black end of a wick, a job which would ruin today's smart manicure.

Ice boxes have gone to college and graduated as mechanical refrigerators. What woman now dons a frightful dusting cap, when the vacuum cleaner eats dirt alive?

The steaming but inadequate kitchen bathtub has given way to bathrooms that would make a Roman senator realize he was born much too soon.

These things have come because capital has given inventive and artistic geniuses a mammoth laboratory in which to evolve these masterpieces of convenience and comfort.

It was the French Socialist, Jean Jaures, who, when criticized for possessing a luxurious home said: "To do large things I must live largely." In our time and country the means to larger living has been rendered possible by the composite capital of a multitude of investors.

A market place was set up for the encouragement of the buying and selling of the backlog securities. Through the facilities of the stock exchange money has been garnered to finance all of the major industries which have given the American scene new zest and meaning.

For the present I wish merely to chalk on the blackboard the truth that the lessening of woman's burden in the home is a function of the modern stock exchange of which the New York institution, at Broad and Wall streets, is representative. You may not have thought of the stock exchange in so homely a fashion, but when new material felicities for the home are created they will again be financed through this medium.

Well, here I am, in the New Deal doghouse again. I have said a good word for the stock exchange.

THE NIEMOELLER TRIAL.

Sheboygan, Wis., Feb. 14.—I wish to commend you and to thank you for your refreshing editorial of Feb. 14 on the trial of Pastor Martin Niemoeller, Lutheran hero and contender for the Christian faith and Christian liberty. You have expressed the sentiments of many straight thinking, fair minded people of all faiths.

Indeed, if this thing occurred in Russia, one could not, and would not, be surprised. But the thought that a sad situation like this obtains in Germany, the land to which God gave Martin Luther, and to think that this land now deals so ungratefully and unjustly and shamefully with a most sincere and devout follower of Luther, and one of its distinguished, loyal heroes of war—this is too sad to contemplate.

If the department of justice in Germany permits, or even helps, the Nazis to accomplish their evil design with regard to this Christian martyr, then may that deed go down into the records of history to the everlasting shame of the land and those of its people, who either by their indifference or their active support, have made such an administration of their affairs possible.

M. F. HUETER,
Pastor, St. Andrew's Lutheran Church.

ON BOYCOTTS.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Boycotts would never get anywhere if newspapers ignored them. They seldom achieve their alleged objectives, anyhow. All they ever amount to is stories and pictures. Name half a dozen which secured anything else. Name three. Name one!

Don't name the spontaneous boycott of high prices. This is merely the law of supply and demand in operation. I'm speaking of the organized, artificial kind which tries to borrow the law, which tries to regiment us by the force of publicity.

They damage a lot of noncombatants but never change a policy. If anything, they drive the policy to entrench itself, stronger than ever.

Why are they started against one thing after another, with the same faces—not a very lovely crew—up in front of every boycott? Publicity hounds, all, regardless of the cause unless there is a commercial motive involved. They'll climb on any bandwagon giving them a chance to sound off and pose for news cameras. How about a newspaper boycott of boycotts, and pictures of boycotters? CLARENCE A. BUSH.

GYPSIES IN DE KALB COUNTY.

Genoa, Ill., Feb. 14.—In yesterday's Voice of the People I noticed three complaints about gypsies. In this county, De Kalb, we have a sherif, Mr. Oscar Larson, who has hit upon a plan that has practically run them out. As soon as a band is located he immediately rounds them up and takes them to the county jail where they are finger printed and photographed, their car numbers taken and such other information as can be obtained. They are then released and requested not to return to the county. In this way our county is free from this trouble. A while back, a party was jailed here and was driving another's car. The owner of the car lived in Chicago, and when the sherif called him to come and get his car, he answered that he wouldn't come himself but would send a garage man for it. He evidently didn't want to be listed here. CHARLES COLE.

HE'S WINDING UP.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Our Sunday symphony hours will soon be gone. Taking their place will be the nasal voices of baseball announcers recounting the puerile antics of middle aged men in long underwear and hillbilly youths with tobacco stained molars, romping through hot summer days in various parks of culture. O, joy! I can hardly wait.

MUNICIPAL COURT SELECTIONS FILL SLATE FOR G. O. P.

Woman Among 12 Picked by County Committee.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Cook county Republican central committee completed its slate yesterday for the primary of April 12 by adding the names of twelve candidates for associate judge of the Municipal court to the list already approved for county offices.

The twelve indorsed include the three Republicans now on the bench whose terms expire this year. They are Edward B. Casey, Samuel Heller, and Samuel H. Trude. Also named were four who have seen previous service in this court. They are John F. Haas, Harry F. Hamlin, Albert B. George, and William L. Morgan. The Republicans consequently offer the same number of experienced men as the Democrats, who have seven sitting judges on their ticket.

Only Woman Candidate.

The other five who complete the Republican slate are Edward A. Fisher, former assistant United States district attorney; Edward Chayes, William F. Cooper, Charles J. Grablowski, and Mary Berkemeier Quinn, the only woman candidate slated by either party.

Decision on the slate for the Municipal court was delayed, it was learned, by a controversy over former Judge John H. Lyle. At its first pre-primary meeting the county committee voted to indorse all former judges who would run again, but opposition to including Lyle's name was led by Henry A. Gardner, former president of the Chicago Bar association. Lyle's name was dropped.

Gardner, now township committeeman from New Trier, was a member of the slate making committee. It is understood he opposed Lyle because of the position of the Chicago Bar association that Lyle disregarded the law by his policy when judge of setting prohibitively high bail bonds in hoodlum cases. The bar association's position was upheld later by the higher courts.

Senator Dieterich Files.

The nominating petition of United States Senator William H. Dieterich for the Democratic renomination was filed yesterday at Springfield. Although Dieterich repeatedly had said he would run again, there had been some doubt whether he would file against Congressman Scott W. Lucas, the Horner entry, and Michael L. Igoe, whom the Cook county organization is expected to indorse.

The fourth man to file for the Democratic nomination for senator is Newton Jenkins of Chicago. In 1924, 1930, and 1932 he sought the same nomination from the Republicans and in 1936 was a candidate for senator on the Lemke petition ticket.

JEAN KATHLEEN DEMERS.

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Jean Kathleen Demers, age 3, a prodigy of Tracadie, Nova Scotia, rattles off wisecracks and random facts from an apparently inexhaustible fund of knowledge today.

"They call me the walking book of knowledge," she said.

She knows all the answers. Boredly, as though impatient for something really hard, she replied glibly that Paramaribo is the capital of Dutch Guiana, that Lake Michigan is the fifth largest lake in the world with an area of 22,460 square miles, that the buffer state between Russia and China is Mongolia, and that the Suez canal was opened in 1869 and built by a French engineer named Ferdinand de Lesseps.

Jean was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Albert Demers, wife of a machinist, who accounted for Jean's startling precocity by her unyielding inquisitiveness.

LAWYER ANGERS MERRY; SHE RUNS OUT ON HEARING

Angered by what she termed the personal remarks of Attorney Benjamin Ehrlich, red haired Merry Fahrney stamped yesterday from the courtroom of Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell. She was being sued by Ehrlich for $2,500 fees.

"I don't have to listen to that," the patent medicine heiress shouted as she ran to the door, where she burst into tears.

Attorney Ehrlich said he was never paid for his services in the suit in which Merry divorced Hugh Parker-Pickering, her first husband, in September, 1933.

Merry testified she hadn't hired Ehrlich in the Pickering suit but had asked him to represent her in her recent suit against her third husband, Baron Arturo Berlingieri. She said she fired him for a remark to her maid.

Attorney James Rich and Mrs. Marion Harwan, secretary to Attorney John McMahan, who is now dead, testified they did the legal work for Miss Fahrney in her 1933 suit.

Justice Samuel Harrison of Evanston, whose offices are right across the street from the police station, came back from a siege of pneumonia yesterday with an offer of great interest to thrifty young couples.

The justice, who is 84 years old and has been a magistrate for thirty-six years, had been reading about Evanston's dollar day today. "Why," said he, "I have the best bargain in Evanston, an item that will last for a lifetime if treated with proper consideration."

He explained that, since it's dollar day, he'll marry any number of couples who wish his services at $1 a couple. No rebates, no exchanges.

UPHOLDS LOCAL OPTION IN AREAS OUTSIDE TOWNS

An unincorporated section of a township has the right to determine by local option whether the sale of liquor will be permitted, the Illinois Supreme court ruled yesterday. The court affirmed a $50 fine imposed on Herbert M. Smith.

Smith was convicted of selling liquor in dry territory in his tavern in New Trier township, outside the limits of Glencoe. Smith questioned the power of a township to local self-government.

That part of the township lying outside village limits voted dry in 1934. The court held local option could be submitted to referendum in any municipality or unincorporated area of any size in the state.

Penguins for Ice Carnival

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Jackie, 2 years old (left), and George, 3, are among the six Van Der Bosch children who will take part in the ice carnival opening tonight at the Chicago Arena. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Der Bosch of Rogers Park. The opening night of the carnival will benefit the Travelers' Aid society. The carnival is being staged by the Chicago Figure Skating club.

Use Sun Valley as Theme for Ice Carnival

BY JUDITH CASS.

THOROUGHLY American in setting and decorations is the Chicago Figure Skating club's seventh ice carnival, opening tonight at the Chicago Arena with a performance for the benefit of the Travelers' Aid society. The Arena rink has been decorated to represent the newest winter sports resort, Sun Valley, with the Sun Valley lodge and the Sawtooth mountains of Idaho in the background. Snowy pine trees blending into the mountains and gorgeously colored ice carry out the winter theme.

From the opening juvenile number to the big "Top Hats and Tails" finale the carnival promises to be the most successful and unusual one the club has given. Adding to the atmosphere of snow and ice will be a team of eleven Alaskan and Siberian huskies and a reindeer team. All of the children taking part in the carnival, as well as all of the youngsters who will accompany their parents to it, will be thrilled to see Earl Hammond, adventurer and explorer, demonstrate these methods of arctic travel. When Mr. Hammond was a member of the Sir Hubert Wilkins expedition he covered 3,000 miles of ice and snow by dog team.

Six Brothers and Sisters in Act.

Among the juvenile and junior members of the Figure Skating club who will take part in the first big act, a children's frolic at Sun Valley, are Valee and Catherine Reynolds and Polly Thompson, who will be in the fairy ballet; Margo Reynolds, Marcia and Janet Richards, Mary Fawkes, and Joan Mitchell, who will do a solo in the junior ballet; Clay Judson, Jimmie Richards, and Charles Anderson, who will be polar bears, and Joan Yokum, who will do a snowbird solo with the bears.

Six brothers and sisters Van Der Bosch, five of them penguins, the sixth a snow man, will take part, establishing a record of some sort. The penguins are Edna, 12; Larry, 9; Betty, 6; George, 3, and Jack, 2. Richard Van der Bosch, 14, will be a snow man.

Joan and Sally Mitchell will do a specialty together, and Nancy Meyer will give an exhibition. Miss Barbara McClurg will take part in an ambitious scene, "The Military Corps," in which the participants will skate in darkness, wearing luminous costumes.

As a special feature for the friends of the Travelers Aid who skate, the rink will be made available immediately following the carnival without further charge except for wardrobe.

Eleanor Everett Will Be Bride in London.

Among the many spring weddings that will be of interest to Chicagoans is one that will take place in London during the first week of April, that of Miss Eleanor Everett to Alan W. Watts. Miss Everett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Everett, are giving up their apartment at the Windermere East hotel today and leaving for the east. Mrs. Everett will sail for England in the Queen Mary next Wednesday. Because of his health, her husband will not accompany her, but will remain in the east until she returns.

Miss Everett and her fiancé have taken an apartment in Courtfield gardens, in London, not far from the Victoria and Albert museum, and are busy with repairs and furnishings. It will be ready for them after their wedding, which will take place in a church, with a small reception following.

Miss Everett's cousin, Miss Bobbe Everett, daughter of Mrs. John C. Everett, will be one of the bridal

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16.—One of the happiest marriages of recent vintage is the J. Walter Ruben-Virginia Bruce merger. They're so happy that the whole town is talking about them. It's a far cry from Virginia's early days in Hollywood, she told me yesterday. "My first contract out here was for $25 a week. I had two managers and they each kicked in $12.50 a week to guarantee me my weekly wage. Then they got me a job at Paramount for $75 a week, but only gave me $25. It was the first time I really understood the relation of capital and labor."

Ruben-Bruce marriage a success.

It was after a series of disappointments that she went to New York and worked as a showgirl for Flo Ziegfeld in "Smiles" with the Astaires. Then she showgirled for Schwab and Mandel. Today she's riding high in flickers; has a grand little daughter, and is "happier than any girl has a right to expect," in her own words. They were married last Dec. 18.

The Bruce eyeful can't be overlooked in any discussion of the Ten Prettiest in Hollywood. Despite her Welsh-English background, she is more of a Scandinavian type in coloring, a creamish-blonde. I imagine that the boys at Fargo, N. D., High school had a rush of blood to the head when she strolled into study hall, and probably the geometry professor had moments when he wasn't certain that x equaled x.

Who are the most gorgeous in Hollywood? Loretta Young, Marlene Dietrich, Joan Crawford, Merle Oberon, Miss Bruce, Kay Francis, June Lang, Connie Bennett, and Greta Garbo are nine of them. Of these La Dietrich, La Crawford, and La Bennett have more of an AIR to them than any of the rest. When they sweep into a room, heads pop up.

Drinking note: Franchot Tone and Ray Milland drink vodka. The first drink of this Russian white mule scalds your throat. From then on, you're dumb.

No visiting celeb ever received so much attention out here as Johnny Broderick, famous New York detective. Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Al Jolson, George Raft, Jack Benny, and all of the rest of 'em made a fuss over him.

But Broderick couldn't wait to get back to Broadway, because he was lonesome for his two kid daughters and the mother! Gable is still raving about him for this reason: He was praising Broderick and Johnny cut in: "Listen, Clark—I was lucky enough to be in spots where I got publicity. There are a thousand other cops in New York just as tough, just as capable, but not so lucky."

Broderick looked over Robert Taylor very carefully and had this diagnosis: "Some day that kid is going to throw a right hand punch at some of his hecklers and nobody will ever again kid him about his looks. He's big enough to tip over most anybody, and I like the cut of his jaw."

The old violinist of Waukegan had a birthday the other night, and when I refer to the Waukegan Stradivarius I mean none other than Jack Benny, who just notched the 44 mark.

Say, there may be something in the zodiac at that. Benny and Edgar Bergen both have birthdays this week, and they are No. 1 and No. 2 in radio. The analysis of those born under Uranus is this: "You succeed in occupations that bring you in contact with great numbers of people. You are generous, yet inclined to skimp in petty ways. You take slights to heart. Frequently you have musical or dramatic talent." Benny's violin playing is as thin as you can slice musical talent.

Open letter to Seabiscuit: "Dear 'Biscuit: Once upon a time there was a great champion of the race track named Man o' War. He never asked the weight of a jocky, the name of a track, or the quality of the opposition. He just went out there and ran them bowlegged. Turf fans are getting an earache from the hourly, daily, and weekly squawks of your stable about the weight you will and will not carry. Somebody ought to tell your stable connections that they shouldn't turn the Sport of Kings into a weighing machine, or give a good hoss a bad name.

Sincerely,
ED SULLIVAN,

O. O. McIntyre would have been downright amazed at the headlines that shouted his death to the country. He would have been more amazed to hear the people of Hollywood. Robert Young summed it all up: "I never met him, but, darn it, I feel that I've lost a very dear friend." For McIntyre was essentially shy and timid, and despite his wide circulation, like most newspaper men, he never translated circulation into living people. The editorial praises of his work should have a beneficent influence on youngsters who will be the feature writers of the future, for it drives home the lesson that a typewriter need not be a lash or a knout. And, although it is a flippancy that nothing is deader than yesterday's paper, it was a succession of yesterday's papers that built O. O.'s epitaph.

The small town boy from Gallipolis, O., would never have believed that his death would command more attention than the demise of Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

Both Applause, Hisses Greet Milhaud Opera

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With cordial applause, mild applause, in silence, or with a hiss or two, members of the small audience which gathered in the Auditorium theater last evening for the fourth performance by the Salzburg Opera guild reacted in their various ways to a first local presentation of Darius Milhaud's "The Poor Sailor."

The work of an important contemporary French composer, with libretto by Jean Cocteau and settings by Eugen Schulz-Breiden, "The Poor Sailor" turns out to be a dour little one-acter whose story, if you had to telegraph it, might be handled as follows:

The wife of a sailor who has disappeared waits 15 years for him, resisting the importunities of another suitor and the advice of her father. The sailor returns, only to be filled with doubts as to his wife's fidelity.

He comes to her in disguise, announces that her husband is still alive, but that he needs money to discharge his debts and come home a free man. By showing her a pearl necklace and declaring that he is afraid to stay the night in the village with such a treasure he obtains her permission to sleep in the house. Realizing that possession of the necklace would solve her husband's problems, the wife deliberately murders the sleeping guest.

The music is strangely intervalled, rich in odd instrumental colorings, admirably suited to the melancholy and ironic story. Rhythmically loose and harmonically pungent, Milhaud's score gives the impression of great flexibility and of a direct sort of expressiveness. Powerfully it underscores the drama without ever pushing itself into the most prominent place.

A sordid waterfront setting in somber colors and uncompromisingly geometrical lines furnishes the backdrop of the story. The classical unities are rigidly observed, and the swiftness and simplicity of the drama add immeasurably to its horror.

Classical, too, is the librettist's care that the trait of character which motivates the story [the simple, obstinate faithfulness of the wife] should also be the cause of the tragic conclusion. She would wait for her man and she would kill for him. From curtain to curtain her character is consistent.

From Hertha Glatz's superb performance as the wife one remembers most vividly her descent of the stairs, hammer in hand, to kill the sleeping owner of the pearls. Bassoon and percussion accompany her progress.

"The Poor Sailor" was followed by Ibert's "Angelique" and Rossini's "The Matrimonial Market." The same triple bill is scheduled for tomorrow night. This evening and Saturday afternoon the guild mounts Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte," Saturday night Monteverdi's "The Coronation of Poppea." This last will conclude the engagement here.

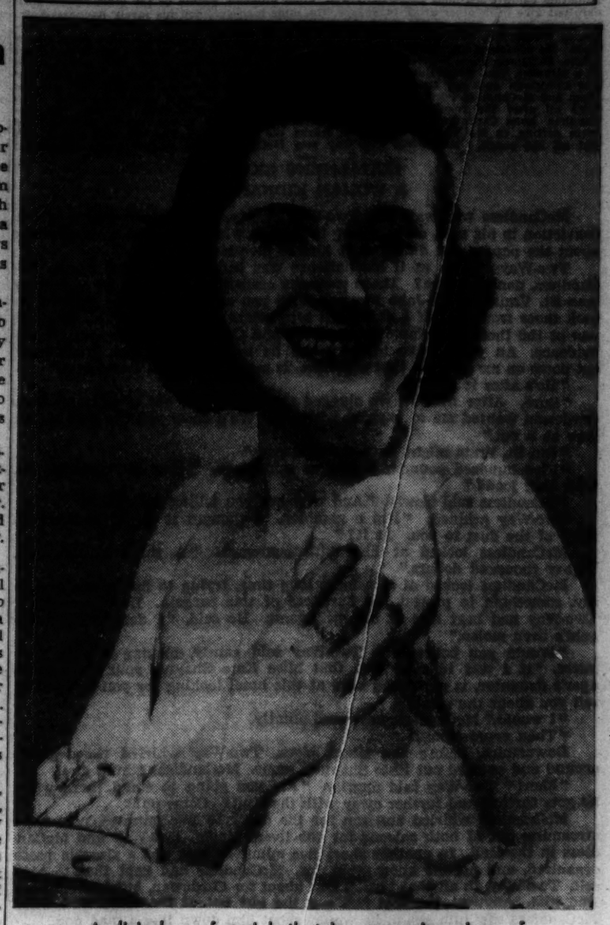
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



A divinely perfumed bath talc, companion piece of a justly famous perfume, is a Paris triumph just come to Chicago. It's feathery light, but the haunting scent clings to the skin.

Don't ask us to explain the lure of bath glorifiers. We have no truly reasonable explanation for the fact that we women get such a lift out of bubbly, perfumed bath water, out of smooth, scented soaps, and all the lotions and powders and perfumes with which to anoint ourselves afterward. All we know is that they satisfy the feminine soul. Soap and water just aren't enough.

There is right now an after-the-bath talc, fresh from Paris, for which we could commit larceny without a qualm. It's a big box, and a handsome though rather plain one, in gold with a design of black. The pale pink powder is very, very fine, and the scent—well, whoever blended it knew how to mix mystery and beauty and get a gorgeous answer!

This talc is a new companion piece for a heavenly perfume that's been sort of an international favorite for many years. It's the perfume choice of the duchess of Windsor, we were told in Paris last spring. It's a puzzler, but divinely beautiful. There's just a touch of lavender among all its beautiful notes, but beyond that we know not of what it might be composed.

This is luxurious, of course, and all who can own it rate our envy. The scent of the powder is delicate, as it should be, but it still is pervasive enough to scent the skin wonderfully and to keep it fragrant for hours on end. It is a perfect finishing touch to bath or shower. There's a fat puff with which to dust it on; it makes the skin feel cool and satiny.

The use of a fine powder is almost imperative for the woman who wears a snug girdle; it slips on much more easily and feels more comfortable against the skin. Dusting the toes, too, is an excellent idea.

A French Touch Marks Display of New Shoes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

When a genius in design gets down to footnotes the results are as excitingly different as anything the designer has ever evolved in the way of clothes accessories and hats. The new showing of early spring and summer shoes will convince you that there is something decidedly different in footgear. These are daytime models that can be worn with simple or the more feminine clothes and also worn with dress parade clothes after 5 o'clock for informal dinner parties.

The materials are summer suedes, the smoothest stuff in town; supple calfskins, and that outstanding success, gleaming patent lether. Heels are high and gracefully femmine without losing any quality of comfort. For the first time in months you'll find street oxfords that are marked by fine French distinction.

Pumps have become even more graceful and feminine in outline, and all the open toe models have been cut and designed with discretion, the openings being reduced so that great exposures of toes or hosiery will no longer distress the spectators.

Stunning perforated models prove that when a genius functions the stunt of poking holes in patent lether or suede or calfskin becomes a lovely gesture.

See the pumps and oxfords that are perforated in pattern to give the effect of eyelet embroidery. Then notice the crisp open work pattern of candy box frills.

And what has been achieved with suede and patent combines is something to make fashion history. Shallow scallops, outlined in a thread line of patent leather, are appliqued to assume slender, streamlined pumps.

The Housewife

Now that so many families are using part of the basement space of their homes for game and recreation rooms there is a need for a good paint that can be applied to concrete flooring. We've come across such a paint.

It's equally good for wood, concrete, or linoleum floors, and for canvas or wood decks, and will dry in dust-free condition in an hour and hard in six hours.

The finish is glossy and the paint will stand temperature changes, and is easy to wash. Alkalis won't hurt it.

It's durable, tough, and elastic, and it comes in ten colors.

Millicent Rogers Regains Voice in Fortune of Son, 13

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Thrice-wed Millicent Rogers Salm Ramos Balcom today regained her position as co-guardian of the 20 million dollar fortune of her eldest son, Peter Salm, 13 years old. Surrogate James A. Delehanty vacated the appointment made yesterday of John J. Dempsey, attorney, as special guardian. He named Dempsey because Mrs. Balcom and John C. Myers, attorney, had failed to render an accounting within a period specified by the court. Myers explained that the boy's mother is in the Tyrol, Austria, and necessary mailing of documents between here and her continental home caused the delay. The court then revoked Dempsey's appointment.

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Abe McCandless, who framed Poco St. Vrain and made him an outlaw, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents, sent to meet at the mine and bring down the gold, are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way Hornbeck, leader of one band, persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents and get the gold. At the mountain camp Poco finds Espey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. They dare not give each other away to Shayne, the mine manager, and his lovely daughter Kate. Cardowan crowds Poco off the cliff and takes the gold. He joins forces with Two-Way. Posing as prospectors they are given an army escort to Rincon. Meanwhile Kate helps rescue Poco. He confesses his identity and promises to recover the gold to save her father from blame. In Rincon Poco is arrested by Sherif Hogan on McCandless' order. Poco saves the life of a stranger, Van, whom Horan tries to hire to kill Poco. Van helps Poco capture Two-Way and Cardowan and put them in jail. Poco brings McCandless to the jail. By tricking them and McCandless Poco gets them to tell him they put the gold on a stagecoach. Poco rides off after the coach. The outlaws outwit Van and gain their freedom. At McCandless' hotel Cardowan recognizes Kate Shayne. Two-Way leaves him to prevent Kate from getting to McCandless. Cardowan learns the hotel clerk has the gold which was put off the coach. Meanwhile Two-Way sees McCandless and double-crosses Cardowan.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

A WOMAN KIDNAPED.

McCandless was watching Two-Way closely, suspiciously, aware of the conviction in his talk, and fighting it. "Then what was all this hocus-pocus about the papers you didn't want him to give me?"

Two-Way sighed, as if his patience was being tried, "But damit, McCandless, don't you see? Those were the credentials of the other insurance man St. Vrain killed—Jake Finger. With you as a witness, he claimed he took those from me. If I didn't tell him where the gold was hid, he'd tell you of the theft and blame it on to me and Cardowan. There was all the evidence. All you'd have to do would be to ask the army. You'd have cut down on me with all that evidence. It meant my neck. I told him."

"He's after it now?"

"Sure. After he left, we slugged the guard, got out of jail and then Cardowan wanted me to bargain with you. We'd show you the gold if you give us a cut."

"But St. Vrain might have the gold now."

"Five hundred pounds," Two-Way said dryly. "How far could he get with that load?"

McCandless said slowly, "And why are you telling me this?"

Two-Way grinned. "I'm a gambler. I thought it might be worth a third of the dust to you. Is it?"

McCandless looked at him for a long time, trying to find something to say, something to protest the hardness of this bargain. But he couldn't. Two-Way had beat him at his own game. He said, "I don't believe the gold's been stolen."

"Would you believe it," Two-Way said gently, making a wild, wild guess, "if I was to show you that Miss Kate Shayne, your mine manager's daughter, is registered here at this hotel looking for you so she can tell you about the steal?"

"I would," McCandless answered bluntly.

"Then come along."

Downstairs, before the silent clerk, Two-Way whirled the register around and pointed out Kate Shayne's name. McCandless stared at it.

"Man!" Two-Way said angrily. "Are you going to stand there while he gets further and further away with the stuff? Come on!"

McCandless whirled and ran for the door. In five minutes, men were streaming out of both saloons for the livery stable, Two-Way and McCandless in the lead. In another short five minutes there was a sizeable posse organized, and no one knew what for. McCandless had kept that to himself. Two-Way, in all that bustle, cast about for Cardowan, but he could not find him. Anyway, the fool had got the girl out of the way. And when McCandless saw him again, he would shoot him down like a mad dog.

They rode out of town south in a thunder of hoofs.

Cardowan stepped out of the passageway between the hotel and its adjoining building and hurried down to the feed stable.

He bought a complete outfit, horses, harness and buckboard, and drove them off up the street. He went the full block and came around in the alley behind the hotel. Then he went in the back way and spoke to the clerk, whom he had to waken.

"Give me a lift with these, will you, Dad?"

"Sure." The clerk helped him carry out the two heavy bundles which he loaded on the buckboard.

"Yeah. I'm following along now. I'll pick him up."

As soon as the clerk went in, Cardowan dismounted and went over to the passageway between the two buildings. In a moment he returned with Kate Shayne wrapped in the rug.

He had a night's head start on the crowd that would be sure and follow. It was a risk, but he was used to that. There was a railroad back over the mountains and south and once he reached there he would have safe transportation, the money and a clear road ahead.

Chucking the bundle in the buckboard, he drove north out of town, the way he had come in.

Once clear of the lights of town, he took Kate down and unwrapped her.

For a long moment she sat on the seat and could not speak, her tongue numbed from the gag.

When she found her voice, she asked hustily, "Where are you taking me?"

"Mexico, if you're good," Cardowan drawled. He looked obliquely at her and laughed softly. "It'll be a long pull, sister, but once we make it, I'll be in gravy."

She said nothing and he was silent for a moment. Then he looked suddenly at her. "We'll make it," he amended thoughtfully. "Why not?"

Then he laughed—and she understood.

Poco knew the route of the stage well, calculated its speed and his own and guessed he could overtake it around the ford of Roan river. He did not hurry. Rocking along in the saddle, he thought of Kate. She would never rely on him to bring the gold back because she neither thought him able to do it, nor honest enough to. She had classed him with Cardowan, a killer and thief.

Well, he would show her that it didn't take a man to be honest and dull. He'd bring back her gold, laugh at her thanks and ride off.

Rousing from his reverie, he was aware that he had crossed the ford and by the light of the full moon he could see that the stage had turned off the road. The deep tracks of its wheel rims were gone.

On the other side of the ford he could see where the stage turned off on a side-road, and immediately he understood. This was the trail to the TC3 spread, one of the McCandless holdings. Doubtless the stage had turned up this road to leave word of Abe McCandless' shooting, after which they would take the shortcut over the hills and pick up the stage road farther on.

He spurred ahead now on the main road and in another half hour came to the spot where the short cut ran into the main road. There were no tracks on the shortcut, which meant he was in time.

He pulled his horse off the road, groundhaltered it in some screening mesquite, and then squatted in the shadow of a pinon. He did not have long to wait, for the deep rumble of the stage reached his ear when he had taken no more than two puffs from the cigaret he had rolled. He turned over in his mind the best way of holding up the stage. Without rocks to roll in the road, or trees to drag across it, the stage would not stop at his command.

He stood up now and walked over to the end of the shortcut. Here the stage must climb a steep grade before it achieved the road again.

Leaves Half Million to Yale to Improve Studies in English

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Yale university is going to get half a million dollars with the expressed wish that it do something to further the study of correct English.

Fifty years ago when Nell Gray, of Oswego, N. Y., was studying engineering at Sheffield scientific school, Yale university, he was impressed by an instructor who constantly hammered away at his students to get the facts and convey them in precise language.

Gray was graduated in 1890, became a manufacturer of machinery, retired in wealth, and died Jan. 3.

His will was filed for probate at Oswego today. Richard J. Turk, attorney for the estate, said he left over $500,000 in trust, the income to go to a sister.

Upon her death the money will go to Yale without restriction, but Gray, Turk said, expressed the wish that the university use the money to further "the studying of a correct and definite expression of the English language in all departments to help each one get the facts and be right."

"He seemed convinced that there was a lot of lost motion in language and a lot of actual misunderstanding between people because frequently they are unable to say precisely what they mean," Turk said. "He apparently felt that scientific accuracy could be carried over into language so that ideas and facts could be properly conveyed."

High Court Upholds School Board's Right to Winnemac Park

The Illinois Supreme court ruled yesterday that Winnemac park is rightfully in possession of the board of education, and denied claims to the property by Charles M. Pettit's heirs.

Pettit mortgaged the land to the city 101 years ago to secure a $1,500 loan, and the city foreclosed, holding the land in trust for the school board. Last year the Pettit heirs attempted to regain possession of the 40 acre tract by paying the city $8,500 to cover interest and principal. The city council refused payment, and last April Judge Francis B. Allegretti upheld the board's possession of the land. Yesterday's ruling upheld his decision.

The Amundsen High school and a new elementary school are on the tract, where an athletic field is being built and a new school for crippled children is planned.

Celebrate 20th Birthday of Lithuanian Republic

The 20th anniversary of the republic of Lithuania was celebrated yesterday by Chicago citizens of Lithuanian descent. After a reception in the Lithuanian consulate, 100 Bellevue place, a massmeeting was held in the Lithuanian auditorium, Halsted and 31st streets. The observance will be continued Sunday with two meetings and an Independence day banquet in the Morrison hotel.

A Sure Way to Heal Dry Chapped Rough Skin

There is one sure way that has never failed to heal chapped, dry, rough skin. The way Doctors, Dentists and Nurses do. They cannot afford to have rough, chapped skin, as it would expose them unnecessarily to dangerous infections. That is why they must keep their skin in good condition.

Your skin gets chapped, dry and red because essential skin elements are destroyed by harsh treatment and bad weather. The way, then, to make it soft and white, is to replace these essential skin elements. To do this, get Mystic cream from any druggist or department store. Mystic cream supplies everything your skin needs to make it soft, smooth and white.

Apply Mystic cream at night before retiring. It is absorbed almost instantly. Mystic cream is not the least bit sticky or greasy, and it won't stain.

Results are quick and sure no matter how rough and dry your skin is. You can always have soft, smooth, lovely skin, if you get the habit of using Mystic cream.

[ADVERTISMENT]

For "Raw" Throat Do This—

Don't waste precious time on ineffective remedies. Use Zonite! Standard laboratory tests prove it's 9.8 times more active than any other popular, non-poisonous antiseptic . . . Zonite kills the germs that cause cold—at contact! . . . Soothes raw throat, too, and increases the flow of natural, healthful fluids!

party. Miss Bobbe Everett has been visiting the bride-to-be in London since Thanksgiving time, but now is traveling in Europe with her mother.

Mrs. Edward Everett will return from England in May. She and Mr. Everett will spend the summer in the east.

Announce Date for St. Luke's Style Show.

Before leaving yesterday for a six or seven weeks' trip to Honolulu Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, announced that the board has chosen Tuesday, Oct. 18, as the date for its annual fashion show. It will be given, as usual, in the afternoon and again in the evening in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Miss Cornelia Conger is accompanying Mrs. Gary to Honolulu.

The 54th annual meeting of the board of directors of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society will be held at 12:30 o'clock today at the Hotel Sherman. Chauncey McCormick will preside. Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of relief for Chicago, will speak on "The Effect of Economic Conditions on Child Welfare Problems."

Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne are opening their home at 1120 Lake Shore drive for a meeting of the American Friends of China this afternoon. Henry Killam Murphy, adviser on architecture to the Chinese government, will give an informal talk about the present leaders of China. Members are not allowed to bring guests to this meeting.

Once each year the members of the Winnetka Woman's club give a party for their husbands. This year it is to be a lecture by John Mason Brown, dramatic critic and author, who will talk about "Broadway in Review" tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Siemel to Repeat Hunting Thrills.

It is seldom that a lecturer is asked to repeat a talk at a club, but that is what happened to Sacha Siemel, the man who hunts tigers with a spear instead of a gun. He lectured at the Adventurers' club last week and the men were so thrilled by his modest account of thrilling adventures in the jungles of Brazil that he was invited to give the same lecture tonight so that the wives and children of members could hear him.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Chicago Lighthouse Mr. Siemel will talk to the blind. He will be introduced by Mrs. John F. Jennings, a member of the board of the Lighthouse and one of the few Chicagoans who have hunted with Mr. Siemel in Brazil. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings took a trip with him about a year and a half ago.

Harley F. MacNair, professor of far eastern history at the University of Chicago, and Dr. P. C. Chang, dean of Nankai university at Tientsin, China, will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Emergency Committee for American Colleges in China, at 12:30 o'clock today at the Palmer house.

Prof. MacNair will speak on "The Necessity for American Assistance." Dr. Chang's subject will be "Universities in China Today."

At the February meeting of the Woman's Symphony Orchestral association Mrs. Royden J. Keith was re-elected president. The association is considering a spring benefit to be given late in March.

Midwinter Parties at Lake Forest Academy.

For more than thirty years the week-end nearest Washington's birthday has brought the most important social event of the year for the students at the Lake Forest academy, the annual midwinter festivities. This year's between terms celebration will start tomorrow afternoon with a tea and reception in Headmaster John W. Richards' home, and will conclude with a dance Saturday night.

The academy's feminine week-end guests will arrive tomorrow, to stay in Durand house, which has been vacated by the students to accommodate their guests.

Mrs. William Roy Carney and Mrs. James R. Bremner will preside at the tea tables at the reception tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow night the young people will attend the musical club's concert and follies show, "The Raw Deal." An informal dance will be held in the gymnasium following the show.

Saturday morning, weather permitting, the best skaters in the school will give an exhibition on the academy's new hocky rink, followed by the traditional faculty-student basketball game. The Gargoyle club, the school's dramatic organization, will present "The Hottentot," at the Ferry hall gymnasium Saturday afternoon. Scores of the school's alumni living in Chicago and on the north shore will come to the Saturday night dance.

College Club Luncheon Monday.

The Chicago College club is giving a luncheon next Monday for Genevieve Forbes Herrick [Mrs. John] of Washington, formerly of Chicago. Mrs. Herrick will spend next week here as the guest of her sister, Mrs. George S. Smith of Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schulze Jr., are entertaining at cocktails next Tuesday preceding the North Shore Art league's Mardi Gras ball at the Winnetka Woman's club. Mrs. Jasper King is president of the league.

Mrs. Edward Mahon will be hostess at tea at the weekly causerie of the Alliance Française this afternoon, following a talk by Mrs. A. B. Miller on "The Life of Foreigners in the Far East."

Dr. and Mrs. William M. McMillan [Elizabeth Griffith] of Highland Park became the parents of their second child, a daughter, yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. The McMillans have a 4 year old son, William Griffith McMillan.

Practical New Morning Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

This morning frock, which is delightfully simple to make, is a practical model which you can wear all day. It avoids drabness and has deft points of styling which lift it out of the ordinary.

The neckline may be square or V. The sleeves are merely extensions of the shoulderline, which makes them comfortable and easy to sew. The belt extends only from the side front and ties in a bow in back. A pointed pocket does duty at the right side of the skirt. Shirring originating under the shoulder yoke gives desirable fulness to the bodice. The skirt is cut for fulness, but does not employ plaits.

The V neckline has brief revers for that "extra" touch. If you use the square neckline trim it with braid to match that used on the sleeves and pocket. Any type of washable fabric, either light or dark, printed or plain, will make up well.

Style No. 2055 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 35 inch material, with 2¼ yards of braid.

Stre-e-e-tch! It's an Aid for the Waistline

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Come on now, sisters! There is no use kidding ourselves that we can get along without a new waistline. Let's throw the thickish, bulgy old one in the ash can as fast as we know how. Easter will be here before we know it and won't we be the sorry ones if we can't get into that grand little number we saw the other day!

Let's get busy again with the stretching work. From personal experience, from observation, and from confessions, I know you simply can't beat stretching to get you up and doing as a younger woman.

It's so good for those of us who take our exercises as we would bitter medicine. You don't have to make a face at all if you stretch right. You don't get tired and you are not in danger of overworking long unused muscles.

These are nice bright mornings to start. Next week won't be nearly so good, because seven days have flown by in which you might have stretched off an inch. But it is elasticity we want you to get—pep.

Wake yourself up in the morning with a long "heave-ho" and a pull and stretch on those muscles. Stretch long. Stretch arms wide and up overhead, space and bedboard permitting.

Hop out of bed and get down on the floor and stretch some more, arms, legs, feet, neck. Stretch from tip to toe. Stretch every which way. You don't need any more technique than just to stretch. Stretch the hip down long. The legs. The ankles. Stretch the spine and iron out a few kinks. Stretch from waist up to shoulders, feeling that good underarm and side rib pull.

Then, get up on your feet and do one good stretching exercise. Feet apart. Arms at sides. Now raise arms to front, on up overhead and back with them a bit. Meanwhile, bend the knees slightly and stretch down with them. You won't pull yourself apart, but you will get a grand stretch workout. Do this up to twenty-five times at first, increasing to fifty, and believe one who knows that this one exercise, done regularly, will do things for you you will like.

Cooking Editor Catalogs Kinds of Food Fishes

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

America isn't much of a fish eating country when compared with Japan, the Scandinavian countries, Portugal, England, and Wales, leaders in fish consumption. It has been estimated that the national fish intake averages 13 pounds of fish a year per person, but, of course, most of this average is accounted for by the people who live along the coasts.

Since there are 160 common species of food fish it is quite impossible to identify all of the kinds which may appear in the market. But if a reliable dealer is patronized the housewife shouldn't have difficulty in selecting a kind suitable for her purposes. Fish is rich in food value and should be a part of every family's menu at least once a week.

This guide to fish market lore appears in two parts. Today's column and tomorrow's may prove of value if clipped and tucked into scrap book or cooking file.

CLASSIFICATION AND PURCHASING GUIDE FOR FRESH FISH.

BASS—Common types: Fresh water black or small mouthed bass, ½ to 5 pounds; Atlantic black sea bass, 1 to 5 pounds; striped bass [rock fish] of the Atlantic coast, 20 pounds average weight. Flesh: Flaky, white, lean. Season: All year for black and striped bass; summer for sea bass. Market units: Whole, pound, or fillet for black and sea bass; pound, fillet, steak for striped bass. Cooking methods: Bake, broil, fry, or steam.

BLUEFISH—A carnivorous Atlantic and gulf fish weighing 3 to 5 pounds. One of the best fish for eating. Flesh: Firm, lean, sweet. Season: January to October. Market unit: Whole or pound. Cooking methods: Broil or bake.

BUTTERFISH—Silvery, resembles starfish somewhat; found along the Atlantic coast. Weighs ¼ to 1 pound. Flesh: Fat, delicately flavored. Season: April to November. Market unit: Whole fish. Cooking method: Broil.

CARP—Inland stream scavenger, 2 to 7 pounds. Flesh: Dry, lean; flavor often poor in summer. Season: All year. Market unit: Whole, pound, fillet. Cooking methods: Bake, simmer, or stew.

CATFISH—Common catfish is 5 to 8 inches, but the Mississippi catfish sometimes grows to 5 feet. Weight ranges between 1 and 35 pounds or more. There are twelve species of economic importance, abundant in fresh water streams of Atlantic, gulf, and Mississippi valley states, some in California. Flesh: Firm, fat, flaky, good quality. Market unit: Whole, pound, fillet, steak. Cooking methods: Fry, bake, broil.

CODFISH — Common cod found along mid-Atlantic and New England coasts. Alaska cod from Oregon to Bering sea. Weight varies from 6 to 75 pounds. Flesh: Firm, white, flaky, lean. Season: All year. Market unit: Whole, steaks, fillets, or by the pound. Cooking methods: Fry, bake, broil, steam, or simmer.

FLOUNDER—The flounder family includes halibuts, plaices, turbots, soles. "Flounder" is a term applied to smaller members of the group found at the mouths of rivers and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Weight varies from 2 to 5 pounds. Flesh: White, flaky, lean. Season: All year. Market unit: Whole, pound, fillet. Cooking methods: Broil, fry, bake.

HADDOCK—Similar in appearance to cod, weighs 1½ to 7 pounds, found in the Atlantic, north of the Delaware capes. Flesh: White, flaky, tender, rather dry. Season: All year. Market unit: Whole, pound, fillet. Cooking methods: Bake, fry, steam, or simmer, broil.

HALIBUT—Large, flat Atlantic and Pacific fish. Average weight, 50 to 75 pounds, but some specimens weigh as much as 700 pounds. Flesh: Firm white, flaky, medium fat. Season: All year. Market unit: Pound, fillet, steak. Cooking methods: Broil, bake, simmer.

HERRING—This fish is most important in canned and smoked forms. Atlantic and Pacific coasts, ½ to 1 pound. Flesh: Fat, good in flavor. Season: All year. Market unit: Whole. Cooking methods: Bake, broil.

MACKEREL—The common mackerel is abundant in the North Atlantic, and is one of the best eating fishes. Weight ranges from 12 to 16 cunces. King mackerel is larger, and may weigh as much as 100 pounds, although the average is 10 pounds. Spanish mackerel weighs from 6 to 10 pounds. Flesh: Firm, fat, few bones, good flavor. Season: Common and king, May to November; Spanish, November to May. Market unit: Whole, pound, fillet, steak. Cooking methods: Broil, bake, fry.

According to CULBERTSON

THE DELAYED TAKE-OUT DOUBLE.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is one type of bid with which most players are entirely unfamiliar, yet which is highly valuable in many situations. I refer to the delayed take-out double. On innumerable occasions a player's holding will not justify an immediate overcall, or an immediate double for a take-out. [Let us call this player East.] If North and South stop bidding at a very low level it becomes evident that West must have some strength and with that discovery East should not hesitate to reënter the auction. Let us consider a typical hand and bidding sequence:

NORTH
♥ J 8
♦ A K J 6 3

WEST
♠ 9 7 2
♥ A Q 6 5 3 2
♦ 10 7
♣ 10 5

EAST
♠ K Q 8
♥ 9 4
♦ Q 9 5 2
♣ A J 9 4

SOUTH
♠ J 8 5 4
♥ K 10 7
♦ 8 4
♣ K Q 7 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
Pass	?

It is with East's possible courses of action, after North's pass to one no trump, that we are concerned. Obviously, East can pass and thus avoid any risk. Moreover, he is justified in feeling that he may pick up a couple hundred points by defeating the opponents' contract. But if East adopts this course he is passing up an excellent bet. What he should do is double! He has a very fair hand, including one sure diamond stopper and a likelihood of two stoppers. Although a double is technically of the take-out variety, it carries a strong implication to partner that he should leave in the double if he feels that there is a reasonable chance to defeat one no trump. It is this feature of the delayed double that is its strongest point.

Consider West's hand in this particular deal. It contains a good heart suit and nothing outside. Yet West's proper response to East's delayed double is a pass, most emphatically not a two heart bid. If the doubled no trump is allowed to stand West can reasonably expect to run five of his six hearts. [It is highly unlikely that East would have doubled with a singleton heart.] West should bear in mind that East did not double one diamond, therefore there is no ground for the hope that game can be made in hearts. But there is excellent reason for feeling that one no trump may be severely penalized. If North passes, it will be noted that East's delayed double pays splendid dividends. Good defense, involving a low heart opening on West's part, will hold North-South to a maximum of four tricks. If North decides to rescue with two diamonds, East can double again, this time, of course, a straight penalty double, and although this is a better contract for North-South, it, too, will be defeated 500 points.

I commend this delayed, or secondary, double to readers' attention.

Tomorrow's Hand

Girl in Love with Employer Should Leave

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is in love with a man already provided with a wife, to say nothing of three young huskies, 11, 8, and 6, who still count on him as their pal and devoted father.

How much encouragement the man has given her, if any, we have no way of knowing, as we hear only one side of the case. She claims to have endured this infatuation three long years already, and without getting the man eventually her life will be ruined, she reports. She works for the man.

Every day, and in every way, her life becomes more and more unendurable as things, are. She sees her idol buying things for a woman who, our informant reports, has no use whatever for her man.

"Why should a woman like that get so much out of life? Why should she have what I feel is mine by right of loving him the way I do?" Etcetera, etcetera.

We get the same old tirade that always comes from the girl on the wrong side of the fence. We see her looking through the hole in the fence and getting a badly twisted point of view of what really goes on behind it.

Why should a woman like that get so much out of life? Because she has earned it, in all likelihood. She did present her man with three sons, didn't she? And even if she did nothing to justify her favored position, it's her position. She wouldn't be enjoying it, otherwise. No use talking a moral point of view with a girl who doesn't figure it in at all in her calculations.

So our advice to our correspondent would be to pack up her desk belongings and beat it off to new fields where she just might meet up with an unattached man who could set her straight on her crazy notions.

Personality of Child Can't Be Changed Easily

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There's Hal. He's the most sociable lad I ever knew. He's a "mixer." He likes people. He likes to know everybody. He's always on the go. Accepts all invitations he can but makes his selections with social advantage in mind.

He went to the same school and is of the same social and professional level as Mark. Mark is perfectly adjusted socially, as their teacher used to put it, but his social life is not the big thing to him. He has a lot of fun; he knows a lot of young people; he has a few intimate and congenial friends. But Mark doesn't want to be socially on the go all the time.

He's more critical of people and decidedly more discriminating than Hal. He wants something different from his contacts with people. Also, he can enjoy being alone when at home or outdoors. He seems to have inner resources.

You might find all sorts of differences among young people in general; some similar to these, perhaps, among girls. Marie is quiet and a student, Charlotte a friendly, housewifely girl, Sallie a veritable butterfly.

In talking about knowing your child and taking his individuality into account we haven't stressed much such aspects of personality as these. But it's understanding these phases of individuality that is as important as helping your child in his or her career choosing. Such understanding prevents parents and sometimes the children, too, from butting their heads against a stone wall in the effort to change them fundamentally.

What a mistake it would be to try to make Hal over; to try to make him a quiet stay-at-home, for example. And what a mistake it would be to try to force Mark into a mode of life that would be like Hal's, that would keep him constantly with other human beings. What a mistake it would be to try to make Sally or Charlotte like Marie—a purely mental type!

The leaflet, "Suggestions for the Enjoyable and Profitable Use of Children's Leisure," will be helpful to parents and teachers. It will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Balsam Fir.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Catbot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Combination blocks usually are great fun to set together because the quiltmaker has an opportunity to display her adeptness at both piecing and applique work. This is a good quilt to allow beginning quiltmakers to become acquainted with triangular patches and the care which is required in joining them properly. Two shades of green in the dark and gray green of the fir tree are used for "Balsam Fir" against a white ground. The finished coverlet measures 88 by 105 inches and only fifteen applique blocks are required. These are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks and bound with a half inch bias binding around the coverlet.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

THE STAGE

Helen Chandler, one of the four stars in "Tonight at 8:30," now in the Harris theater, will leave the cast after next Wednesday night's performance to go to New York for rehersals of "Dramatic School," in which she will have the leading rôle. This play is an adaptation by Jacques Deval, author of "Tovarich," of a Hungarian comedy and deals with theatrical life in Paris.

Miss Chandler's rôles in the Noel Coward plays will be taken by Muriel Kirkland, a prominent actress who was last seen in Chicago as the heroine of "Pride and Prejudice." She has also acted here in "The Greeks Had a Word for It" and "Squaring the Circle."

Burton Holmes began a program of five new travel talks in Orchestra hall last night, with British South Africa as his theme. The lecture will be repeated tomorrow evening and Saturday afternoon. His subject for next week's appearances will be "The New Roman Empire."

Camp Algonquin Fund Gets Gifts from Two Readers

Two contributions were received recently from readers of THE TRIBUNE for the Camp Algonquin fund—$2.50 from A Friend and $1 from Mrs. Geneva Ludwig Miller. Contributions either to the Free Ice fund or to the Camp Algonquin fund may be mailed to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., at the Tribune Tower, and will be acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper.

If blackheads and similar complexion flaws remain stubbornly, "bubble" them out by using DIOXOGEN CREAM, the two-way oxygen cleanser:

FAMILY SPLITS IN BATTLE OVER UTILITY FORTUNE

Brother Sues 3 Brothers and Sister.

A table in the court of Judge Walter T. Stanton and a utilities fortune estimated as high as $6,000,000 yesterday separated four brothers and a sister.

On one side of the table was Frank C. Hughes of Squirrel Island, Me. He brought suit to set aside the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hughes, widow of Alexander Hughes, wealthy utilities promoter and former attorney general of North Dakota.

Brother Is Chief Defendant.

Aligned against him on the other side were his three brothers and his sister. The brothers are Edmond, the chief defendant, a retired utilities executive, formerly of Chicago, but now of Bismarck, N. D.; George A. of Riverside, former president of the Edison General Electric Appliance company, and William B. of Evanston, a retired capitalist.

Frank Hughes charges that his mother had been mentally incompetent for two years when she signed her will in 1930. After the death of her husband in 1907, Frank also alleges, she was dominated by his brother Edmond. Mrs. Hughes died Dec. 15, 1935.

Charges $130,000 Not Listed.

Her estate, which was left to Edmond, according to the complaint, included $20,000 and a $50,000 home at Coral Gables, Fla. The inventory did not list $80,000 in cash and $50,000 in jewelry, Frank Hughes declares.

If the will is set aside, however, the suit asks an accounting from Edmond of earlier transactions with his mother. These involved the sale of the Hughes Electric company, the holding company of the family utility interests.

This was sold in 1928 to the Insulls, according to the bill, for $6,000,000. Edmond owned 10 per cent, William 10 per cent, and Mrs. Hughes 80 per cent, the suit stated. In 1916, however, Mrs. Hughes gave Edmond 41 per cent of her interest.

Denies Influencing His Mother.

Frank Hughes maintains this was a trust arrangement, solely for stock voting purposes, and should be considered part of her estate. With her remaining 39 per cent Mrs. Hughes purchased a $945,000 annuity, which was left to all of her children.

In his answer Edmond denies influencing his mother, and avers that the stock she gave him was really his. He said he sold it for $1,891,988. With the exception of Frank, his answer contends, the other brothers and his sister approved of the entire deal.

HOOVER WILL LAY WREATH ON TOMB OF BELGIAN KING

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States, tomorrow will join with Belgium in observance of the fourth anniversary of the death of King Albert.

Mr. Hoover arrived in France today from New York and went by automobile to Belgium, which he has not visited for nearly 20 years.

He will place a wreath in Laeken crypt on the tomb of the king, who was his friend during the world war when Hoover was chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium.

SEEK VETERAN'S WHEREABOUTS.

MRS. GERTRUDE WOOD.

If Mrs. Gertrude Wood is correct, her husband, Capt. David J. Wood of Winnetka village fire department is considering a career in motion pictures. Mrs. Wood said yesterday he had received several Hollywood offers after a successful screen test.

A year ago Mrs. Wood obtained separate maintenance. On the basis of a passionate love letter, Mrs. Wood accused her husband of misconduct with Mrs. Caroline de Windt [Carol G.] Gardner of Winnetka.

After Capt. Wood paid her $60 on alimony arrearage before Judge Thomas J. Lynch yesterday, Mrs. Wood made her remarks about the brass buttoned fire laddy and the movies. His attorney, Lloyd Faxon, heatedly denied them.

STOP TEACHING SPECIFIC JOBS, HUTCHINS URGES

Training people for specific jobs cannot be done by the colleges, Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, declared yesterday. Speaking before the convention of the Inland Daily Press association in the Hotel Sherman, he said:

"Hhe first responsibility of the college is to help the student understand the traditional wisdom of the race, not to prepare him for a job. At present there is a great deal of excitement about training people for public service. Public life is concerned with action on immediate problems. The college cannot bring these problems into the classroom.

"The shadiest educational ventures under respectable auspices are the schools of journalism. They exist in defiance of the obvious fact that the best preparation for journalism is a good education. Journalism itself can be learned, if at all, only by being a journalist."

FASHION TURNS TO 17th Century Baroque Art FOR DECORATIVE DETAIL

BACK in the Seventeenth Century, European painting and architecture broke away from formalism and rigidity and found freedom of expression in elaborate ornamentation. Joyous curves, adventurous scroll work, lines that led the eye through a series of decorative surprises—these were the characteristics of the Baroque period; and these are the inspiration for today's Baroque trend in Fashion.

GOLDEN GLOVERS FIGHT ON 3 FRONTS TONIGHT

COCHRANE SAYS HE IS THROUGH AS A CATCHER

Wills His Mask to Rudy York.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The playing career of Gordon [Mickey] Cochrane, once one of baseball's leading catchers, is over. Cochrane, seriously injured last spring, today said he had abandoned plans to play again and will devote all his time to his duties as manager and vice president of the Detroit Tigers. Cochrane suffered a skull fracture when struck by a ball pitched by Bump Hadley of the Yankees in a game last May.

Enjoying a vacation here on the beach, before leaving for Lakeland, Fla., where he will make preparations for spring training, Cochrane revealed that Rudy York, hard hitting rookie last season, will be the Tigers' first string catcher during the 1938 campaign. Ray Hayworth will serve as second string catcher.

"It Was Lots of Fun."

"I'm all through," Mickey said. "I won't even get in there as a pinch hitter any more. I've had a lot of fun as a ball player and I'm sorry it's all over. A guy in my job has enough on his mind without crouching out there trying to outguess some of the smartest batters in baseball.

"Rudy York is going to take my place. That boy is a fine catcher and a great hitter. With Ray Hayworth as reserve catcher, I believe we are all set in that department."

One Cause for Cheer.

Cochrane is doleful over his having to quit playing, but he finds some basis for cheer in Detroit's chances in the impending pennant race. His theories are expansive enough to permit an observation that "the Tigers will beat out the Yankees if the pitchers come through."

Among the seventeen pitchers who will report at Lakeland March 6 is Vernon Kennedy, obtained from the White Sox, who Cochrane describes as a "very valuable addition to the staf." Others upon whom Cochrane is depending are Tommy Bridges, Elden Auker, Baron Poffenberger, Lynwood Rowe, and Alton Benton. Benton won sixteen games for Memphis last year.

A Detroit Viewpoint.

Philosophically observing that some one some time is going to deprive the Yankees of a pennant, Cochrane suggested that it might as well be the Tigers this season.

A graduate of Boston university, Cochrane entered the major leagues with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1925.

TWENTY DODGERS SIGN

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Larry MacPhail, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today announced that twenty of the thirty-two players on the club's roster have come to terms. MacPhail said five of the twelve unsigned players have agreed to terms and their contracts are expected within the next few days.

MacPhail said that four players, including First Baseman Buddy Hassett, still are dissatisfied with their contracts. The Dodgers' spring training activities will begin next Monday at Hot Springs, Ark., Manager Burleigh Grimes naming eleven players to report. They include: Catcher Babe Phelps, Infielder Leo Durocher, Outfielders Kiki Cuyler and Heinie Manush, and Pitchers Van Lingle Mungo, Waite Hoyt, Fred Fitzsimmons, Max Butcher, Luke Hamlin, George Jeffcoat and Bill Posedel.

Track Rebellion Denied by Iowa Coach, Athletes

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Reports of an uprising among members of the University of Iowa track squad were denied today by E. G. Schroeder, athletic director of the university, and George T. Bresnahan, coach of the team.

The rumors followed the announcement that the Hawkeyes would not send a five man entry to the National A. A. U. meet at New York City Feb. 26. Among the reasons given by Schroeder for the cancellation of the trip east were the poor condition of the team, a dual meet with Chicago here Feb. 25, and head injuries suffered by Fred Teufel of Davenport, one of the members of the relay team.

Schroeder today said that he had been visited by all of the members of the team. No suits were turned in as was reported yesterday, and the athletes decried the story that a revolt was impending. The five athletes who were to have gone to New York were Fred and Carl Teufel, John Graves of Cherokee, Jim Lyle of Des Moines, and Milton Billig of Brooklyn, N. Y. The last named was the runner who was reported to have turned in his suit upon learning of the cancellation of the trip east. He is a former New York City interscholastic champion in the quarter mile.

JOE LOUIS AGREES TO MEET THOMAS, ADAMICK WINNER

Bout Is Set for April 8; May Be in Chicago.

The deal was closed at a conference between Mike Jacobs, head of the 20th Century Sporting club, who will promote the bout, and Julian Black, one of Louis' managers.

If Thomas beats Adamick in convincing fashion, the title bout with Louis will be held in the Chicago Stadium, where Nate Lewis, Thomas' pilot, says a sellout will mean a gate of $250,000. Louis, of course, has an earlier date—a week from tonight—in a meeting with Natie Mann in Madison Square Garden.

If Adamick is the victor Friday night, Jacobs plans to put the fight in Detroit's Olympia arena. Both Lewis and Jack Kearns, who is booking Adamick, said they would welcome a chance for their charges to meet the champion.

ARON BEATS VENTURI

Aron rallied twice from staggering blows on the jaw to win a two to one decision. The crowd approved. Venturi, in the first three rounds, working steadily and consistently at close quarters, pounded Aron about the body with short, powerful lefts and rights.

After the third round, however, Venturi assumed a defensive style and he never was permitted to try a steady offensive thereafter. Aron brought Venturi up short frequently at long range and at close quarters outpunched the Italian in body exchanges.

MAREK KNOCKS OUT PALUTIS; BARBARA WINS

Max Marek, Chicago heavyweight, making his first appearance in four months, knocked out Chester Palutis in the third round of a scheduled ten round bout last night in Cicero stadium. Marek connected with a right to the jaw after 2 minutes and 24 seconds of the third round. Marek weighed 190, Palutis, 175½. Twelve hundred fans paid $1,372.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Finding a spot on which to place the camp stool tonight in order to be in the center of Chicago Golden Glove activities is no easy problem.

There are three choices.

Those who fancy their meat a little less rare and who want to see fighters who are closer to the championship goal will gather either at Marigold Garden where the northwest side sectional meet reaches the semi-final round or at the Park Casino, 3825 West Madison street where the third night of fighting in the west side sectional meet gets underway.

70 Bouts At Marigold.

Golden Gloves fans tuned up for this exciting session last night when two of the city's big sectional meets were in motion.

A capacity crowd assembled in Marigold Garden to see the opening of the northwest side sectional meet. Another bumper gathering packed its way into the White City arena to see the lads in the four lighter weight divisions on the south side in second round matches.

The fighting in Marigold Garden was in two rings and seventy bouts were decided. Forty-eight bouts were run off at White City. They used only one ring. The fighting will be confined to one ring at each of the three sectional meets tonight with action starting at 7:30 o'clock in all the tournament centers.

Lightweights greeted the Marigold Garden crowd. The first battle was over almost before it started. Frank O'Brien of the Madison A. C. knocked Eddie Burton, 4847 Magnolia avenue, down four times in the first round. All were for eight or nine counts. Burton didn't come out for the second round, so he dropped out of the tournament via the technical knockout route.

Fred Ford of the Bowman A. C. won on a knockout in the second round. His victim was Nick Calandro of the C. Y. O. Ford cut loose with a mighty right to turn the trick.

Rames Wins Decision.

Heinz Krassau, the German kid who fights for the Walgreen club, made his first Golden Glove appearance in a northwest side flyweight open division battle. His opponent was James Rames of the C. Y. O. The latter was a foot taller than his German rival. Rames got the decision, but the crowd voiced its disapproval in a chorus of boos and catcalls. Krassau had rocked Rames with a long right in the second round and fought gamely in the last.

There was a neighborhood brawl when Marcus Beckler clashed with Theodore Nagel. Marcus lives at 4051 North Laporte avenue. Theodore resides five blocks away on the same avenue. All their neighbors turned out to see the feud settled. Early in the first round Marcus belted Theodore on the chin with his mighty right. Down went Theodore for the full count.

Sopko Scores Knockout.

Mike Sopko, 126 pounder from the Madison A. C., scored another quick knockout. His victim was Harry Maghakian, 2248 West North avenue. Two rights to the chin each sent Maghakian spinning to the canvas. He was down for the ten count after the second had landed.

There was organized rooting for Gus [Boots] Jovita, 1314 Webster avenue. Nine rousing rahs greeting him when he climbed through the ropes. There was a sizzling "locomotive" for him from his friends when he got the decision over Alex Chekowitz of the C. Y. O. Gus knocked his opponent down in the second round.

BLACKHAWKS AND AMERICANS TO CLASH TONIGHT

Chicago Sextet Seeks to Break Jinx.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The New York Americans, most notorious of all the one team bullies in the National Hocky league, will skate on to the Stadium ice tonight with a view to continuing their hexing of the Chicago Blackhawks, who have been the object of most of their pestering this season.

The generally hapless Americans constitute one of those troupes which have a tough time winning two games in a row for most of the season, but are forever turning on a better club. The New Yorkers have been known to go weeks without an entry in the victory ledger, and then, all of a sudden, they will haul off and knock the stuffing out of a team which ultimately wins the Stanley cup. And, just to make themselves even more annoying, they are always trying, and consequently that much harder to lick.

They're Tough on Hawks.

The 1937-'38 Hawks are an example of what happens to a team the Americans decide to pick on throughout a whole season. The two teams have met four times this season, and what have the Hawks to show for their work? One measly goal, and that scored in a 1 to 1 tie at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 11. The other three contests all resulted in shutout victories for the Americans.

A council of war called yesterday at the Blackhawk headquarters by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, proprietor of the Hawks, and Manager Bill Stewart revealed that the advent of the Americans makes the Hawks' current status more of a pretty pickle than at first suspected. Here the Chicagoans are in the midst of trying to assure themselves a playoff berth, and what do the Americans do? They emerge from a six week losing streak by lathering the Montreal Maroons and tying the Detroit Red Wings, and then top off their preparations for the Hawks by shutting out the Montreal Canadiens, 4 to 0, on Tuesday night.

An Important Game

The Hawks yesterday indicated they are all too aware of the crucial complexion of tonight's game. If they can conquer the Americans' jinx with a victory, they will be ready for the Red Wings Sunday night with a two and one-half game edge over the Detroit team. And the Wings are the boys the Hawks must keep firmly lodged in the American division cellar if they are going to gain the cup playoffs. Victory tonight and Sunday would allow the Chicagoans to enter the stretch with something approximating assurance.

The Hawks, sorely tried by an epidemic of injuries, will go on as they have these few games, with high hopes that the ailing shoulder of Mush March, out for ten games, will be healed sufficiently to enable him to play tonight.

BAR SANTA ANITA OWNER, JOCKY ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Santa Anita stewards today denied Jocky Robert Tilden and Owner A. Tipton further privileges at the Los Angeles Turf club plant and recommended to the California horse racing board that they be barred from the turf for life. Each was charged with bribery.

Although the stewards refused to name the jocky to whom the bribe was offered, it is understood it was Danny Brammer. Brammer today rode the winner of the fourth race, Mrs. H. Nordin's Calaveras.

Tipton had a horse in the race named Prince Heather. Tilden was scheduled to ride him. It is understood the only horse Prince Heather's connections feared was Calaveras.

When the stewards discovered the scandal, they promptly scratched Prince Heather, took up Tipton's and Tilden's passes and made their recommendations to the board. Tipton is a former jocky who has been operating as owner and trainer for the last four years.

Schenck overcame this advantage and finally won out with a birdie three on the 19th. Schenck's card was a one over par 70, and Langford's was 71.

Drill Shows War Admiral Still Champion

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A fast workout by the champion, War Admiral, this morning, and news that he would make his 1938 debut in the McLennan Memorial on Saturday, overshadowed today's competitive happenings at Hialeah.

With several hundred horsemen lining the rail the unbeaten champion of 1937 went a mile and an eighth—the McLennan distance—in 1:51 3-5, fastest training move of the meeting. During the afternoon when Mrs. Payne Whitney's Drowsy captured the featured Grade B handicap talk of the speed of War Admiral in the morning still was going on.

Faster than a Miler.

In passing the mile post in 1:37 4-5 War Admiral made faster workout time than even milers have made. Yet he had an extra eighth to go and hammered it out in 0:13 4-5.

At the same time Handicapper Charles McLennan announced his weights for the race, which is a memorial to his father, and has established War Admiral again under 130 pounds. This was the weight assigned War Admiral for the mile and a quarter of the Widener. Second in the weights for the McLennan is Wise Prince, with 116. Infantry follows with 114, while Dellor and War Minstrel are listed at 113 each.

War Admiral has been working well at the meeting, but news as to his first start awaited the arrival in Florida of Samuel D. Riddle, owner of the colt. Mr. Riddle arrived last night.

Trainer Favors a Sprint.

Trainer George Conway was inclined to start War Admiral in a sprint race Saturday, but owner Riddle wants the crack colt to take up his weight in the McLennan, according to Mr. Widener.

The champion's fractions today follow: 0:11 3-5, 0:22 3-5, 0:34 2-5, 0:46 2-5, 0:58 3-5, 1:11 1-5, 1:24 1-5, 1:37 4-5, and 1:51 3-5. Moreover the colt worked in bandages to protect his legs, which already have earned close to $200,000. Jocky Charles Kurtsinger was in the saddle.

Fenger High school's junior basketball team won the south section championship of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday, defeating Morgan Park, 28 to 19, at Fenger's gymnasium. It was Fenger's eighth and final game, the champions ending the sectional campaign with seven triumphs and a tie with Hirsch, 28 to 28.

Dicke, forward, and Kernchan, guard, led the champions' attack, the former scoring four field goals and Kernchan four baskets and one free throw. The score was tied, 8 to 8, at the end of the first quarter, and at the half, 14 to 14. Fenger took the lead at the third period, 21 to 18, and Morgan Park was held to one free throw in the last period while Fenger was scoring seven more points.

Fenger Seniors Lose Again.

Fenger's senior squad also ended its sectional schedule, losing its eighth consecutive game to Morgan Park, 46 to 25. Campbell and O'Connor starred for the Morgan Park seniors, each with eleven points. Morgan Park led at the half, 21 to 5.

McKinley and Washburne divided two games on the McKinley court. Washburne's seniors, led by Bradzik and Ostrowski, won from McKinley, 29 to 16, and McKinley's juniors triumphed, 36 to 33.

Tuley, Kelvyn Park Tie.

Tuley's junior squad handed a Kelvyn Park a 26 to 20 defeat, but the senior squads of the schools tied, 39 to 39. Parker's quintets scored a double victory over Englewood, the juniors winning, 23 to 17, and the seniors, 36 to 30. The lineups:

LA GRANGE FIVE FORFEITS FIVE OF ITS VICTORIES

The La Grange heavyweight basketball team, a member of the West Suburban High School conference, forfeited the five games it won in ten assignments, it was learned last night from Jack Martin, athletic director of the school and heavyweight basketball coach.

Hinsdale challenged the eligibility of Johnny Goodyear, a senior, and an investigation disclosed that he had played on a quintet not associated with the West Suburban loop, during the Christmas holidays. The league rules prohibit play on teams outside of the circuit during the championship schedule.

Thus La Grange, which had beaten Glenbard, 23 to 21; Downers Grove, 35 to 32; Riverside, 54 to 15; Maine, 37 to 32, and Hinsdale, 27 to 25, forfeits these victories, 1 to 0, and goes to last place with a standing of none won and ten lost.

Poetry on Flashing Blades

Ice Champions Await Cue for Arena Show

A skating program offering the expert routines of champions of the United States and Canada; the gyrations of costumed ballet troupes and the comedy of some of the most talented clowns in the business will be presented in the Chicago Arena tonight as the seventh annual carnival of the Chicago Figure Skating club opens. The carnival will be held nightly through Tuesday.

The arena rink has been transformed by the use of scenery into a setting representing Sun Valley lodge in the Sawtooth mountains in Idaho. Special effects will be gained by the use of colored ice and lighting arrangements.

Robin Lee of Chicago, American figure skating champion, will appear in the first important number, demonstrating the routines which won him the title. His act will be followed by Frank Libuse, well known to night clubs as the crazy waiter, who will have as his partner in comedy Louisa Von Dietrich.

Little Miss Meyer Comes In.

The first pair number will introduce Bob Borgfeldt and Helen Koblitz. Then little Nancy Meyer, daughter of Dr. Karl Meyer of the County hospital, will do a single specialty. Miss Meyer has been preparing for the carnival under the tutelage of Karl Schaefer, Olympic champion.

Then comes a comedy act by Sammy Jarvis and Nate Walley, the latter world professional figure champion. Cecil Gooderham, member of the Canadian Olympic team; Maude MacDougald, and Ruth Ross will present a tableau titled "The Freeing of the Slave," followed by Eleanor O'Meara, Canadian women's champion, and the Caley sisters, Canada's fastest pair, in that order.

Café Number Planned.

"Vienna Café" will feature Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb, who are producing the carnival.

The opening number of the second half of the carnival will offer a military corps drilled by Maj. C. W. Booth, with Ruth English as the drum major. The skaters will perform in darkness in luminous costumes.

The featured stars of the evening, Louise Bertram and Stewart Reburn, will follow the military corps.

PURPLE QUINTET FACES INDIANA WITHOUT CURRIE

Northwestern's basketball team still will be without the services of Jim Currie, veteran guard, when it faces Indiana at Patten gymnasium Saturday night. Currie, who became ill shortly before the Wisconsin game last week, still is unable to practice.

The running guard assignment has been a source of trouble for the Wildcats ever since Bernard Davis was declared ineligible following the midyear examinations. Currie was counted on to move up to a starting position following the loss of Davis.

Bob Voigts, who won a letter last year, but has seen litle action this season, was nominated for a starting rôle against Wisconsin last Saturday and played the entire game. His field goal and two free throws provided the winning margin over the Badgers.

He will be in the starting lineup against the Hoosiers. The remainder of the Wildcat lineup will be the same that has started recent games. Ad Vance will pair with Voigts at the guard positions, while Jake Nagode, center, and Jean Smith and Fred Trenkle, forwards, will form the front line.

First National Five Wins, KeepsBankers' League Lead

First National's quintet maintained its leadership in the Chicago Bankers' Basketball league last night by defeating Chicago Title and Trust, 28 to 22, at the Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Northern Trust won from Harris Trust, 28 to 25, and Hotel La Salle triumphed over American National, 32 to 19, in other league games.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Boston Bees tonight announced the unconditional release of Tommy Thevenow, a veteran infielder who has played for five other National league clubs. Thevenow's departure left the Bees with nine infielders.

This Was a Thriller.

The White City sectional trials opened with a thriller between Nick Popravak of the C. Y. O. and Andrew Dickens, colored Eagle A. C. welterweight.

After earning a margin by using his right hand with effect in the first round, Popravak ran into a wild right to the jaw in the second. The punch floored him for a nine count and evened the fight.

In the final round the C. Y. O. fighter planted a hard right on Dickens' chin. The blow failed to score a knockdown but it slowed up Dickens and cost him the fight, all three officials—Referee Joe McNamara and Judges John R. Bray and James McManus—voting for Popravak.

The young fruit and vegetable clerk lost the first round when he caught several rockers. Fear was expressed by his backers that he would be unable to last the limit, but he put on a surprise rally midway in the next session to even up the score and then continued the good work in the final round to earn the decision.

McClendon Shows Power.

The best looking prospect among the novice welterweights in the south section is Odell McClendon, 19 year old senior at Wendell Phillips High school. The color bearer of the American Giants A. C., who is the regular pitcher on his school's baseball team, left an impression with the spectators by the manner he pounded out a three round verdict over Garland Cheeks, 3431 South Michigan avenue.

Bill Fitzgerald, 1934 C. Y. O. 160 pound king, and Dick Fitzpatrick, old time fighter, seconded eleven of sixteen C. Y. O. contestants to triumphs last night.

Harold Gustafson's staunchest rooter as he whipped Jack Wilson, C. Y. O. lightweight, was his eight year old cousin, Bob Lindstrom of 1153 West 100th street, Fernwood, Ill. Master Lindstrom is a distant relative of Freddie Lindstrom of major league baseball fame.

Walter Gustafson, middleweight brother of Harold, will make his début out south tonight, but he did not say anything about playing nurse maid to young Bob. "I'll be too busy fighting," he said.

PITY POOR RADIO ACTORS; A ROBOT GETS THEIR JOBS

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

From a radio performer's viewpoint there are two disquieting items in the day's news. Maj. Bowes, apparently having run short of aspiring amateurs tonight, proposes to present Big Louie, an iron mechanical man, the offspring of two Detroit auto mechanics. Big Louie talks, sings and plays the accordion. Second item is the plan to put Mei-Mei, the new baby giant panda on the air sometime after her arrival here. [Time is dependent on when Mei-Mei ends her sitdown in Albuquerque, N. M. Both NBC and WBBM are planning a panda pickup.]

What with all the dummies, robots, and animals on the air it is getting so that an actor, singer, instrumentalist, or [live] comedian hardly has a chance. Charlie McCarthy has surpassed Jack Benny as an attraction, and Baby Snooks and Betty Lou are not so far behind. And in Milwaukee, announcers with lapel microphones have been interviewing the statues in the city parks!

In the menageries department a panda is about the only thing left that hasn't made a bid for fame and fortune. Dick Kross of WGES interviewed a goat the other day and is still wondering whether any one but the fumigating fraternity benefited thereby. WAAF features a parrot that announces the time and temperature in the morning. Bob Becker has a talking dog. Every one recalls the coloraturing of Minnie Mouse [live] last year, not to mention the Walt Disney company antics now on the air regularly from Hollywood. A pig oinked from Washington the other day, and had porkers as far away as Seattle rushing to local troughs.

Split tongued crows have had their innings on the air; a snake rattled on the Edgar Guest hour the other evening; Mr. Woodchuck gave his opinions on the weather with the aid of an interviewer; crickets chirped in the key of G, or was it B flat, and frogs have been croaking for a million fans.

If you have been wondering why Lily Pons isn't on the air, or what happened to Fred Waring or Jessica Dragonette or a dozen other favorites of other seasons, now missing, this Noah's Ark chorus may be the answer.

News briefs: Sam Webb, who fired the locomotive on Casey Jones' last ride, will play a return engagement on We, the People at 6:30 tonight. . . . Col. Stoopnagle is to explain his new sure fire comedy formula on Paul Whiteman's show tomorrow evening. . . . Grant Wood, the famous artist, is to be the headliner on the National Iowa night broadcast to be aired over NBC from the University of Iowa campus at 8:30 p. m. Friday, Feb. 25. . . . Marian Jordan [Molly McGee] is reported definitely on the road to recovery by her physician.

Nucleus of a stock company has been formed for the It Can Be Done series around Arthur Peterson, Bret Morrison and Harold Peary. . . . Harold Stokes' song "On a Sunday Afternoon," which is the theme for the Mutual show of the same name, has been sold and will be published.

Continuation of the Town Meeting of the Air broadcasts, popular public forum, has been assured for three years to come through a deal between NBC and Town Hall, Inc. Subject for discussion tonight is "Wages, Prices, and Recovery."

MARION STERN GIVES $75,000 TO U. OF CHICAGO

Mrs. Marion R. Stern, daughter of Julius Rosenwald, has presented $75,000 to the University of Chicago. President Robert M. Hutchins, who announced the gift yesterday, said that Mrs. Stern had reserved the right to specify the educational uses to which the money may be put and has approved the expenditure of $5,000 in scholarships to needy and deserving students. Mrs. Stern, who was formerly the wife of Alfred K. Stern, chairman of the Illinois housing commission, now lives in New York.

$100,000 Alienation Suit Contested by MacFadden

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, magazine publisher, appeared in state Supreme court today to contest a $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against him by Sotir C. Adams of Danvers, Mass. Adams charges the publisher, who is 69 years old, seduced his wife, Abbie Rheinhardt Adams of Joplin, Mo., after she became a nurse at the MacFadden health resort in Battle Creek, Mich. MacFadden denied the charge and, in an amended answer, declared that Mr. and Mrs. Adams were working together to extort money from him.

AM. TELEPHONE ORDERS USUAL $2.25 DIVIDEND

Wieboldt to Pay on Preferred Only.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company directors ordered maintenance of the corporation's $9 annual dividend rate on the common stock yesterday as several other companies reduced payments to stockholders or deferred dividend action.

The $2.25 quarterly dividend declared by A. T. & T. directors will be paid April 15 to stock of record March 15. Affecting approximately 640,000 stockholders scattered over the world, the action of directors quieted rumors that the dividend might be reduced.

These rumors had gone the rounds recently when the stock was a weak spot in trading on the New York Stock exchange. Fears of what may be contained in the forthcoming report of the federal communications commission also were expressed at that time.

Rate $9 Since 1921.

The company has paid dividends at the $9 annual rate since 1921, although earnings did not cover the $42,000,000 quarterly disbursement in 1932-'35, inclusive. Earnings were equal to $9.36 a share in 1936 and $10.24 in the twelve months ended Nov. 30. The 1937 report has not been issued.

Directors of Wieboldt Stores, Inc., declared the regular dividends of $1.25 a share on the prior preferred stock and 75 cents a share on the 6 per cent preferred stock, but deferred until July any action on the common stock dividend. The board said the common dividend hereafter will be considered at the July and January meetings instead of quarterly. The preferred dividends will be payable April 1 to holders of record March 22.

Pullman, Inc., declared a dividend of 37½ cents a share for March 15. This is the same amount as was paid in each quarter last year, although a year-end special of $1.25 was paid in December.

Otis Elevator Payment Voted.

The Otis Elevator company declared a 15 cent dividend, the same as a year ago. It paid 25 cents, 40 cents, and 60 cents in the next three quarters, however.

Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, Phelps Dodge corporation, and the Acme Steel company were among those ordering dividend reductions.

Libbey-Owens Ford will pay only 25 cents March 15, compared with 75 cents a year ago. It also paid 75 cents in June, $1.50 in September, and $1 in December last year. Acme Steel knocked its dividend down to 50 cents, compared with $1 quarterly last year. Phelps Dodge will pay 10 cents a share in March, compared with 35 cents a year ago, 45 cents each last June and September, and 35 cents last December.

Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., will pay 37½ cents in March, the same as a year ago.

Salt Firm to Pay $1.25.

Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing company will pay $1.25 next month. This is the same amount as was paid last March. A total of $8.75 was paid in 1937, including $3 in December.

Monarch Machine Tool ordered a March 1 dividend of 40 cents. It paid quarterly dividends of 25 cents last year plus $1.10 in extras, including 65 cents extra in December.

Among companies declaring regular dividends were American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation, Lone Star Cement, Lake Shore Mines, United States Tobacco, Edison Brothers Stores, and National Sugar Refining company.

Wool Growers to Ship by Rail Due to Dock Strike

Fresno, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The San Joaquin Valley Wool Growers' association voted today to ship by railroad to eastern marketing centers the $1,200,000 wool crop to be clipped in the valley this year. This action followed discussion of a controversy between rival unions over the handling of wool cargo at the San Francisco waterfront. Officers of the association said intercoastal steamship lines thus would lose $100,000 in freight charges.

Big Death Tax on Rich Creates Bank Problem

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—An increasing trend among men of wealth to dispose of their holdings before death to avoid the greatly increased "cost of dying" was reported at the midwinter conference of the trust division of the American Bankers' association in its second session here today.

The assembled trust officers and bankers who in the past have administered the wills disposing of such large estates revealed that they have been watching these wills disappear from the field of their future business.

Milton R. Stahl, vice president of the Mississippi Valley Trust company of St. Louis, said wealthy men in increasing numbers were making outright gifts to their relatives and friends and establishing irrevocable trusts for successive generations to avoid increasingly heavy death taxes. In consequence, he said, trust companies would be compelled to raise trust fees.

Can't Afford to Die Rich.

"In this era a man interested in arranging his affairs economically and to the greatest advantage of his dependents," said Stahl, "can no longer afford to die with a large estate. Men of wealth now are taking steps to avoid large inheritance and estate taxes by passing on their property by other methods.

"In the future, as such practices are better known and as the reallization of the devastating effect of death duties becomes more strongly fixed in the national consciousness, we may expect an accelerated trend in that direction which will probably affect adversely not only the size but also the number of estates coming to us.

"Another factor bearing on our costs of doing business is the increasing duration of trusts. Before our present high death taxes, trusts were set up generally to accomplish some particular purpose, and terminated when that purpose was accomplished. Now one of the principal objectives is to minimize taxes by avoiding successive estate tax levies.

Life of Trusts Increasing.

"Estates which heretofore were distributed outright to beneficiaries are now being set up in life trusts or trusts for successive lives, to avoid subsequent tax levies. Trusts now are continued for one or more lives to effect tax savings. A great volume of property which once passed by will is now being tied up for long periods in testamentary and living trusts."

While there is a gift tax as well as an estate tax, Stahl pointed out that the tax law, making the tax on gifts about 20 per cent less than that on legacies, is an "inducement" to the process of transfer during life.

Chicagoan Urges Changes.

Louis W. Fischer, assistant trust officer of the American National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, proposed a revision of the present method used to determine fees charged for trust services. He suggested that trust companies base their fees on the activity of the trust account and the number of different investments handled instead of the dollar value of the trust or the income it yields.

Fischer said his suggestion for revision trust fees is patterned after the method used by commercial banks in handling checking accounts.

He also proposed that an added fee be charged when there is more than one trust beneficiary. One innovation that is making some headway, he said, is the practice of dividing the cost of trust administration between the income and the principal beneficiaries.

ARGENTINA FIRST AS BUYER OF U. S. AIRCRAFT IN 1937

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Argentina displaced China as the leading purchaser of American aircraft in 1937, the commerce department announced today.

In spite of its defense needs because of hostilities with Japan, China reduced its American aircraft purchases from $7,185,556 in 1936 to $3,961,819 in 1937. Argentina bought $4,403,507 worth of airplanes and parts last year, nearly doubling its previous year's purchases.

The largest increase was made by Turkey, whose 1937 purchases of $2,450,391 equaled 2,535 per cent of its 1936 purchases.

SUIT ASKS RECOVERY OF $12,000,000 FOR GUARANTY TRUST CO.

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A stockholders' suit which seeks to recover for the Guaranty Trust company upward of $12,000,000 from 43 present or former directors, the estates of six deceased directors, and 20 partners in J. P. Morgan & Co., and 16 former directors of the Guaranty company and the Bankers' Trust company has been instituted in New York Supreme court, it was disclosed today. The Guaranty company is a subsidiary of Guaranty Trust.

The action is based primarily on disclosures of Van Sweringen railroad financing made recently by the senatorial investigating committee. The plaintif is Mrs. Eva Litwin of Brooklyn.

The complaint alleges that Morgan & Co. "controled and dominated the board of directors of the Guaranty Trust company, through membership on the board, stock ownership, and through "favors and privileges" given to individual directors. The complaint cites transactions involving an alleged "waste of assets."

BALDWIN EARNS PROFIT IN 1937; FIRST SINCE '30

Outlook Uncertain, Houston Says.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works and subsidiaries yesterday reported consolidated profit for 1937 of $407,377, equivalent to 32 cents a common share, after allowing for preferred dividends on 38,825 preferred shares outstanding at the end of the year. Indicated loss for the last quarter was $16,261.

George H. Houston.

Consolidated net loss of the company in 1936 was $2,163,949, but this figure is hardly comparable with 1937 results because of the readjustment in the company's capital structure under the reorganization plan completed last year.

The last previous profit reported by the company under the old capitalization was in 1930 when net income was $3,036,624.

Sales Total $36,586,462.

Consolidated sales in 1937 totaled $36,586,462, against $20,877,735 in 1936 and a depression low of $8,250,319 in 1933. Of the 1937 sales, $15,259,799, or 42 per cent, represent sales of locomotives. In 1936, locomotive sales were only $3,737,185, or 18 per cent of the total.

George H. Houston, president, reported that unfilled orders on hand at the end of 1937 totaled $24,583,345, against $30,531,416 at the beginning of 1937. Unfilled orders for locomotives on Dec. 31, 1937, aggregated $13,513,783.

"Operations during 1937 were characterized by increased volume, rapidly mounting costs due to higher wages, rising materials prices, and higher taxes," Houston said. "Most of the locomotives delivered during the year were ordered during the latter part of 1936, a considerable volume of locomotive orders being carried over for delivery during 1938.

Calls Outlook Uncertain.

"The outlook for business in 1938 is uncertain. Although a reasonable backlog of orders was carried over into the new year, these were concentrated upon certain products only. There were no large orders for locomotives placed during the latter half of 1937, and orders for other products dropped off sharply during the latter part of the year."

Baldwin's report included operations of all subsidiaries, including the Midvale company, maker of locomotive parts. The Midvale company alone had a 1937 profit of $1,341,815, against $1,266,167 in 1936, but some other Baldwin subsidiaries had large losses.

The McCall corporation and subsidiaries, publishers, had an indicated net loss of $795 in the last half of 1937, against a profit of $367,912 in the corresponding 1936 period. Net income for all of 1937 was $673,480, or $1.26 a capital share, compared with $1,186,943, or $2.20 a share, in 1936.

Caterpillar Reports January Sales.

The Caterpillar Tractor company reported sales of $2,952,203 and net income of $176,726 for January, compared with sales of $4,515,052 and net income of $710,890 in January, 1937. In twelve months ended Jan. 31 sales were $61,620,639 and profit was $9,634,526, against sales of $55,575,165 and profit of $10,106,349 in the preceding year.

The Colorado Fuel and Iron company and subsidiary lost $491,019 in the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1937, compared with net income of $108,263 in the final quarter of 1936. Loss for six months ended Dec. 31, 1937, was $48,939, against net income of $446,921 in the last half of 1936. The company's fiscal year ends Jan. 30.

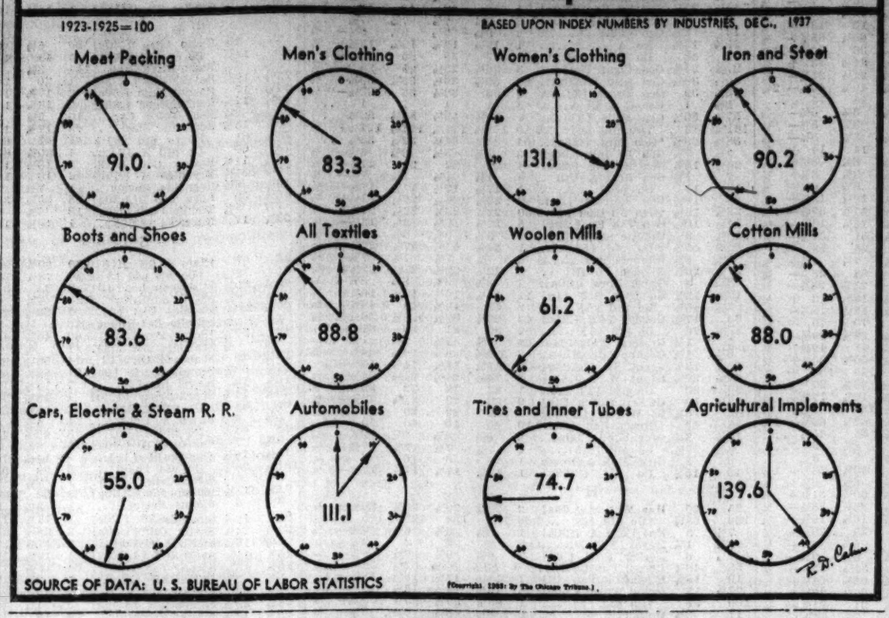
File Bankruptcy Action Against J. W. Harriman

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—An involuntary petition of bankruptcy was filed in the federal court today against Joseph W. Harriman, former banker, who served a jail sentence for irregularities in his operation of the defunct Harriman National bank. There were three counts of $500 each in the petition.

The Employment Status of Leading Industries as Revealed by Government Reports



N.Y. Exchange Has $140,377 Loss in Year

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The report of the New York Stock exchange for 1937, released today, showed a loss of $140,377, against a net profit of $172,768 in 1936. The loss is exclusive of initiation fees of $332,000, which are a contribution to capital investment.

Total income was $7,493,383, as contrasted with $8,086,860, with Stock Clearing corporation charges amounting to $1,728,853, the largest single item, showing a decline of $376,302. Listing fees totaled $1,430,276, a gain of $5,958 over the preceding year.

Membership Dues Decline.

Membership dues yielded $1,100,000, a drop of $275,000. Total income from members or their firms direct, was $4,865,872, a decrease of $640,223. Salaries and wages were $4,290,052, a gain of $246,950.

The consolidated balance sheet of the exchange shows cash at $2,743,434, down $347,899 from the previous year, while at the same time the institution paid off $1,000,000 in notes. Holdings of United States government securities remained intact, but other securities totaling $303,473 increased $68,152.

Deposits in closed banks were reduced from $83,284 to $41,131.

"The Boys Are Learning."

When the exchange submitted its report for 1936 the financial community was amused to discover that, in a year when almost every security had advanced, the institution itself had taken a loss of $13,453 on securities sold. In 1937, however, it did much better. In a market which spent a considerable portion of its time on the toboggan, the stock exchange was able to make a profit on sale of investments totaling $4,870.

Charles R. Gay, president of the exchange, in his remarks accompanying the report, said: "The average number of employés of the exchange and affiliated companies during the year was 2,383, compared with 2,311 for 1936. As of Jan. 1, 1938, the number of employés was 2,338, compared with 2,466 on July, the high point of last year."

HOUSING CHIEF CHANGES RULE ON SLUM CLEARANCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Housing Administrator Nathan Straus, striving to get the low cost construction program started, authorized municipalities today to shelve slum clearance programs and concentrate on building new homes. The decision was described as an attempt to jar loose millions of dollars tied up because the housing drive has been lagging.

Congress authorized the United States housing authority headed by Straus to lend municipal agencies up to 90 per cent of the cost of providing better homes for the poor.

It stipulated that slum dwellings equivalent in number to the new homes must be eradicated, but Straus said it gave him discretion to delay slum clearance where there is an acute housing shortage or other complication.

AIR LINE TRAVEL IN NATION SETS JANUARY RECORD

Air line travel in the United States in January set a record for the month of 27,110,800 revenue passenger miles, Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, reported yesterday.

Gorrell said passenger trafic by air last month was 50.5 per cent greater than in January, 1937, and 4.4 per cent over the December, 1937, volume. It was the first time in the history of American air transportation that January trafic exceeded that of December, he added.

British Living Cost Index Down Slightly from Jan. 1

LONDON, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The ministry of labor's cost of living index for Feb. 1 stood at 157 per cent of the level of July, 1914, compared with 159 per cent Jan. 1 and 151 per cent Feb. 1, 1936, the ministry announced today.

G-MEN ARE ORDERED TO PROBE OIL PRICE FIXING IN EAST TEXAS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation received orders today to investigate whether major companies in the east Texas oil fields are "manipulating" crude oil prices in violation of anti-trust laws.

J. Edgar Hoover.

The G-men were assigned to the investigation by Director J. Edgar Hoover at the request of the justice department's anti-trust division. The latter said it had received complaints against petroleum groups in the east Texas area.

Big oil interests, the complaints said, were selling crude oil to each other and to company-affiliated refiners at a lower price than to independent refiners. Some of the complaints were turned over to the justice department by Representatives Sanders and Lanham, Texas Democrats. During a conference with anti-trust division officials Sanders and Lanham asserted that a great many independent refiners had been forced out of business by discriminatory practices. They asked that an investigation be launched similar to that which led to the recent conviction at Madison, Wis., of sixteen large oil companies and thirty individuals.

JONES ASKS HELP OF TREASURY TO HASTEN TAX BILL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation urged the treasury today to do what it could to hasten congressional action on the pending tax revision bill.

He told Undersecretary Roswell Magill that the whole country was waiting impatiently for action on promised modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

Jones indicated a belief that the bill, which is still in the hands of the house ways and means committee, was being held up by opposition to a provision retaining a stiff tax on undistributed profits of corporations owned by a few persons.

Jones also conferred briefly about fiscal matters with Secretary Morgenthau and Budget Director Daniel W. Bell.

VICTOR EMANUEL MADE AVIATION CORP. PRESIDENT

Aviation corporation yesterday announced the election of Victor Emanuel as president of the company, succeeding L. B. Manning, who has heretofore held the titles of president and chairman. Manning will continue as chairman.

W. H. Beal has been made president and Albert I. Lodwick executive vice president of the Aviation Manufacturing corporation, operating subsidiary of Aviation corporation.

Hearing on Pusco Income Tax Claim Set for March 7

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday set March 7 for a hearing on a petition of the internal revenue department for permission to file a $535,954 income tax lien against the Public Utilities Securities corporation, known as Pusco. The company is a unit of the Utilities Power and Light system. Reorganization proceedings are pending for both companies, which were formerly headed by Harley L. Clarke. Government attorneys have indicated that a lien of $76,822 will be filed against another Utilities Power unit, the Webster Securities corporation.

Dollar Drops; British Pound at 1938 High

The American dollar yesterday depreciated further in value in relation to foreign currencies on exchange transactions. Withdrawals of foreign capital from the United States are reported to be in progress as a result of the uncertainty created by the modification of the treasury's gold sterilization policy.

Authorities in this country are not inclined to attach much immediate significance to the treasury's move, but it has led to some confusion and uneasiness on the part of foreigners.

British Pound Gains.

The British pound sterling advanced 11-16 cent to a new high price for the year of $5.03 13-16. The French franc reversed its earlier trend and also advanced against the dollar, closing .0025 cent higher at 3.2925 cents. Belgian currency rose .03 cent and Swiss francs closed .025 cent higher.

The decline in the dollar in relation to the pound sent the price of gold in the London free market to the equivalent of $35.19 an ounce, 5 cents above the preceding day's price. The movement in the gold market was believed to foreshadow a further outward movement from this country. Exchange brokers can ship gold at a profit when the London market is at a premium of 24 cents over the American treasury's price of $35 an ounce.

Gold Hoarding Increases.

Foreign dispatches yesterday reported that hoarding of gold is increasing in Europe. This accounts, it is said, for some of the gold withdrawals that have been made since last October when exports from the United States were resumed.

CLEVELAND ASKS COAL BOARD TO DELAY DECISION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Henry S. Brainard, counsel for the city of Cleveland, O., asked the bituminous coal commission today to delay action on the city's request for a suspension of minimum prices affecting Cleveland municipal coal purchases. The Federal Court of Appeals here last week granted Cleveland a temporary injunction against minimum prices.

The coal commission decided today that all coal mined in West Virginia is subject to its minimum prices even if sold within the state.

Coincident with the reopening of the commission's hearing on consumer complaints, the Court of Appeals ruled that all railroads which did not sign a petition to suspend the commission prices on railroad fuel would not get the benefit of a temporary suspension order entered last week against minimum prices on railroad coal.

Stock Exchange Seat Sold for $67,000, Up $2,000

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—New York Stock exchange seat values today scored a further recovery over the eighteen year low of $59,000 at which a membership was sold early this month. The latest proposed transfer involved a price of $67,000, a rise of $2,000 over a sale arranged a few days ago. The high price for a seat since the start of the year was $75,000 in January.

Net operating income of the Nickel Plate for January was $117,437, against $704,775 in January, 1937. Net loss for January was $378,896, against net income of $204,478 in January, 1937.

Moffatt Asks Action by Curb to Reorganize

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Following his unanimous reëlection today as president of the New York Curb exchange, Fred C. Moffatt made an inaugural address to the institution's board of governors in which he outlined three recommendations. He suggested that a reorganization plan similar to that undertaken by the New York Stock exchange be studied, that the committee on commissions hasten its work on a new commission rate schedule and that members of the nominating committee be allowed to attend meetings of the board of governors.

Fred C. Moffatt.

Moffatt is the second man in curb exchange history to be president for four years. The other, William S. Muller, was elected vice president today to succeed Mortimer Landsberg. He also was named chairman of the committee on commissions.

Other Officials Reëlected.

Joseph A. Cole, treasurer; Harold H. Hart, assistant treasurer, and Eugene R. Tappen, secretary, were reelected.

In his address to the board, Moffatt declared that consideration of reorganization had become necessary because of the plans now being considered by the stock exchange. He suggested that the board study the problem, determining whether it might be worth while for the curb to use the report of the stock exchange's Conway committee as a basis for action of its own.

Later he indicated that if a committee were authorized it probably would be composed entirely of curb exchange members, since the opinions of the interested public already have been compiled by the stock exchange investigators.

Mass of Data Compiled.

Moffatt said that while committee on commissions has been studying the fee problem for some time, and has compiled a mass of data relative to charges on other exchanges, the matter never has been brought to the direct attention of the board of governors.

Moffatt's third suggestion, departure from precedent, is based on the fact that the five members of the nominating committee, who are chosen each April, are not governors. He said he felt that the membership would be better served if a rule were passed allowing the members of the nominating committee to attend meetings of the governors in order to familiarize themselves with the problems and requirements of the governors.

WESTERN UNION HEAD PLEADS FOR INCREASED RATES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Roy B. White, president of Western Union Telegraph company, urged the communications commission today to approve promtly the application of the principal telegraph companies for a 15 per cent increase in practically all domestic rates.

"We are convinced there is no other way by which we can obtain the funds necessary to meet present day costs of taxes, labor, and material; maintain credit, and continue to maintain the dependable service the public has a right to expect," White said.

Mentioning competition from long distance telephone service and subsidized air mail as one of the industry's problems, White cited as another the burden of taxes under the social security act.

The social security law, he said, "places us in a position of choosing between abandoning about 1,700 pensioners, which we will not do if we can avoid it," or obtaining relief through increased rates.

N. Y. BANK SUES MEXICAN ROAD FOR 60 MILLIONS

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Central Hanover Bank and Trust company today filed suit to collect some $60,000,000 from the National Railways of Mexico.

The Central Hanover is successor trustee to the Union Trust company under a prior lien mortgage of the National Railroad Company of Mexico. The lien mortgage was based on an indenture of March 15, 1902, upon which the National Railroad Company of Mexico issued bonds. The company's property, the suit recited, was taken over, in a reorganization, by the National Railways of Mexico, which guaranteed payment of principal and interest.

On July 1, 1914, said the complaint, there had been a default and nothing had been paid since.

Bill Writing Off 2½ Billion RFC Debt Passed by Senate

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The senate approved without debate today a bill writing off more than $2,500,000,000 in Reconstruction Finance corporation debts to the treasury. The bill, previously approved by the house, now goes to the White House for signature of President Roosevelt. Senator Byrd [D., Va.] said the legislation marked a "return to honest bookkeeping on the part of the federal government."

Byrd explained that the RFC, which obtained all its funds from the treasury, listed among its assets about $2,500,000,000 it had advanced for relief and expenditures in various government agencies.

INSULL UTILITY GROUP SEEKS $417,715 FEES

Creditors May Get 8c on Dollar.

Applications for fees and expense allowances aggregating $417,715.72 were filed yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on behalf of the trustee of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and 14 individuals, law firms, and security holders committees active in the case.

Liquidation of the company, which went into receivership in April, 1932, is expected to be completed soon. Unsecured cerditors, holding $55,000,000 of debentures, are expected to realize about 8 cents on each dollar originally invested in the company's securities.

The largest sum requested in fees and expenses was filed on behalf of the McDevitt committee representing a group of debenture holders. A total of $192,328.55 is sought by the committee, its members, and attorneys.

Asks $50,000 Fee.

John J. McDevitt Jr., chairman of the committee, asked for a fee of $50,000 and an allowance of $3,904.05 for expenses. In addition the committee asked a further fee of $75,000 for its members and two New York law firms which did its legal work. The law firms are Bouvier & Beale and Birmingham & Nixon. The committee as a whole also filed a request for $3,438.77 for expenses and T. Alan Goldsborough, a member, asked $5,832.95 for personal expenses. Goldsborough is a member of congress from Maryland.

Sims & Stransky, Chicago counsel of the McDevitt committee, asked a fee of $50,000 and expenses of $4,157.63. The New York law firm of Curtis, Mallet, Prevost, Colt & Mosle, who also represented a group of debenture holders, requested a $35,000 fee and an allowance of $479.68 for expenses.

Asks $57,865 Expenses.

Harry A. Bigelow, trustee in bankruptcy for the firm, asked an allowance of $57,865.59 for expenses and requested the court to fix the fee for his services.

The expenses which Trustee Bigelow asked the court to approve represent corporation funds that he has disbursed in administering the estate. The application is a formal action, seeking court approval of moneys spent.

Other applications were:

Insull debenture holders protective committee [Bruno Heller, chairman], expenses of $4,988.46.

Joseph M. Checkers, accountant for "Insull" committee, $22,750 fee for secretarial and accounting service for committee.

Two Law Firms Ask $12,500.

Jacobson, Merrick, Nierman, & Silbert, counsel for the Insull committee, filed a combined application with the co-counsel, Adams, Hawxhurst, Hawley & White, for $12,500 fee for legal service to the committee and $2,996.40 for expenses incurred in representing Celia Kelly and others, debenture holders, in suit for recovery of collateral from bank creditors. The two law firms asked the court to set a fee for their legal aid to debenture holders in the Kelly suit.

Hines, Rearick, Dorr & Hammond, New York counsel for Trustee Bigelow, expenses of $39,421.69; left fee to discretion of court. The firm had previously received $8,500.

Rosenthal, Hamill, Elridge & King, Chicago counsel for Bigelow, asked fee to be set by court.

Committee Asks $6,000.

Debenture holders committee headed by William A. Nash, fee of $6,000 and expenses of $16,520.35.

Townley, Campbell, Clark & Miller, counsel for Nash committee, $25,000 fee.

The debenture holders' committees carried on extensive litigation to recover assets pledged by the companies with bank creditors. A settlement entered into several months ago provides that eleven New York and Chicago banks shall pay $3,435,088 to the trustee, and the banks will be given clear title to the collateral they hold. The actual payment to the trustee is expected to be made by the banks in the next ten days. In the meantime attorneys for the debenture holders will ask formal dismissal of suits pending against the banks.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Stock market prices were irregular at the close today, with declines outnumbering the gains, although a mild recovery movement in the final hour of trading lifted the list from the day's lows. Pivotal shares pointed the way in the rally. Trading was slow, 472,050 shares changing hands.

Commission house business was reported at a standstill. Board rooms were largely deserted, only the tickers, which were idle for moments at a time, stirring the quiet.

Steel, metal, and automobile shares led the late rally, with coppers giving the best display. This group started the day higher, slipped, then climbed again. Anaconda, International Nickel, and Kennecott, each up fractions, were active trading mediums.

Steel shares were mixed. United States Steel and Bethlehem, the two most actively traded, closed with fractional gains, while Republic and Crucible eased fractions.

Voting of the regular $2.25 quarterly dividend by the American Telephone and Telegraph company enabled this stock to push into the plus column after early weakness. Western Union also edged higher. Power and light shares were mixed in a narrow range.

Except for Wright Aero, which slumped 3 points in nominal trading, aviations were not much changed.

Dome Mines was flighty in the gold mining group, rising 1⅛ points, while others slipped fractions. Merchandising issues closed near the preceding finals.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Price swings in the bond market formed an irregular pattern of minor up and down changes today. Some secondary rail liens lost ground but buyers were on hand to take others at higher levels and the same was true of utility and communications issues.

United States government obligations ranged from 3-32 of a point higher to 2-32 lower. Gainers and losers were about evenly divided.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks closed irregularly lower after a quiet session at the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Sales totaled 13,000 shares, against 21,000 the preceding session. Only fifty-eight issues were traded, of which seventeen advanced, twenty declined, and twenty-one closed unchanged. The Tribune average of twenty stocks closed 0.04 lower at 9.52. Commonwealth Edison, most active issue, moved up ⅝ to 25. General Household Utilities, also actively traded, advanced ⅛ to 1⅞.

CLEMENT ASKS A CONSTRUCTIVE U. S. RAIL POLICY

Warns Low Earnings Peril Many Systems.

The need for a constructive national transportation policy was stressed yesterday by M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, in the ninety-first annual report of the eastern line. He warned that the low return earned by the railroads on their investment in road and equipment in recent years is inadequate if the roads are to attract sufficient capital at fair rates to enable them to continue improving and modernizing their plants to meet public needs.

M. W. Clement.

Preliminary earnings statistics covering 1937 operations were confirmed in the formal annual report.

Revenue Average Drops.

"The unsatisfactory financial condition of the railway transportation industry," he said, "is due not only to the tremendously increased costs referred to and the unsettled economic conditions of the last few years, but to continuous erosion of the rate structure under which the average revenue received by the railroads for hauling a ton of freight one mile declined from 1.275 cents in 1921 to 0.974 cents in 1936, a decrease of 23.6 per cent, and the average for hauling a passenger one mile decreased from 3.086 cents to 1.838 cents, a decrease of 40.4 per cent in the same period."

Commenting on the application of the railroads for increased rates, Clement said that, compared with costs applicable in May, 1933, the estimated increased expense to the roads as of Jan. 1, 1938, as the result of higher wage levels, higher costs of materials and supplies, and increased taxes, aggregates approximately $665,000,000 a year. The proposed increases, he said, would give the roads $517,000,000 annually.

Sees Many Lines Jeopardized.

"Without further increases," he said, "these higher costs would so accentuate the already unsatisfactory results from operations as to jeopardize the solvency of many important railway systems."

With respect to his own road, Clement told of the sharp declines in freight trafic in the last four months which, together with the steadily increasing operating costs, more than offset the trafic gains made earlier in the year. As a result of this, despite a $14,508,320 increase in operating revenues for 1937 over 1936, there was a decline of $11,179,666 in net operating income.

Operating Expenses Rise.

Operating expenses as a result of rising fuel and material costs, higher wages and other costs showed an increase of $23,873,592 over 1936, Clement said.

Taxes of all kinds continued to increase, recording an advance of $4,618,602 over 1936. Taxes in 1937 took more than 8½ cents of each dollar of operating revenue and were equivalent to 6 per cent or $3 a share on the stock.

Surplus for 1937 was $19,134,172, a decrease of $12,265,179 for 1936. The surplus for the year represented 2.9 per cent on the capital stock, against 4.8 per cent in 1936. The surplus per share was $1.45, against $2.38 in 1936.

Everyday Economics

The Northern Pacific "Corner."

The spectacular rise in price of Northern Pacific railroad stock in May, 1901, has gone down in history as being the result of a corner, although strictly speaking the case does not fulfill the requirements of a true corner.

It was the result, rather, of frenzied open market buying by two banking groups struggling for control of the road. The predicament in which short sellers found themselves is said to have been incidental, and the two opposing groups were among those which took steps to relieve the market panic caused.

The Morgan-Hill and the Kuhn, Loeb-Harriman interests began buying the stock in April. In the eighteen days ending May 9 the price rose from $101 to $1,000 a share. Shorts, trying desperately to cover at the rising levels, had to dump other securities to buy Northern Pacific. United States Steel plunged from 46 to less than 20, and virtually all other issues except Northern Pacific joined in the rout. Banks, scared of lending, boosted the call money rate to 60 per cent.

The two opposing banking groups then discovered that, between them, they had bought more stock than was possibly available, and on May 9 they made an agreement giving shorts an extra day's time to deliver. On the same day J. P. Morgan & Co. loaned $6,000,000 in the call money market at 6 per cent to help ease the crisis. Later the two groups agreed to settle with the shorts at $150 a share, $850 below the top.

FURTHER CUTS IN STEEL PRICES HELD UNLIKELY

Although the reduction of $4 a ton in prices of cold rolled steel sheets has caused a widespread disturbance of market conditions and consumers are sitting on the side lines to an even greater extent than in the last few months, there is no indication of a general downward revision in steel prices, Iron Age said yesterday.

"On the contrary," the publication said, "it is expected that nearly all present prices will be reaffirmed for the next quarter, with the possible exception of some adjustments to iron out price relationships of sheet mill products closely allied with cold rolled sheets.

Under present conditions of rigid labor costs and high priced inventories, surprisingly little sentiment in favor of general price revision, either among steel producers or large consumers of steel. There is still the fear that price revisions would cause wide repercussions, affecting wage rates and bringing about a further downward spiral."

Export business continues in fairly good volume, Iron Age added, but said that scrap markets are weaker. Its composite scrap price is at $13.83 a ton, down 17 cents from the January level.

LAMB PRICES LOWEST SINCE DECEMBER, 1934

Lamb prices yesterday dipped to the lowest levels since December, 1934, on moderate supplies. Low wool prices and lack of consumer demand for lamb meat at prevailing low prices discouraged buying at the stockyards. Top grades of fat lambs sold off 10 cents at $7.50, while the bulk of the crop cashed 10 to 15 cents lower, from $7.25 to $7.40. The day's top price was $3.25 under the top cattle sale yesterday and $1.25 under the top hog sale.

Live costs of hogs and cattle advanced a little. The increases in both were mostly 10 to 15 cents. Spots in medium and heavy butcher hogs indicated gains of as much as 25 cents, the upturn in lard stimulating demand for the crop of fat, heavy stock that is selling well below the top light hogs. The average advanced 10 cents to $8.10.

Improved action featured the 10 to 15 cents higher market for beef steers. The top load reached $10.75, while the bulk of sales ranged from $7.00 to $9.00. Fair to good beef cows brought mostly $5.35 to $5.75, about steady prices. Hefers were more active than cows and slightly higher.

New Company to Write Marine, Auto Insurance

Insurance writings of the newly formed Transportation Insurance company, an affiliate of the Continental group of Chicago, will be confined to inland marine and, to a limited extent, to automobile fire and theft, the Continental Casualty company announced yesterday. A charter was granted to Transportation Insurance on Feb. 11. "The purpose of the organization of the Transportation is to conserve certain lines of insurance which have been lost to companies under marine coverage—a line not permitted under the charter of Continental Casualty," it was stated.

COTTON

Cotton prices fluctuated in an erratic manner within a moderate range yesterday. Trade reports showed mixed opinions as to the probable effect of the farm bill on the market. Liquidation by holders of March contracts was offset to some extent by trade buying. Professional operators were aggressive sellers of the deferred futures at times, in sympathy with the easiness in securities.

Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were .01 cent a pound lower to .03 cent higher. Other American markets were .05 cent higher to .04 cent a pound lower.

Sales of print cloths and sheetings in New York on Tuesday were estimated at 12,000,000 to 16,000,000 yards.

Spot cotton closed .05 cent higher to 05 cent lower, with New Orleans, 9.10 cents; New York, 8.90 cents and Galveston and Houston at 8.75 cents a pound. Prices follow:

LARGE BLOCKS OF LISTED ISSUES SOLD PRIVATELY

Actions Are Attributed to Thinness of Market.

New York, Feb. 16. — [Special.] — Private placement off the stock exchange of several large blocks of listed securities, including 12,000 shares of Tidewater Associated Oil common, have taken place in the last week or ten days, and many offerings are now being made over the counter it was learned today. Such sales are said to be made because of the thinness of the market and SEC restrictions.

Other blocks which have been sold privately recently include 8,500 shares of United corporation preferred, and 100,000 shares of Yuba Consolidated Gold Fields, a stock listed on the Toronto exchange.

It is understood that a block of about 40,000 shares of F. W. Woolworth common was offered several weeks ago. It was not known whether all of the offering had been taken.

Large Block Offered.

Brokers who are making a specialty of placing stock off the exchange reported today that 20,000 shares of a low price active issue is being currently offered, and that the offerings of blocks of preferred issues are too numerous to mention. One preferred offering included 50,000 shares of a simple stock.

The 12,000 shares of Tidewater Associated Oil stock were offered by a stock exchange house and distributed to other exchange houses. Such offerings usually are at or slightly under the current market price.

It was learned today that the 25,000 share block of Phillips Petroleum which was sold off the exchange in the latter part of January was part of 70,000 shares which have been offered and sold within the last few months. Woolworth stock is offered occasionally in large blocks.

Offered in Small Blocks.

Besides the Phillips sold off the exchange in January, some of the others were small blocks of General Electric, Monsanto Chemical, and Crane company.

Many brokers believe that due to restrictions and the thinness of the exchange market the private sale of securities will increase steadily.

One large house has considered the possibility of executing privately short sales in listed securities. In this way the new Securities and Exchange commission short-sale rule could be avoided. It is not believed, however, that short sales privately will be practicable.

BRITISH FOREIGN INCOME$250,000,000 UNDER OUTGO

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Anxiously awaited official figures tonight showed that Britain had lived on her capital abroad to the tune of more than £50,000,000 [$250,000,000] in 1937.

According to the annual estimates of the board of trade, there was a deficit of £52,000,000 in the nation's balance, in which income from shipping, insurance, and overseas investments is set against the excess of real imports over exports. This is the biggest deficit in Britain's international account since the crisis of 1931, when sterling was forced off gold.

Even the officia. estimate, however, is almost £32,000,000 less than the unofficial figures drawn up by responsible authorities in "the city."

The reason for last year's deficit is the rearmament program which has caused imports to soar £443,000,000 above the exports for the year.

Business Bits

Walter Lichtenstein.

The federal advisory council of the board of governors of the federal reserve system has reelected Walter W. Smith of St. Louis and Howard A. Loeb of Philadelphia president and vice president, respectively, the board announced yesterday. With these two men as ex-officio members, the 1938 executive committee will consist of Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Winthrop W. Aldrich of New York, Lewis B. Williams of Cleveland, and Thomas M. Steele of New Haven. Walter Lichtenstein of the First National Bank of Chicago was reappointed secretary.

Promotion of a city-wide campaign to encourage the revival of Chicago business through coördination of labor and building industry interests will be discussed at the Morrison hotel Feb. 24 when 2,500 members and friends of the Chicago Contractors' association will gather at their 33d annual banquet. Superior Court Judges John P. McGoorty and James F. Fardy will speak on local housing conditions. John R. O'Connor, federal housing administrator, will attend.

The Securities and Exchange commission announced it will hold a hearing in its Chicago office to determine whether the registration of Edlin Dyer & Co., Chicago, as an over-the-counter broker or dealer should be postponed or denied. No date has been set for the hearing.

Paul Schulze of the Paul Schulze Biscuit company will speak to the Comers club of Chicago this evening in the Electric club in the Civic Opera building.

The Illinois Society of Structural Engineers will hear J. L. Farelly, its financial secretary and treasurer, speak on "The Unemployment Situation of the Structural Engineer" at its meeting tomorrow evening at 180 West Lake street. Farelly has just completed a survey of conditions in the engineering field.

A Chicago Mercantile exchange membership has been posted for transfer to William J. Fox, Chicago.

Alexander Bicks, New York attorney, was elected a director of the Crocker Wheeler Electric Manufacturing company to represent a group of stockholders headed by Arnold D. Kates. Kates said he represented fewer shares than those for which the management held proxies, but that the management had agreed to give his group representation on the board. Henry L. Crowley and William J. Timmerman Jr. also were elected directors. The new directors succeed Dr. Charles F. Burgess, William D. Sargent, and Edward C. Jones, who retired from the board.

BOOKS JUGGLING AUDITOR HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

Check Possible Profits in Rise of Stock.

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Raymond Marien, 45 year old accountant who puffed up the books of the Interstate Hosiery Mills, Inc., more than $1,000,000, was held without bail today on a forgery charge. The attorney general's bureau of frauds is attempting to learn if there was any rigging of the stock on the basis of the inflated values.

Why Marien juggled the books remained a mystery. He first denied to police that he profited from the transactions, then later admitted, according to an assistant district attorney, that he had obtained $1,200 on three forged checks.

Probe Rise in Stock.

Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall today examined Ivan Selig, president of the company, in an effort to learn if officials of the company profited by trading in their own stock, which rose from $7 a share in 1933 to $42 a share in 1936. Marien's manipulation of the books started in 1934.

Directors of the company are conducting an independent investigation to discover if Marien traded in the stock. Selig said that of the 98,219 shares outstanding 48,000 were held by officials or directors.

He said that the assets were more than $1,000,000 out of line. Officers of the company will restore approximately $400,000 to the company, this representing bonuses which had been paid to them on the basis of the inflated net profits.

Paid $32,000 Bonus in 1936.

Selig said that he received $32,000 in 1936 on the basis of 7 per cent of all net profits over $200,000. There also probably will be a substantial government tax refund to the company when the true valuation is determined.

Stockholders met today and adjourned until March 16, when, it is hoped, the new auditors may have a report ready.

When Marien was arraigned today in Felony court it became known that he had previously been convicted of attempted forgery in 1924. In 1924, under the name of Erasmus R. Marien, he was sentenced to an indeterminate term not exceeding three years in the penitentiary. He fled to France with his wife and three children and had to be extradited. Subsequently he was put on probation.

Magnolia Manor.

Investors' Guide: In cleaning out an old trunk belonging to my father, who died recently, I found a bond called the Magnolia Manor first 6½ per cent bond of 1929. Has this bond any value now?—Miss C. D.

Answer: Magnolia Manor first 6½s of 1929-'37 are currently quoted around 10 cents on a dollar bid.

Paramount Second Preferred.

Investors' Guide: Is Paramount second preferred stock redeemable?—B. L.

Answer: Paramount $10 par second preferred stock is redeemable at any time on not less than 60 days' notice at par plus accrued dividends.

Haynes Copper.

Investors' Guide: Years ago I bought stock in the Haynes Copper Mining company of Arizona. Could you tell me what ever became of this company? I suppose I should not bother you with this matter because the stock probably is worthless.—R. B. L.

Answer: The Haynes Copper Mining company of Arizona became bankrupt about 1914 and its properties were sold by order of the court. According to a reliable manual of extinct or obsolete securities, there was nothing left for the stockholders. We believe you were wise to investigate the value of your stock because occasionally a security of an extinct company has value.

Income Tax.

Investors' Guide: For income tax purposes please tell me how much in dividends was paid last year on the common stock of Brillo Manufacturing company and the Bendix Aviation corporation.—T. J.

Answer: Payments in 1937 totaling 75 cents a share were made on common stock of Brillo Manufacturing and $1.00 a share on Bendix Aviation stock.

Wagering Losses.

Investors' Guide: I bet on the horse races now and then. Last year I did not do so well. Can I deduct my losses from income in figuring my income tax?—P. B.

Answer: The federal revenue act now in effect states that wagering losses shall be allowed only to the extent of the gain from such transactions. Accordingly, if you lost more than you won in betting on the races, you cannot deduct your net loss from other income for tax purposes.

Salesmen.

MEN

THIS IS YOUR BUSINESS.

We make a straight-from-the-shoulder statement of a business possibility that will cost you money to ignore. Our deal is brand new, and entirely a new invention in the electrical appliance field, and amazingly different.

Now, we are not spending money to kid any one, and I am not interested in men answering this ad who are just trying to get work. I want men that really want work. We have 60 men in this organization who are happy making money. Absolutely no investment on your part. We pay rent, light, heat, stenographer, etc., place you where the business is and pay you weekly. Earnings will average $50 to $100 a week on a commission and bonus basis. I want good men, others stay away. I will prove that you can make $50 a week on sales now if you really want a job. Investigate this profitable business at 2225 West Pershing-road at 1 p. m. Thursday. No other time. Late arrivals will not be interviewed.

RESPONSIBLE MEN.

We are expanding our operations and our progress calls for a number of new men of good character and adaptability. Percentages make this a permanent opportunity at substantial pay, and a good future with a financially strong, old company.

Inasmuch as there is nothing similar to our product we cannot get men experienced in our work, so we require ability to learn, as well as diligence and responsibility. No cost of any kind.

Call between 9:30 and 12 noon, room 604, 20 East Jackson, Thurs., Feb. 17, 1938.
